First Regular Session, 89th General Assembly

---

FIRST DAY, Wednesday, January 8, 1997

The House was called to order at twelve o'clock noon by the Honorable Rebecca Cook, Secretary of State.

Prayer by Father Hugh Behan.

"Without a vision the people perish." (Prov. 24:19).

We begin another year in the calendar, and the 89th General Assembly, First Session, and we join with Congress as it began the 105th session yesterday.

We have memories of great deeds done in this chamber, and of shameful ones, we have had reason to be proud and to be embarrassed. We have sometimes thought only of today and about the next election, and we have sometimes taken the long view, the vision which makes us truly human.

Today, gracious God, we remember in a special way the former members who have served here, we think especially of Jim Sears and his untimely death, we include also members of the staff and lobbyists as we pray for peace for the family members who mourn their passing and recall their memories.

We pay special honor today to our family members and staff whose sacrifices, support and work are so much a part of who and what we are and do in this chamber.

Eternal Father, may we do what we can this year to be responsive to the spirit of the times, and provide a service that is as free as possible of pettiness, as rich as possible in bi-partisanship, as daring as possible in genuine reform, and above all, may we be as faithful as possible to the State's motto that the well-being of all of our citizens must be the Supreme Law. Amen.

The Pledge of Allegiance to the flag was recited.

SECRETARY OF STATE ADDRESSES THE HOUSE

I would like to welcome all of you today, especially the family and friends of the members who are about to be sworn in.

It is my honor and privilege to convene this session of the Missouri House of Representatives. This is a great institution and I know all of you are honored to be a part of it.

You men and women, who are soon to be sworn in as members of this body, are of all ages, from all professions, economic backgrounds, religious denominations, from all parts of the state, and have had varied life experiences.

That diversity provides strength to this body. It is that reflection of all segments of society that makes a representative government work best, ensuring that the voices of all citizens are heard.

I'm certainly happy to be back here. I'm glad to see all of you back here.

The people have sent all of us a clear message that they want and expect to see more bi-partisan cooperation; more action and more progress.

My office has important legislative proposals we will present and certainly we will need the help and cooperation of all of you.

In the same way, we expect to, and want to, extend to all of you the resources and cooperation of our office.

Together we can meet the challenges facing this state.

Together we can elevate the educational concerns of our children over narrow issues of partisanship.

Together we can advance the health care concerns of all the people over the narrow agenda of special interests.

Together we can produce a comprehensive review of elections laws and securities regulations which will promote better government and protect all the citizens of Missouri.

Each of you has been elected to represent nearly 32,000 citizens in your respective districts. As members of the House of Representatives you are bonded by the common thread of the honor & responsibility to serve the people of this great state.

With the 24 members taking the oath for the first time today, there will have been six thousand four hundred and thirty three men and women who have served in this body since Missouri became a state in 1821--that makes you a very select group of people.

When you represent your district well, you honor this institution and its great tradition. You serve the cause of democracy.

Congratulations to all of you. May God be with you as you work together to improve the lives of Missourian.

COMMUNICATION FROM THE SECRETARY OF STATE

To the Honorable House of Representatives of the Eighty-Ninth General Assembly, First Regular Session, of the State of Missouri:

In compliance with Section 115.525, Revised Statutes of Missouri, 1994, I have the honor to lay before your honorable body herewith a list of the names of the members of the House of Representatives for the Eighty-Ninth General Assembly (First Regular Session) of the State of Missouri, elected at the General Election held on the 5th day of November, 1996.

IN TESTIMONY WHEREOF, I have hereunto set my hand and affix the official seal of my office this 3rd day of January, 1997.

The Chair ruled Representative Scheve elected temporary Speaker of the House.

The following committee was appointed to escort Representative Scheve to the dais:

Representatives Goward, Rizzo, Carter, Koller, Green, Smith, Williams (159), Cooper, McClelland and Wannenmacher.

Representative Scheve assumed the Chair.

Thank you, Secretary Cook.

I would like to thank my colleagues for allowing me to serve as temporary speaker during this important decision of electing our new speaker.

I would like to take this opportunity to introduce to you someone who has provided me with love, strength and support.

In 1990, we were 25 and traveled to Jefferson City to file for office.

During our 1992 re-election campaign, we squeezed in our wedding between the primary and the general and now as we enter our 4th term we are preparing for the arrival of our first child on the 4th of July.

Please join me in welcoming my husband, Tim Reardon.

Representative Backer nominated Representative Steve Gaw for Speaker of the House.

Madam Speaker, House protocol dictates addressing our fellow colleagues as either "Lady" or "Gentleman". Sometimes it is difficult to address one another by that title, especially in the heat of disagreement. However, that difficulty has never surfaced when addressing the gentleman from Randolph, for no matter the issue or situation, Representative Gaw is truly a gentleman in every sense of the word.

Last year this young man was given a great responsibility by the members of this body when he was elected Speaker of the House. Storms and turmoil seemed destined to control, but as he told us in his acceptance speech, he was determined to clear the skies. And clear the skies he did.

Fairness and respect are not just "feel good" words used by our Speaker. Rather, they are important elements of his deep ethical beliefs.

Being a physics major, Rep. Gaw is a true believer of theory, and as a representative of the people he is a true believer of reality. Consequently, he is able to combine theoretical doctrines with realistic solutions.

He understands the theory of welfare and reality of reform.

He understands the theory of education and the reality of educating.

He understands the theory of the work ethic and the reality of a livable wage.

Our Speaker, in other words, has the knowledge and the wisdom to help lead our great state into the new millennium.

It is with sincerity, utmost respect and great honor I nominate a true gentleman, Rep. Steve Gaw, from the 22nd District for the position of Speaker of the House.

Representative McLuckie seconded the nomination.

I am humbled by this new responsibility, but also very excited. Excited the way many of us felt when we were freshmen and starting our 1st legislative session.

But as we go about our work the next few months we need to be reminded of those who sent us here. The people of this great state.

We are the servants of the people we represent. We have taken an oath today to serve the people of Missouri to the very best of our ability and that is what I am asking all of us to do today and the rest of our public life by renewing our commitment as public servants.

I am asking that all of our actions be directed toward the greater good of our fellow Missourians. I sincerely believe that we have that responsibility since we do serve in the peoples' house.

We must work hard to make sure their voices are heard. I also ask all of us here today to remind ourselves that we are not here for ourselves, but for those people we represent. As I look around the chamber I see a group of people who are as diverse as the people we represent.

I am convinced that despite the differences we can find common ground that will lead to a positive impact on all of us.

I am eager to start work this session and I know you are too. Let us all focus on the positive - in doing so when the end of session is here we will know we have done our best in fulfilling our duties as representatives of the people.

SPEAKER ADDRESSES THE HOUSE

For the 89th time in its great history, the citizens of the state of Missouri have instructed their elected representatives to meet and consider changes in the laws governing this state.

I thank my colleagues in the Missouri House for the honor you have given me today. I appreciate your confidence and hold sacred your trust.

I have one other person I would like to thank today. As all of you know, the past year has brought many new demands and sacrifices to my personal and professional life. Despite all the changes and the new challenges, there is nothing more important to me than the woman I share my life with. Please join me in saying thank you to my wife, Fannie.

I also extend my congratulations to those who have been selected to return to this glorious chamber, and my special congratulations to those who are serving in this chamber for the first time. I ask all members who have been elected for their first full term to stand up and receive our congratulations.

I asked for all of you to stand for two reasons. First, to honor you for your commitment to this state. And secondly, because that may be the only opportunity you have to be applauded for something that you do here.

In all seriousness, the tasks we have before us, like our commitment to them, are great. Eighteen weeks from Friday, we will adjourn and history will be the judge of our efforts.

Our body, the Missouri House of Representatives, is constantly judged by the people we serve. When voters went to the polls in November, they reelected all current statewide officials and left the political makeup of this body essentially the same. This indicates, to me, the public is generally satisfied with the direction this state has been headed for the last four years.

Consider where this state is at this point of time in history. Our state economy is strong, our tax rate is 49th in the nation, and our unemployment rate is low. We are one of the few states with a Triple-A bond rating and we have been recognized as the third-best fiscally-managed state in the country.

More criminals are being prosecuted and they are being punished with some of the toughest sentencing laws in the country. And for sexual predators, there is no place to hide in the state of Missouri.

We are noticing marked improvements in our education system as well. Learning has been enhanced with reduced class sizes, educators have better access to new technology and grants are now available for increased security in our schools. Our students are receiving a better education and we have given the public important tools to monitor the success of their local schools.

The quality of health care in this state is improving, with important advances in childhood immunizations, and longer maternity stays for new mothers.

The outlook for Missouri business is strong. During the last four years:

more than 300,000 new jobs have been created;

our efforts to reduce the costs of workers' compensation insurance has had a positive and dramatic effect on those rates; and our export business continues to grow as current markets are demanding more of our goods and new markets are opening up to us.

Hundreds of new businesses are now calling Missouri home, and hundreds of existing business have expanded.

Now, our task is to build on this record of accomplishment. In doing so, let us see not just the path at our feet, but to the horizon to which it leads.

This year we will face issues that will take much of our attention.....complicated issues such as additional welfare reform, managed health care, and tax increment financing. We will have an opportunity to eliminate the general sales tax on food and make college and technical training more affordable.

But the real test for our success must be in the results we produce----for Missouri's families, and most importantly, for the future of Missouri's children.

While we have come far in four years we have farther yet to go.

Listen to some of the statistics from the 1996 annual KIDS COUNT report, compiled by the Citizens for Missouri's Children.

Our infant mortality rate, while decreasing, is still too high, since of every 1,000 children born in Missouri, eight are expected to die in infancy.

More than 28,000 Missouri children are born with low birth weights.

In 1995, 280 teenagers in Missouri died a violent death, a 16 percent increase over 1994.

Nearly 34,000 teenagers dropped out of school in the 1993-94 school year. Estimates by education officials say about one out of every four freshmen students this year will drop out by the year 2000.

While this news is disturbing enough, the report states that rates for minority children in most of these categories are two to three times higher than those for Caucasian children. The Department of Corrections say that about 36 percent of inmates entering our system are functionally illiterate and around 45 percent do not have a high school diploma.

We need to carefully analyze this and other information and determine how to make this a better state for children to live in.

There should be little doubt that eliminating the general sales tax on food will have a positive impact on the lives of working Missouri families. This, simply, is an issue of fairness.

The current tax refund system of returning money collected over the Hancock Amendment lid rewards the wealthiest Missourians who pay income taxes. The working men and women of Missouri who put food on the table and pay sales, property and other taxes, deserve the direct benefits of this sales tax reduction.

Investment also needs to be made this session in the future of Missouri students wishing to go to college. The governor's proposal to issue tax credits up to $1,500 per year for the first two years of post-secondary education will greatly assist students whose only obstacle to higher learning is a financial one.

The measure also allows adults who need to go back to be retrained when old skills are no longer marketable. Such investment produces positive long-term results for the individuals and for the state. The wisdom of such investments should be obvious.

But some of our long-term challenges this year will come from reform in welfare. The positive results of the welfare reforms approved by this body two years ago are evident---moving 43,000 individuals from welfare to work. With proposed additional adjustments to Missouri's laws on child support enforcement -- parents, not the state -- will bear a larger responsibility.

But we must take care this year to avoid the pitfalls of short-term success at the price of long-term failure. Numbers of individuals moving from welfare to work should not alone provide the measure for our success.

We should consider other things as well---and central among them should be our children and their future.

Where will we be in 15 years if children of single mothers going into the workforce have no stable day care?

Where will we be on children's health if children go uncovered because we have not bridged the insurance gap that exists between the Medicaid-covered welfare recipients and the uncovered children of many of the working poor?

Where will we be on employment opportunities for young men and women in our inner cities and rural areas?

I think the question that should be asked when we examine legislation this session is where will we be as a result of our actions in five, 10, 15 years?

Will we produce more high school dropouts in prison or more graduates at work?

Will we lower the number of our low birth weight babies, saving lives and millions of dollars of health care costs?

Will we lower the number of births to single teen mothers?

Will we decrease the number of violent juvenile deaths?

Will we create support systems for children without traditional family support in day care and community?

Will we invest in our children's future with the zest that we now spend on building walls to protect us from the failures of our past?

It is time for us to take our eyes off our feet and put them on the horizon. Let us set goals that establish standards to measure our state's and communities' success.

Let us all work together with the enthusiasm generated from knowing we are not lost in the wilderness, but are headed in the right direction.

We can look back with the perfect vision of hindsight over the last four years knowing that we have made progress. Let us move forward striving for a similar vision of the future for everyone in Missouri, but mainly for our children.

Thank you.

VERIFIED PETITION FOR ELECTION CONTEST

Comes now Michael R. Frame, candidate for election for State Representative for the 105th District of the Missouri House, being duly sworn for his Petition, pursuant to Section 115.563 revised Missouri Statutes, 1982, for a contest of the election held November 5, 1996, and states the following as his election contest causes of action:

1. Contestant, Michael R. Frame was the Democratic candidate for the 105th District of the Missouri House of Representatives at the general election held on November 5, 1996.

2. Contestee, Marilyn Edwards was the Republican candidate for the 105th District of the Missouri House of Representatives at the general election held on November 5, 1996.

First Regular Session, 89th General Assembly

SECOND DAY, Thursday, January 9, 1997

Speaker Gaw in the Chair.

Prayer by Reverend Cheryl L. Tatham.

Your people met to pray this morning, O God of faith, called to that task by the Governor of this great state.

And this House now comes to you in prayer as we gather for another day of business in this new year. Give us, O God, a sense of respect and reverence for what we do here. Let us never do work of which we are ashamed. Let us never stoop to that which is mean or low. Let us never do in the present that which in the future we would have cause to regret.

We pray today for the people of California, Washington, Oregon who battle the ravages of flood waters. We pray for the leaders of each state in this great nation that they, too, might be guided by your hand in their deliberations. We pray for the leadership of this country as we move closer to the dawn of a new century.

As the days of this session unfold before us, help us to keep our actions unselfish and considerate of those whom we serve and who have entrusted us to represent the needs of the people of Missouri. Amen.

The Pledge of Allegiance to the flag was recited.

The Journal of the first day was approved as printed.

First Regular Session, 89th General Assembly

FOURTH DAY, Monday, January 13, 1997

Speaker Gaw in the Chair.

Prayer by Father Hugh Behan.

"Let us work for the good of all." (Gal. 6:10)

As I drove into the city from the west side of town this morning, the Capitol building was silhouetted against a clear sky, with the rising sun shining brightly behind it. I began to wonder about today's inaugural activities, and the work that we are about in this session; I wondered also about our fellow citizens and what today's activities will mean to them, and how many of them will watch or listen or read or care.

Gracious God, as we give thanks once again for the orderly transition of power, with the taking of the oath of office by Governor Carnahan and the other state-wide officials, we re-commit ourselves to bringing honor to the work we do, doing the best we can to fulfill the pledges in our oath of office, seeing to it that as many of our constituents as possible are informed and involved in what we do and that our procedures allow for as much participation as possible. May we work, as Paul the Apostle asks in today's Bible verse, "for the good of all." Amen.

The Pledge of Allegiance to the flag was recited.

The Journal of the third day was approved as corrected by the following vote:

Values and Vision: The Summons to a New Century

Governor Mel Carnahan

Jefferson City, Missouri

January 13, 1997

Two rural school teachers made a lasting impression on me. They were my parents--one a school superintendent; the other an English teacher. Both had a way of going far beyond what was expected of them.

When they saw youngsters coming to school hungry, they knew that little learning would take place. So they started a hot lunch program. They hauled surplus flour and butter from the railway depot to school in their pickup truck so bread could be made for the students.

Because my father knew that education was more than reading and writing, he formed a band, and became its leader. He also felt that learning teamwork was important, so he organized a basketball team. Of course, the school couldn't afford a coach, so he took on the extra duty himself.

And because there were some students who lived out beyond the bus routes and couldn't get to school, my mother and father took those students into our own home to stay during the school year.

I've thought of my parents often during the past four years as I have served in the office of Governor--the place where I now have the chance to affect the education of Missouri's children.

I evoke their memory today because who we are, and what we value most comes from the past. As we stand here today, we are encircled by the symbols of Missouri's heritage--the capitol...church...courts...and citizens of our state. I am also mindful that we are gathered in a capital city named for one of the great founders of democracy, Thomas Jefferson. We are here today because he--at the turn of a new century--dreamed of a nation that would one day stretch from shore to shore.

Today we approach our new century.

A lot has changed--not just from Jefferson's time, but even from the days of my parents when it was a huge undertaking to travel ten miles from home. Today we ride over highways undreamed of back then. One such highway is already transforming our lives--the information super highway. Last month we heard about a new computer that performs a trillion calculations a second; it handles in fifteen seconds what would take someone with a calculator 250,000 years to accomplish.

We prepare to explore a new era--an era in which learning to operate a computer will be as crucial as it was for our parents' and grandparents' generation to operate a car.

These generations of Missourians met their challenges and left us a worthy example--they helped America fight and win cruel wars, came home and built the strongest economy the state has ever seen, and sent a message of freedom heard around the world.

We must not mock their vision with lesser dreams.

Enriched by their values, inspired by their achievement, we are intent on giving our children the tools and opportunities needed for global living.

In keeping with that commitment, I will--as my first official act of this new term meet with some students of the high school graduating class of the year 2000.

To those students and others like them, I pledge not merely to celebrate what we have accomplished, but to dedicate myself to those whose accomplishments are yet to come.

Such work does not begin today; we have made progress since I stood here four years ago.

Missouri's economy is strong, with more than 300,000 new jobs.

We are reforming Missouri's schools, cutting the crime rate, and moving people from welfare rolls to payrolls.

When disaster struck, in the form of the worst floods the state had seen in hundreds of years, Missourians moved quickly to help their neighbors. We created relocation plans for the future that have already saved millions of tax dollars and much disruption of lives.

I say all this not just because of the statistics--for there are limits to what numbers can tell us about the daily lives of people.

I speak of our progress because I have seen it first hand.

I've seen it in Rogersville, where I went to one of our A+ Schools and spoke with high school seniors who would have been dropouts, and now are being trained for real jobs.

I've seen it in Nevada, where folks are converting an abandoned building into a telecommunity center. Soon they will be able to use video conferencing and other high tech resources--usually available only in big cities--to compete for new businesses and jobs.

I've seen it at William Woods University, where a woman who had been on welfare recently came up to me. She was in the FUTURES Program--Missouri's superb initiative designed to train able-bodied welfare recipients and get them back on their feet again. This young woman was graduating from college and beginning her new life as a teacher. She pointed to her own two children, two and four years old, and said--"The FUTURES Program not only made a difference for me, it's making a difference for them."

Yes, we are preparing our people and our state for the 21st Century. But much is left to be done.

The achievements of a generation, like any journey, are made up of small individual steps.

The most important of these steps will be made hand-in-hand with our children, whose care and future we value more than our own well-being.

It has been said that: "A child is a person who is going to carry on what you have started. He is going to sit where you are sitting and when you are gone, attend to those things which you think are important. He will assume control of your cities, states and nations. The fate of humanity is in his hands. Teach him well."

Abraham Lincoln put it this way in one of his earliest of public statements: "I view education as the most important subject which we as a people can be engaged in."

I think this is what Governor Lon Stevens had in mind at his inaugural exactly a hundred years ago. As he stood on this hilltop, looking into a new century, he reminded Missourians that when it came to our public schools, "nothing should be more carefully guarded or more vigorously promoted."

What was true in 1897 is equally true in 1997.

Let there be no doubt--this administration will vigorously promote education, not just with words, but through plans and hard work that translate into achievement.

To those who know that the skills for the jobs of the 21st Century cannot always be acquired by the 12th grade, we pledge an all-out effort to make grades 13 and 14 as available as a high school diploma is today.

To those who know that without computer training you cannot find opportunity in the workplace of the century ahead, we pledge this--a state in which every school is linked to the information highway, and equipped with the computers to provide hands-on training for every student.

Let it be our goal to make every Missouri youngster computer literate by age twelve.

To those determined that Missouri's colleges and universities maintain their excellent reputation, let me say this--we too, share that resolve. There should be no company locating in another state because workers with the skills needed by new businesses were unavailable within our borders.

Reaching new levels of excellence will not be easy for any of us. The difficulty of educating a child is apparent to anyone who has sat with a son or daughter over algebra homework, or tried to persuade them to turn off Nintendo 64 to read a book.

Education doesn't just happen in the classroom. It happens in the home. It occurs when schools are safe. It comes when students are healthy and well-nourished.

And so, we further pledge that we will create the surroundings in which education can flourish, where schools are free of guns, gangs and drugs, and where learning is enhanced by good health and nutrition.

And because we know that learning begins long before school ever starts, we are expanding our nationally recognized Parents as Teachers initiative and support for early childhood education. We must make Missouri a state in which every child goes to school healthy, immunized and ready to learn.

A while back, as I toured a school with the local superintendent, he explained his approach to education. "We want to leave no child behind," he told me as he proudly pointed out the extra effort his community was putting forth to keep children in school and excited by learning.

His is a fitting goal for all of us. We must improve learning in all our schools, from Hayti to Hannibal; Eminence to Independence; St. Joseph to St. Louis.

Economically and socially, we cannot afford a Missouri of educational haves and have-nots.

We must leave no child behind. If we are to embrace the future, we must first embrace the child.

This cannot be the mission of government alone. Nor can it be accomplished only with dollars and hardware.

So, I urge new partnerships to begin between government and business and communities that will forge new endeavors. Surely, the education of our children is too important to remain the province of one party or one administration. We seek, we need the abilities and insights of all. Only then can we thrive as a people.

We in this age of technology know that the finest computers will help us realize our aims only if those using them are instilled with the values and vision on which our state and nation have been built.

This is truly our greatest challenge as we are summoned by a new century. One that calls for bold plans and courageous deeds.

May we not approach this new era with faltering steps or flinching spirit.

Rather, let us go forth hand in hand, like partners in a great adventure. Girded in faith, made strong by hope, firm in the knowledge that He who directs the course of the universe as well as the flight of the sparrow, will guide us in a sure and certain path.

And generations from now, when the balloons and bunting are gone, and when our speeches are shelved in the archives, those who are children now will remember our deeds. May they look back and say, we preserved the future for them.

Let them say, too, that Missouri, once the gateway to the frontier, opened a gateway to the future. And in that new era, may we be guided not only by innovation and enterprise, but by virtues as timeless as those taught by those two Ozarks school teachers who shaped my life more than half a century ago.

The Harris-Stowe State College Concert Chorale, under the direction of Dr. Doris Jones Wilson, sang "The Battle Hymn of the Republic".

The Benediction was pronounced by Pastor Sammie E. Jones, Mt. Zion Missionary Baptist Church, St. Louis, Missouri.

On motion of President Pro Tem McKenna, the Joint Assembly was dissolved.

The University of Missouri-Columbia Symphonic Band, directed by L. Kevin Kasterns played musical selections.

First Regular Session, 89th General Assembly

FIFTH DAY, Tuesday, January 14, 1997

Speaker Gaw in the Chair.

Prayer by Father Hugh Behan.

"The prayer of the humble pierces the clouds, and it will not desist until the Most High responds.

(Sirach 35:21).

It is the morning after the Inaugural activity. Soon we will be seriously about the business of the House and of the General Assembly.

Gracious God, we ask today that this short time of prayer each day as we begin the session, would be like salt to our work, something simple which gives it flavor and taste and makes sense of the joys and frustrations of the day; we ask also that this formal prayer would be accompanied by regular prayer each day in private, and with friends and family and with the House's own weekly breakfast session and that the whole week would be brought together at our home worshipping community on the weekend." Amen.

The Pledge of Allegiance to the flag was recited.

The Speaker appointed the following to act as Honorary Pages for the Day, to serve without compensation: Erin Hogshead, Megan Freidman, Todd Levine, Chris Morris, Brian Schwierjohn, Garrett Stokan, Adair Stokan, Michael Mitchell, Milton Mitchell, James Knowles, Sarah Wagner, Alisha Bailey, Megan Wolf, Brie Wolf, Amalie Laustsen and Julie Laustsen.

First Regular Session, 89th General Assembly

SIXTH DAY, Wednesday, January 15, 1997

Speaker Gaw in the Chair.

Prayer by Father Hugh Behan.

"(I) have come not to be served but to serve". (Matthew 2:27).

May we take our theme for the prayer today from the theme of the upcoming memorial service for Jim Sears. It is so easy to get caught up in the power and the rush of work. Humble us Lord, keep us aware that we are servants, and no matter how strong or powerful, or ambitious, or how much money or education or social or political connections, we have at best a fragile grasp of life. May our integrity, our character, our willingness to give rather than receive, be the solid ground on which we stand, as it was to Jim. Amen.

The Pledge of Allegiance to the flag was recited.

The Journal of the fifth day was approved as printed by the following vote:

MEMORIAL SERVICE FOR REPRESENTATIVE JIM SEARS

Eulogy by Representative Farnen:

I'd like to thank everyone for coming here today, especially our honored guests, and, of course, all the members of the Sears' family.

Before I was elected to serve in this chamber, I made my living as a writer. But writing a eulogy for a best friend was a challenge that I thought was many years away.

Before I began this task, my biggest anxiety was that my writing skills wouldn't be able to match the vibrancy and fullness of Jim's life. I mean, can any words adequately convey the true essence of any man -- let alone a unique personality like Jim Sears.

So, with that in mind, it was with some trepidation that I began to write about the Jim Sears that I knew.

For a full and accurate accounting of a man's life, you must add up his debits as well as his credits. What were Jim's faults? While no man is perfect, I honestly can't think of a major defect to report to you. Well, OK, he did lie about how great a fisherman and hunter he was. And it's also true that he told some of the worst jokes in the history of mankind -- most of which involved some sort of barnyard animal. Jim had a great sense of humor, but every once in awhile he'd come up with a pun so bad that it made you groan and feel nauseous. Believe it or not, those bad puns are one of the things I miss most about him.

We also had friendly debates about his preferences in food and cultural diversions. He was a man of simple tastes. "Fine dining" for Jim was to order the "supersize" fries at McDonald's. His definition of "classical music" was anything by Hank Williams.

But these really weren't faults. He was the least pretentious person I've ever known. He liked what he liked, and he wasn't about to change for anyone. But at the same time, he never looked down or criticized other peoples' tastes or lifestyles. And while I occasionally joked with him about his tastes, in reality it was I who learned more from him than anyone else in my whole life.

So, just what are those other positive qualities about Jim that made him so special?

I think one of the things that I admired most about Jim was his ability to stay true to himself, no matter what the situation. This political culture in which we exist and thrive sometimes seems to favor those who grandstand, or who are petty or self-indulgent. And yet, Jim succeeded by being none of those things.

Jim was quiet, unassuming and modest -- never blinded by ambition. Just take a look at the issues he concentrated on while he was a House member. Water bonds, rural economic development, weed control. These are not issues that get you on the 6 o'clock news or the front page of the St. Louis Post-Dispatch. But he didn't care because those were the issues that were important to the people back home.

Let me tell you a story about Jim that happened one year ago but that wasn't widely reported. During our infamous leadership turmoil, Jim turned down two appointments that would have been extraordinary for a freshman legislator. Even though his rural area desperately needed an advocate on fiscal matters, he turned down a seat on the Budget Committee because he thought someone else was more deserving. He later gave up a committee chairmanship solely to help promote harmony within our caucus. Even though he wanted, and frankly, deserved these two positions, he turned them down, and he did it without complaining, without leaking it to the press and without throwing a fit in caucus. I wonder how many of us would have done the same.

Jim Sears was a true family man. He wasn't one of those "election year - family values" politicians who are home long enough just to take a picture for his campaign brochure. The one thing he hated about this job was the time it took him away from Debbie, Kelsey and Rodney. He was constantly making sacrifices for them, and it was his family's future well-being that was one of the major reasons he decided to go to law school.

I spent a lot of time in Jim and Joe's office -- so much so that some people were surprised to find out that I do have an office of my own on the second floor. But every time I was there at night bugging Jim while he was trying to get some work done, either he would take the time to call Debbie or she would call him. They weren't "checking up on each other," they called each other because they wanted to. And if the kids were still up, Jim would insist on talking to them and telling them how much he loved them.

Jim was a positive person. He didn't attain his office by negatively attacking others or demeaning this body. He was honest and open and friendly, and he attempted to get along with everyone, despite any partisan labels. Of course, he had some friends here whose relationships he especially treasured.

Robert Clayton, Jim loved your sense of humor and sardonic outlook on life.

Don Summers, he admired your commitment of your family and attempted to emulate it.

Mr. Speaker, he respected your sense of fairness and regard for ethics.

Marilyn Williams, he loved your down-to-earth wit, and he was one Yankee that treasured his membership in the Bootheel Caucus.

Larry Thomason, Don Koller, Henry Rizzo, Jack Hickey, Bill Skaggs, Dick Franklin, Sam Leake and O.L. Shelton: Jim probably never told you this, but one of the reasons he loved this job was because he got to sit around with people like you and listen while you told stories about your experiences as legislators. He even liked the stories that were only partially true. He had a real appreciation for the history of the House, and he also revelled in a camaraderie that, frankly, isn't what it used to be.

And Joe Heckemeyer, in you I believe Jim found a kindred soul. He admired your affability and laid-back approach in dealing with problems. Perhaps most of all, he treasured the good times he had with you, and he looked forward to a lot more of them.

I can't end without mentioning Jim's dedication to the people back home -- his constituents. This was a man who -- despite holding public office -- was deeply loved by the people of the 1st District. The only time he had opposition he got 88% of the vote, and in his home county of Scotland he got 95%. Even in the bad old days of the Soviet Union, there were unopposed Communists who got less of a percentage than Jim.

The people loved him for a lot of reasons. Part of it was certainly his hard work. Part of it was his fun and informative morning broadcasts on KMEM. But most importantly, Jim was simply their friend. He was real and genuine and never forgot his roots. If it's true that Will Rogers never met a man he didn't like, then it's equally true that anybody whoever met Jim Sears couldn't help but come away liking him.

Those of you who were nice enough to attend Jim's funeral were able to witness this relationship firsthand. More than 1,500 people crowded into a high school gym on a dreary holiday weekend to pay their respects to someone very special. This was more than just a routine funeral for a prominent citizen. It was more deep and complex than that. These people came to say goodbye to one of their own who had succeeded in life simply by living up to life's highest ideals.

Because of his popularity, Jim could have taken it easy and coasted in his role as state representative. But instead he strove to work harder than any other legislator I've known. Many times he would try to make two or three meetings on the same night at faraway points within his district -- and believe me, it's a large district. The huge amount of mail he got in his office was a running joke between us, and his phone bills were always ridiculously high because he called so many constituents to help solve their problems

In the next few days we'll be debating how much we as legislators deserve to get paid. Despite any differences of opinion or grandstanding on that issue, I think we can all agree that even if Jim had been paid three times the proposed increase, the people of the 1st District would still have been getting a bargain.

I could go on for hours about the profound loss that we have suffered. But we need to move on, so I'll conclude by letting you know that by the time I finished typing this speech late last night on an old, battered typewriter, I was no longer intimidated by the fact that my lack of writing or oratorical skills might not match the glory of Jim's life. I realized that no matter how uneloquent or inelegant this eulogy might be, in the overall scheme of things it was irrelevant. Because even in the prematurely shortened life that he led, Jim achieved what he had set out to do. And that was merely to be the very best possible father, son, husband, legislator and friend.

Eulogy by Representative Heckemeyer:

Jim Sears was my friend. And he was the friend of many of you in this room. I remember the first day I met Jim Sears about 2 years ago on our Freshman Tour. The first time I met Jim Sears, Jim came up and said, "hello, my name is Jim Sears, and I said, "my name is Joe Heckemeyer." "Where are you from Joe?" " I'm from Sikeston. Where are you from, Jim?" "I'm from Memphis." "Hold up! What are you doing here, Memphis is in Tennessee?" Jim further inquired, "what counties do you represent?" " I don't represent counties, I represent parts of New Madrid, Mississippi and Scott counties." "Scott!" he said, "well I'm from Scotland and I represent the counties of Clark, Lewis, Schuyler, Scotland and Knox." I said, "Jim you said whole counties" He said, "yeh, I represent whole counties. There aren't many people where I am from and it's poor." I said, "well, I am from an area just as poor." "What do you do, Heckemeyer?" "Jim, I'm a farmer and I've got crops, I am an entrepreneur and I do other things on the side to make a living." He said, "well, I work for KMEM, a radio announcer and I'm the voice of the fighting bulldogs from Northeast Missouri State University." He was very proud of that.

Also, on that tour I made other friends, one just spoke, Ted Farnen. As you can tell, Ted is a very good journalist, his experience comes from working here in the Capitol building for the Senate and at some time he was also a writer for the Sedalia paper. I asked, " Ted where are you from?" Ted said "I am from Mexico". Maybe my cardinal directions are backwards in my mind. Maybe the bootheel is in the north part of the state of Missouri. Two people right off from towns with southern names.

The third gentlemen I met, and I was in total awe, came from Hannibal, Missouri. I knew where that was, I had heard about Hannibal. He was 24 years old, just won a race to become a legislator and had just passed the bar. Twenty-four years old, doing all these things, that's really incredible.

Those of you who went on the freshman tour know pretty well the routine. You get up early in the morning and when you come to your final destination in the evening you get an hour or two to rest and get your things together. When the bus pulled up in front of the hotel, all of us would run out and grab our keys. "I'm looking for room 415, another 210, etc. and then we would group together before going to our rooms and agree to meet at a local watering hole. "Hey, we'll all meet back together for a cold one with the gentleman from St. Louis." A few minutes after, we all would head to the spot and sure enough David Reynolds would be in there having one and Dave would have stories to share with us. And if there were not stories to talk about, we would talk about things of his day: Mickey Carol, Pinky Pevely, and other stories, some that revolved around the Wizard of Oz. When David couldn't carry the conversation, Jim would jump in and say something about sports and then Farnen would make some smart comment. Of course the rhetoric between the two was hilarious. If nothing was going on, we made something go on. When something was going on, we would draw a crowd. And for that hour in every town we stayed in, we really had cherished and memorable moments.

When we completed the tour, the day and got off the bus, we were told our room assignments. Jim was the first off the bus. "Hey Heckemeyer, you and I are rooming together." I said "alright". We were placed on the fourth floor and were really proud about it. "We'll get somebody to open our door and all meet over there. Then we'll go out and find the other rooms of our friends from the Freshman tour." Jim and I were checking out our offices. We were checking out the furniture and trying to figure things out. Low and behold, the witty one finds our offices, the king of comedy, Ted Farnen comes in the door. "Well, I suppose this is the office of the redneck and the hick". I looked at Jim, and of course he thinks faster than I do, he said, "are you the redneck or the hick?" I said, "I don't know, but I don't think I want to be called a hick." At that time, we had an argument on who's the redneck and who's the hick. The young lawyer walks in the door. We look at him and said, "look, here's a lawman, he can tell us what's going on." Clayton grabbed his glasses nervously and said, "I don't deal with such matters, besides, you guys couldn't afford me." The truth is, we probably couldn't.

But through that tour strong bonds were made between the four of us and through those bonds we have had some unique opportunities to visit different parts of the State and to go to events in each other's districts. It's amazing when you do go up into Northeast Missouri. You go up and see Jim's district and see that his district loves him. And you could also see that Jim loved his district.

Something else about Jim. It's amazing Ted thought of same things that I did and we had not talked before about this ceremony or about what each of us were going to say.

There are times that we would sit down together and share thoughts. I think, at this time, the youngest of us was twenty-four and Jim was probably the oldest, about thirty-two. Other than David, sorry David. We would sit and think, "you know, these years of our lives are very important years for building up money and making something of yourself." Term limitations are in affect now and we would look at a young man, who is in his prime, thirty-two years old, and has two babies and a wife and think about his future. Jim would say, "Joe, I could sit here for another six years, possibly eight years. If I sit here for another six years, I've got a chance to become a Senator." "You know I am never going to make any money. I have got to do something for me and my family."

Ted was right. Jim was very giving. He would give you the shirt off his back if you were in trouble. Everything he had, he would just give to you. We had more conversations, "well what are you going to do, Jim". Jim said, "I am going to go to law school, and I am going to do four more years in the Legislature and then we'll see what happens." "By the time I've done four years, I will have my law degree. So if something goes wrong, I will have something to fall back on." He loved KMEM, but he wanted something a little better for his family. For those who do not know what happened to Jim, he was driving home from law school when he had his accident. And I reflect back upon what happened to Jim. I don't have pity on Jim because Jim was one of those guys who rode the merry-go-round of life and he rode it hard, always reaching for the brass ring, pushing life to its fullest. Something happened. His horse tripped and he fell off that merry-go-round. He's no longer with us. I can't explain what happened. I don't think anybody can. There's no rational reasoning for it. No one could possibly be blamed for what happened. I do feel sorrow for his family and I miss his presence because he was always good to cut in with humor when he had the opportunity. Boy, his input was brilliant! And when the king of comedy was present, before you know it, we would again have an audience. We would all act to our best.

I wonder where Jim is? What is Heaven? I look above and is Jimmy looking down upon us or is his soul among us. I know that if he can be with us, which I do think he is, his first priority is being with his family in Memphis, Missouri, the real Memphis. If I could speak to Jimmy right now, the last thing I would say, "I know you are a selfless person and I know that you will do this for me. Pray for us Jimmy, pray for us that we will do right and guide us. If you are capable of seeing what's happening to us." Then I would have to say, "Jimmy, goodbye, until we meet again." Thank you.

Eulogy by Representative Summers:

There's not much more to say, other than punctuate what the fine gentlemen have said about our friend. I've already apologized to Debbie, this was not a good day to lose my voice. In North Missouri, we set a lot of store in being a good neighbor. Jim was a tremendous legislative neighbor. Between us, we covered eight Northeast Missouri counties, and we would try to cover for each other. I remember one time in particular he said we needed to go to the Golden Corral but he meant Ponderosa. We chased each other all over town trying to make another meeting.

We had some great times and got to know each other well, on some very long drives from Northeast Missouri. We rode down together on the freshman tour. I've never gotten to know someone so well, so quickly. There are so many memories of Jim I'll treasure.

Jim loved the young people of Northeast Missouri. We shared legislatively the schools of the Tri-Rivers Conference. Jim's radio station, KMEM covered the Tri-Rivers Conference exclusively. Many times he would come over and greet my guests, recognizing them and their accomplishments from many years past.

One of the things I thought about doing this morning was to play a tape of Jim calling a football game. He was excellent! And he was proud of being the voice of the NMSU Bulldogs. If you heard him on the radio, he sounded so good, you could picture him in a posh skybox filled with sophisticated equipment. In reality, he was in a very cramped space, with ratty equipment, making it sound like he was working for NBC or ABC. In between calls or during commercial breaks, he would be telling a joke or giving Debbie a kiss. He made broadcasting look easy, and he will be missed by many sports fans in Northeast Missouri.

We want to share a couple of songs with you. The Old Rugged Cross was a favorite of his and was sung at his funeral where fifteen hundred of his closest friends came to honor him. The we'll sing Amazing Grace. When we are through, we will ask you to join us for the first verse.

One final thing, I don't think a day went by that Jim didn't talk about Rod, Kelsey, and Debbie and what was going on at home. That was the center of his universe. Whether it was fun times, or in the middle of some of the more gut wrenching time we have down here, he never forgot the ones he loved back home.

Musical Selection by the General Assembly Gospel Singers: Representatives Barnett, Marble, Ross, Scott, Summers and Senator Rohrbach.

Prayer by Father Hugh Behan.

Gracious God, we ask you to hold Jim Sears in the palm of your hand today and to let Deborah, Kelsey and Rodney, his parents, Jerry and Ruthie, his brother, Lonny and his wife Teresa, and other family and friends feel the power of your love and the healing peace which comes from Jim to them this morning in that powerful bond of spiritual unity, which we cannot define but which we have so often experienced; let them also have fond memories of the love that is also being mediated through this beautiful expression of sympathy and support and memorial tribute.

We offer our prayers and ask for peace also for the other deceased members of the General Assembly, and for family members and for people who walked these halls during the past several years as lobbyists and supporters. We pray also for their family members, and for those suffering from serious illnesses and other troubles at this time.

I close with an Irish blessing. "Ar Dheis De' Go Raibh A'nanam" "May his soul be at the right hand of God". Amen.

First Regular Session, 89th General Assembly

SEVENTH DAY, Thursday, January 16, 1997

Speaker Gaw in the Chair.

Prayer by Representative Kelley (47).

O God, our God, we come to acknowledge you as our creator and the One from whom all blessings flow. We praise you and thank you for those blessings - for the gift of life, for our families, friends, and for the moral principles you have given us, for its gift of salvation, and for your promise to always be with us. As legislators we come humbly to acknowledge that we are sinners who do not have all the answers to the problems of the world. We ask your forgiveness for our sins and pray for your wisdom to guide us as we make important decisions.

We pray for Rev. Cheryl Tatham as she faces surgery and also for Mrs. Erma Heald Daley, Sandy Kauffman's mother, who also is having surgery to repair a broken hip. Grant them healing, peace and comfort. Watch over us as we travel home and keep fresh in our minds the memorial service we shared yesterday and the memories of Jim Sears and his family. We pray you will keep close to them and inspire us with their example to be close to our family in the days ahead. In Jesus' name we pray. Amen.

The Pledge of Allegiance to the flag was recited.

VACANCY: 002

The doorkeeper announced the approach of the Honorable John C. Holstein, Chief Justice of the Missouri Supreme Court. Chief Justice Holstein was duly escorted to the House Chamber and to the Speaker's dais where he delivered the following message to the assembly in Joint Session:

STATE OF THE JUDICIARY ADDRESS

by Hon. John C. Holstein, Chief Justice to Joint Session of the General Assembly

January 16, 1997

Mr. President, Mr. Speaker, Members of the General Assembly, Ladies and Gentlemen:

The millennium is upon us. The last time we entered a new millennium, there were ominous predictions of wars of Armageddon, pestilence, and death. And with good reason. If you were to look at the world a thousand years ago, it was not a very happy place to live. Most children didn't live to reach school age. And, of course, there were no schools as we know them. Such reading and writing as existed was done in monasteries in a language that was used by no one in daily conversation. Such laws as existed were written in Latin and were edicts of a king rather than the deliberate acts of a popularly elected legislative body. One significant difference between the law then and the law now is the ability to communicate the law to every citizen. No one could have predicted in the year 997 the means of communication that would be invented. It began with the printing press and extended through the microchip. But all this information is here, and we in government must learn to harness it and use it.

A thousand years ago, the people believed that trial by fire or trial by water were valid methods of determining the truth. It would be a couple of centuries before the guarantee of a right to a jury trial would find its way into our common law system. It would not be until this country was founded that the right to a jury trial would be permanently placed in state and federal constitutions. The jury trial has served us well. It is a marriage of the best of our legal system and of democracy. It was born in England, but it grew to maturity here. Modern constitutions have given the promise of other rights that we all hold dear when we find ourselves in court; the right to counsel, a fair and speedy hearing before an impartial judge, and equality for every citizen in the courts. While our court system is populated by humans and is capable of making mistakes, it also has the wonderful ability to correct mistakes. I hope the members of this body would approach any change in our state court system with a healthy degree of skepticism. But there are areas of our law where change is essential.

As I noted last year, for more than twenty years, the chief justice of the Missouri Supreme Court has been invited to speak to the General Assembly. We are grateful for that opportunity. One of my predecessors, when he was chief justice, Robert Donnelly, spent most of his time speaking of the tension that had developed between the state and federal courts regarding federal intervention in state cases. He pointed out that individual federal trial judges were, in effect, overruling decisions of the Missouri Supreme Court, particularly in criminal cases. He suggested that there may be little reason for state courts to review post-conviction claims in capital cases. Chief Justice Donnelly's frustration was not ignored. But it took more than 15 years for his message to sink in.

In recent habeas corpus reform by Congress, strict limitations were placed on the power of federal courts to review state convictions. However, to obtain the benefit of those limitations on federal habeas corpus review, the state had to reaffirm its obligation to ensure adequate representation of defendants in capital cases.

The Missouri Supreme Court, in an effort to ensure that such federal review and its accompanying delay is minimized, adopted a rule effective on July 1, 1997. It requires that public defenders designated to represent indigent defendants in post-conviction capital cases must meet minimum experience requirements. Unquestionably, there will be a cost associated with this. Some view this as a shifting of responsibility by the federal government to the states. The fact is, it is the state that makes the determination that it will seek the death penalty and, therefore, it is only appropriate that the state pay its costs. I see the federal habeas corpus reform not so much as Congress instructing the state on how defendants in capital cases should be represented but, rather, a recognition of the state's inherent responsibility to ensure adequate representation of every indigent defendant that is called to account in its courts. The public defender must have the resources to hire and retain experienced attorneys. These resources must include reasonable salaries, office facilities and support staff. I would urge both the Governor and you as you consider the budget request of the public defender commission to take into account its needs for adequate office space and staff salaries. These are essential to secure the promise that effective and experienced attorneys will be representing indigent defendants in criminal cases.

Last year, you will recall I told you that I had recently appointed a committee to study court security in Missouri. The committee, headed by Chief Judge Robert Ulrich of the Missouri Court of Appeals, Western District, reported back late this summer. One of the recommendations in the report was that the responsibility of the marshals for security of the Supreme Court and Court of Appeals buildings and judges should be spelled out in the statutes. We will be seeking legislation this year to make clear that the marshals and security officers have the necessary authority and the responsibility to provide such security. Other steps are being taken to heighten the awareness of local circuit courts, courthouses, and sheriffs regarding evolving security issues. We will be seeking authority to employ a court security specialist to provide advice and assistance to local circuit courts in these matters.

To ensure equal justice under law demands access by all, even the poor. In the past, it has been a combination of free work by lawyers plus federal funding and private contributions that have ensured that the poorest people in Missouri are able to access Missouri's courts.

Lawyers are doing their fair share. In fact, some are doing more than their fair share in representing the poor. In Missouri, there are 3,000 lawyers who regularly take cases without fee from six legal services offices located in the state. That accounts for more than 15% of the legal aid services cases in Missouri. In addition, there are thousands of attorneys who represent their clients for little or no fee, but receive no recognition for it in the statistics of the legal services agencies. I know of no profession that does more to help the poor than do these attorneys. The Missouri Bar Board of Governors is taking steps to encourage increased private contributions and lawyer participation in legal services. This is a story that the news media simply does not cover.

Even though lawyers are providing enormous amounts of money and energy to this cause, I challenged them to do more at the annual meeting of The Missouri Bar. I am today asking the state of Missouri to do more. Federal funds are drying up. But this is a state justice system, and the state has the responsibility to keep that system open to all who need access. As you did last year for the first time, I would ask that you continue to provide funding for legal services so that the poorest among us will have access to our system of justice. Indeed, unless the very poorest do have access to our court system, it is difficult to consider it fully a system of justice.

In most areas, the growth in case loads has been modest. But the caseloads continue to grow at an alarming rate in the area of family law. More than 14,000 more domestic relations cases were filed in 1996 than in 1992. Through transfer projects, we have been able to move judges to where the caseloads exist in order to maximize the number of cases that can be disposed of by our courts. In general, we either transfer judges or rely on senior judges to handle these growing caseloads. In particular, during FY96, 34 retired judges accepted assignment to serve as senior judges. Those judges provided the courts with 455 weeks of judicial service. Senior judges have proved most valuable where vacancies had occurred due to retirement or illness, or caseloads demanded attention. These judges have kept dockets current until a replacement was appointed or in order to keep the court current. In effect, our senior judges have provided us nearly 10 judges in the fiscal year 1995-96. I want to thank the General Assembly for fully funding the senior judge program, and I would ask you to continue to fully compensate these judges for their work. They are doing an outstanding job.

At the 1996 meeting of the Judicial Conference, it was recommended that our circuit court clerks all be appointed. First, let me say that in my personal contact with elected circuit clerks, most, if not all elected circuit clerks are doing an excellent job. However, the position is critical to the operation of the circuit courts. There is no reason that good circuit clerks should not have the same job security as is held by deputy circuit clerks. As all of you are keenly aware, it takes an inordinate amount of time, money and energy outside the courthouse to run for elective office. That is time taken away from managing the millions of dollars, the records, and hundreds of personnel who work for the courts. The number of cases, the amount of money and the complexity of our courts require the constant attention of those in a managerial position. By making the clerks responsible to the judges who, in turn, are responsible to the people for running the courts, we will assure a close working relationship and, I believe, a more efficient operation of the circuit courts. I commend the proposal of the Judicial Conference to you for your consideration.

Being a court clerk is no longer the uncomplicated job of keeping the files. Today clerks assist claimants in filling out small claims petitions, prepare adult abuse pleadings and give advice to potential litigants. They handle millions of dollars in child support collections. These are tasks that clerks ten years ago would not be asked to do. Clerks must know the fundamentals of using spreadsheets, databases and word processing in the new electronic world. These clerks are in need of training to keep up with the increasing sophistication that is occurring in the court operations. With computerization we must take steps to keep clerks in touch with the new technology now being placed in the courts across the state. We are asking the General Assembly to appropriate funds to provide training to the more than 1,800 clerical staff in the circuit courts. We need to establish a permanent inservice professional training program for clerks equivalent in amount and quality to that provided for other state employees.

The vision of the Missouri court automation project is service, justice and access. Last year, I mentioned the electronic library on compact disks made available to all judges. During the past year, we have adopted a computer network architecture plan which established standards for the wiring, software and hardware for the new automated system. Pilot courts are being assessed and brought into alignment with those equipment standards.

We now have a statewide electronic mail communication system. We are making better use of the internet. As I reported last year, cases of the Missouri Supreme Court are now in full text on the internet. Last month, the cases of the Missouri Court of Appeals, Eastern District, were placed on the internet. We anticipate that the other two districts of the court of appeals and several circuit courts will also have information available on line in the very near future.

As the circuit courts come onto the internet, they will be able to give detailed information not only to lawyers but to all citizens about dockets, where to file small claims or an adult abuse action, telephone numbers to call to obtain legal assistance, and even forms for simple claims that may be prosecuted without an attorney.

During this summer and fall, we have begun procurement of a case management system, a system that will apply to all divisions of all courts across the state. There are 27 pilot project sites, but there are two that will be the primary test sites, Montgomery County and Jackson County. It is our belief that if we can make the case management system work in both of those counties, it will work in every county of the state. The case management system is the critical centerpiece of court automation. With the case management system and the legislation you passed last year, we will be able to ensure accurate, uniform assessment and collection of costs. Internal and external electronic audits will be possible. Fast and accurate electronic transfer of funds from local courts to the agency entitled to those funds will become possible. The case management system extends to every aspect of every case, from civil to criminal, from juvenile to probate, from small claims to appeals. Once complete, it will give people outside the courts, including executive agencies, law enforcement, attorneys, news media and ordinary citizens access to information. It is an ambitious project. No state has successfully accomplished a statewide, all-encompassing case management system. Some have tried and failed. We've learned from those failures. We have moved cautiously. We've had a number of intermediate successes. All that is missing is the necessary funding to move forward into the last five years of the project.

As most of you are aware, the name of our court automation project was EC/2004, referring to the fact that we believed from the beginning that it was a ten-year project. However, the startup funding through court costs was only provided for five years.

The successes already mentioned have proven that we have developed an electronic court system that has the capacity to connect all courts in the state with each other and all lawyers with the courts. Indeed, all citizens of the state are now connected with the judicial branch of government through the internet and electronic mail. In order to complete the mission which the courts have been given, and for this valuable project to continue, it is now necessary that we extend the funding to the year 2004, as originally envisioned.

We are asking that the court costs of $7.00 per case be extended to the year 2004. In addition, we will be working to develop a long-term, stable method to ensure the revenue to maintain the system and ensure staff training for those who will be operating the system.

You have a working judiciary. I am very proud to be a part of it. The most obvious evidence of that work is in case disposition rates. Since adopting case disposition time standards in 1994, the time between filing and disposing of felony complaints has dropped 36%. For misdemeanor informations, the time for disposing of cases has dropped 45%. In the area of domestic relations, the time for disposing of cases, statewide, has dropped 32%. Again, I think our judges and the lawyers who try cases before them are to be complimented on the way they move cases. It has also required the efforts of every clerk in the state to maintain this kind of growth. Whatever may be happening in other states, I'm pleased to report to the legislature that in Missouri there are no case "overloads" in any circuit.

As some of you know, I have an office which stands opposite the capitol, in the red brick building. In a few weeks, I'll look across the lawn in front of the capitol and I'll see the tulips and daffodils begin to push up through the earth. The grass will again turn green. The trees will begin to bud. Dozens of yellow buses will begin to appear in the driveway in front of the capitol building. Out of those buses will come thousands of young people. Among them are tomorrow's voters, representatives, senators and chief justices. They're usually boisterous, and some of them are even unruly. At times they'll clog the hallways and make it difficult for us to move from one place to another here in the capitol building or over in the supreme court building.

Yet one of the great pleasures of my work has been to visit with some of these young people. I try to explain to them something about the building and give them a sense of Missouri history and a broad idea of what the courts do. Then I usually open it up for questions.

Last year, I was set back on my heels by a question of a fifth grader. He asked why these buildings are so fancy. I had to think a minute. Why do we have the ornate buildings, the high ceilings, the marble pillars and the words of great thinkers and spiritual leaders chiseled in the walls? Why do we have the inlaid wood and the beautiful works of art both in and outside the buildings? As I thought about that question, the answer came to me. The buildings remind those of us who work here that we're only here temporarily. The buildings and the values chiseled into the walls were put here years before we came, and will be here years after we're gone. We're merely the caretakers of a dream. Our purpose is to pass on the dream, established by others and inculcated in us, to another generation.

The words we use today are new: electronic courts, judicial resource allocation, case disposition standards. Next year, there will be a new chief justice with new ideas and renewed enthusiasm for the work. It's our form of term limits. But for our state courts, the dream remains constant: to provide a just and speedy disposition of every case on its merits and to make that system of justice accessible to all citizens of Missouri. We pledge to join hands with you to make this dream a reality.

Thank you again for allowing the chief justice to share these thoughts with you.

XIII, Section 3, Subsection 8).

WHEREAS, the purpose of the commission is "to ensure that the power to control the rate of compensation of elected officials of this state is retained and exercised by the tax paying citizens of this state" rather than by the general assembly (Art. XIII, Section 3, Subsection 1) and

WHEREAS, in order to fulfill this purpose, the Constitution provides that affected public officials shall not receive compensation for the performance of their duties, including salaries, mileage allowances or per diem expense allowances, "other than in the amount established for each office by the commission"; and that "The schedule shall, subject to appropriations, apply and represent the compensation for each affected person beginning the first day of July following the filing of the schedule ..." (Art. XIII, Section 3, Subsection 8)

NOW, THEREFORE, BE IT RESOLVED by the senate of the first regular session of the eighty-ninth general assembly, the house of representatives concurring therein, that the secretary of the senate and chief clerk of the house of representatives, upon adoption of each of the following sections by a majority of members of the senate and a majority of the members of the House of Representatives, respectively, shall communicate such adoption to the Governor and the Secretary of State:

1. That a per diem allowance of eighty-six dollars per day for each day that the general assembly is in session shall be authorized effective July 1, 1997, and that the amount appropriated for such purpose shall not exceed such authorized amount;

(b) That increases provided by the schedule for judges of the associate circuit divisions of the circuit court be implemented at the rate not to exceed twenty-five percent of the increase provided by the commission for fiscal year 1998 only. Such increase in the base salary would be 5.7 percent for fiscal year 1998 and that amount appropriated for such purposes shall not exceed such authorized amount. Further consideration of the unfunded portion of the commission's recommendations for salaries of associate circuit judges be deferred until the second regular session of the eighty-ninth general assembly, after the general assembly has considered the issue of whether or not the Constitution should be amended to eliminate the requirement that an associate circuit judge be required in every county and after the general assembly has considered the issue of deployment of judicial resources and legislation needed to ensure efficient use of associate circuit judges on a statewide basis;

(c) The amount of per diem reimbursement for expenses incurred during meetings of the Missouri judicial conference be calculated in the same manner as the amount of per diem is calculated for legislators and the amount appropriated for such purpose shall not exceed that authorized amount;

(d) The chief justice of the supreme court shall continue to receive the additional two thousand five hundred dollars currently provided by law to such position;

5. That the increase provided by the schedule for members of the general assembly be implemented at a rate of ten percent per year over a four-year period, except as may be adjusted by cost of living increases in the manner provided by section 105.005, RSMo.

In the event that the general assembly shall approve appropriations in excess of the appropriation necessary to implement this resolution, then the schedule of compensation shall be deemed disapproved as of the date of the adoption of this resolution.

---

EIGHTH DAY, Monday, January 20, 1997

Speaker Pro Tem Kreider in the Chair.

Prayer by Father Hugh Behan.

"God formed the (human) of dust... and breathed into his nostrils the breath of life". (Gen. 2:7)

Today we join in spirit in the Inauguration of the President. We also honor the memory of Martin Luther, Jr.

Our Bible verse today comes from the Book of Genesis, whose opening chapters are foundational to our civilization; its basic ideas are shared by all the thoughtful women and men of all major religious traditions around the world.

We pray, gracious Love, for a spirit of humility, which allows us to admit that we are but made of clay, material, finite, prone to nothingness, "pots of clay" in the Christian apostle Paul's phrase. We are also called to a higher dignity, made in your image O God, destined to rise above our weakness and to be noble. We praise you today for giving us noble leaders who have gone before us to give us the Constitution and system of government which allowed the 35 words of the oath of Office to be recited only five hours ago on the Capitol steps in Washington, D. C., for the swearing in of the President. We thank you, Lord, for giving us prophets like Dr. King who called us to see how far short of those noble words we had fallen.

Today, we pray that we hold the two truths in balance - our weakness, our sinfulness, and also the grace and the calling which lifts us above to do better, to bring justice, to turn words into plowshares. May we press ahead and be about the unfinished business of ennobling all of our citizens. Amen.

The Pledge of Allegiance to the flag was recited.

The Journal of the seventh day was approved as corrected by the following vote:

SPECIAL REMARKS BY

REPRESENTATIVE DANIEL

FOR

MARTIN LUTHER KING JR.'S HOLIDAY

"As long as machines, computers, profit motives and property rights are considered more important than people, the giant triple evils of racism, militarism and economic exploitation are incapable of being conquered"

Dr. Martin Luther King, Jr., 1968

Read what he said. Don't let them tell you who Dr. King was. If you let them tell you who he was, you might not like him either. Let him be who he was. And if you don't want that, if you don't believe that, get another hero. But don't try to put words in his mouth. If he had been moderate and corny, he'd be alive, giving us moderate and corny advice. He's a man who gave his life for democratic struggle, for respect of people no matter what kind of money they have and for peace. But just as importantly, he gave his life for justice and the struggle for justice. No justice, no peace.

by Rep. Lloyd Daniel, taken from his book

First Regular Session, 89th General Assembly

NINTH DAY, Tuesday, January 21, 1997

Speaker Pro Tem Kreider in the Chair.

Prayer by Father Hugh Behan.

"Have unity of spirit, sympathy, love for one another, a tender heart, a humble mind." (I Peter 3:8)

"Rather than make more heat, you make less house." This piece of wisdom comes from the 1997 Old Farmer's Almanac. While it applies literally to saving fuel in the home during the month of January, I want it to be a prayer for this month.

Gracious God, we are faced on all sides with cuts, threats of cuts; "downsizing" has become a common word, popular if it is not applying to my sacred cows-my job, my program, our party's special interests. We are charged in this House with being good stewards, of being managers of the limited resources of our citizens. Give us wisdom, Lord God, to know that if we shut off a room to save fuel, we may have left some of our fellow-citizens to die in the cold, while others suffocate with too much heat, more than enough for reasonable needs. Give us tender hearts for humble services. Amen.

The Pledge of Allegiance to the flag was recited.

The Journal of the eighth day was approved as printed by the following vote:

First Regular Session, 89th General Assembly

TENTH DAY, Wednesday, January 22, 1997

Speaker Gaw in the Chair.

Prayer by Representative Relford.

Behold, how good and how pleasant it is for brethren to dwell together in unity.

What a wonderful word "UNITY" - one that is often spoken but not often put into practice. Allow this body to listen to the people that we represent. Understand their problems and act wisely.

Open our minds that we might go from this place each day with a feeling of respect, if not agreement for our fellow legislators.

Bless this nation and state; the leaders, especially our Governor who will address us. Give us the wisdom to listen and agree or disagree but do so in a way that will honor us all.

In the name of God our Creator, we pray. Amen.

The Pledge of Allegiance to the flag was recited.

The Speaker appointed the following to act as Honorary Pages for the Day, to serve without compensation: Joshua Harlow and Austin Harlow.

VACANCIES: 002

The Doorkeeper announced the approach of the Honorable Mel Carnahan. The Governor was duly escorted to the House Chamber and the Speaker's dais, where he delivered the following message to the assembly in Joint Session.

STATE OF THE STATE ADDRESS

BY

GOVERNOR MEL CARNAHAN

January 22, 1997

Mr. President, Mr. Speaker, Mr. President Pro Tem, distinguished state officials, members of the 89th General Assembly, and citizens of Missouri:

INTRODUCTION

While every public official in this chamber was preparing to come here this morning, over five million other Missourians were also starting their day.

Outside of Kansas City in the suburban community of Lee's Summit, Mary Capell has already done 45 minutes of aerobics, showered, dressed, fixed breakfast, and taken her child to daycare so she can open her office at Precision Cable. Mary is no longer on welfare because of our nationally recognized welfare-to-work efforts. She was hired by Precision Cable and has already received several raises and promotions. She is also attending classes at Longview Community College three nights a week to get her business administration degree.

On the other side of the state this morning, in the small southwest community of Crane, Katy Paschall is getting her sister up on their farm at 6 a.m., so they can both get to school in Hurley. Katy lives with her adopted family, Hurley teacher Tracy Flood and her husband Don. With their encouragement she has stayed in school, even though at one time in her life she was thinking about dropping out.

Katy's school in Hurley has gone in four years from being one of the poorest schools in the state to being on the cutting edge of technology because of the Outstanding Schools Act. Like the Hurley school, Katy has risen above adversity with the help of new technology. Three years ago the school had only six computers. Now, Katy has multi-media computers in all her classes and access to a computer lab.

Katy, a junior, has gone from being computer illiterate to one of the top Hurley students on keyboard and a straight-A student. In fact, she is currently designing a brochure for a residential care facility in Versailles as a part of her Technology Lab Class.

Mary and Katy are just two examples of Missourians you probably do not know. And probably will never meet. But it is my privilege to share their stories with you because you have touched their lives.

For the next four months until the final gavel, your lives will be consumed with a mountain of paper--bills, amendments, memos, and constituent letters. Your days will be filled with phone calls and meetings. Your mind will overflow with priorities and the demands of your job.

In the face of all that, please don't allow Mary Capell and Katy Paschall to be forgotten. Don't lose track of why we're here. It's not about paper, procedures, and process. Or politics...or even programs. It's about people--the people we serve. It's about providing them with new opportunities for a new century.

Several of those people whose lives you've already touched are with us today. One of them is the Vice President of Human Resources of MEMC Electronic Materials, Brad Eldredge. MEMC is a high tech company that produces silicon wafers used to manufacture integrated circuits and computer memory devices.

This prestigious Missouri company was selected by Industry Week as one of the Ten Best Plants in America and has won our Missouri Quality Award and the Governor's Pollution Prevention Award. So naturally, Brad is proud to be a part of such a great Missouri company that continues to grow.

Because we want to make Missouri an even better place to do business, we are working with outstanding companies such as Brad's to expand their operations in our state. And in our efforts to create new jobs, we have been working with Brad on training employees so he has the high-skilled work force he needs at his plant. This past year, the company made $175 million in capital investments at the St. Peters plant and created 200 new jobs.

MEMC is one of our many business partners in building a better Missouri through a stronger economy. And we're pleased to have Brad here as our guest today.

Brad, would you please stand up so everyone can let you know how much we appreciate having you here today and your company here in Missouri?

STRONG ECONOMY AND WISE FINANCIAL MANAGEMENT

I am proud, too, that because of aggressive economic development and wise financial management, Missouri is known as a great place to do business. Our low debt and low taxes are highly attractive qualities to both new and expanding businesses.

Missouri is recognized as a state that takes a "results-oriented approach" with "conservative accounting" in operating a state budget. And we balance that budget every year--a feat the federal government has not been able to match. Missouri has a legislature and a government that take the financial responsibility very seriously, and I want to commend the members of this body, especially your budget chairs, Senator Lybyer and Rep. Lumpe, for year after year sending me a balanced budget and sending it to me on time.

I want to also assure Missouri citizens that our Council of Efficient Operations will continue to work with our departments to improve government's ability to deliver services in a cost-effective manner.

Our wise budget decisions, detailed strategic planning, and excellent financial management have earned Missouri a national ranking as the third best managed state in the nation from Financial World magazine. And the Missouri economic news continues to be great. Under my administration, we have created more than 300,000 new jobs.

The best news is that all of our indicators point to continued economic gains in 1997. But looking beyond 1997, I believe we can ensure our long range prosperity by investing in the new opportunities that I am proposing today for a new century.

SALES TAX CUT

Because of our strong state economy and tremendous economic growth, we can afford to give Missourians tax relief. Due to our outstanding economic growth, our state revenue for the budget year we just completed in June far exceeded our expectations, creating surplus revenues of almost $230 million. These are revenues which constitutionally cannot be spent. They must be returned to the taxpayers.

From this day forward, I want to see that money put back in the pockets of working families. The fastest and fairest way to accomplish that goal is to completely eliminate the three percent general state sales tax on food. Everyone must put food on the table.

This return of food dollars is equivalent to nearly two weeks of free groceries each year for every Missouri family. We must not allow another year to pass without providing this real savings to all Missourians.

I urge you to send this $230 million permanent tax cut to my desk. We need to work together in a bipartisan way to give this tax relief to our citizens.

WELFARE REFORM

Three years ago, we made Missouri a model of welfare reform through dramatic and measurable change. A model that has been singled out for praise by President Clinton and many others. A model cited by national press stories in The New York Times, Washington Post, USA Today, and other notable sources.

Our reforms have been aggressive in helping people move off welfare and into jobs. One of our success stories is here with me today.

Her name is Michelle Gale, and she is from O'Fallon.

When Michelle found herself separated from her husband with no support, she became the sole provider for her three children. She went on public assistance and held down two jobs--as a babysitter and housecleaner. When those two jobs ended, she felt helpless and hopeless. That is until she saw one of our promotional fliers about new job training.

In the spring of 1994, she attended an orientation and career exploration session, took tests, and met with a counselor. Based on her good marks in math and English, she got a job referral and went to work in June of 1994.

She has recently re-married, is still working for the same company, and earns high praise from her supervisor. Michelle, all of us here are proud of what you have accomplished through your hard work, diligence, and enthusiasm.

Would you please stand so we can show you how much?

Thank you, Michelle.

Michelle is representative of thousands of similar successes throughout our state. Yes, transformed lives give evidence of our progress.

As a pioneer in welfare reform, Missouri is well ahead of the curve and well positioned to take on the requirements of the federal welfare act. Because we started the welfare reform process shortly after I became governor...well ahead of the federal government...we've already met many of the requirements of the new federal bill.

We have witnessed an astounding 24 straight months of welfare reductions. There are 48,000 fewer people on welfare today than when I took office. And we will continue to move able-bodied Missourians off welfare rolls and onto payrolls.

We must emphasize work; have reasonable time limits for assistance for able-bodied people; and make available the training, education, child care, and job placement services that people need to get and hold a job. And we will strengthen our child support enforcement efforts through new legal tools.

Authorities tell us that if all child support due were paid, our welfare rolls would drop by one-fourth almost overnight. Improved collections in interstate cases and revocation of professional licenses for failure to pay child support are strong tools. They will allow us to toughen our collection efforts and ensure that Missouri's children get the support they are due.

Parents owed child support should be able to count on receiving their checks. Allowing them to be shortchanged only shortchanges our future because they do not have the money to invest in a better life for themselves and their children.

So we will be assuring Missourians that we take the obligation of child support seriously by starting a license revocation program; using better paternity establishment procedures; establishing state and national data bases on new hires and wage withholdings; and giving authorities better information about whether those who owe child support are meeting their obligation to their children.

Yes, we are moving swiftly and prudently to develop a new approach in the way we move recipients from dependency to productivity. But even with these changes, government cannot achieve the levels of success we need to achieve without the support of business.

Our reforms call for bold partnerships with the private sector. What I didn't tell you about two of our special guests before that I want to share with you now is that Michelle Gale and Brad Eldredge know each other. Brad is in charge of hiring at the MEMC plant in St. Charles where Michelle works.

I commend MEMC for helping Missouri move people off welfare and into jobs. I hope that other Missouri businesses will follow the wonderful example of MEMC in putting welfare recipients to work. Public-private partnerships such as this one will be even more important as we replace a broken system and reframe the future into one that moves people into jobs. I urge our state business community to join us in this pursuit.

EDUCATION

Last week, in my inaugural address, I renewed my commitment to improving education in Missouri. When we speak of new opportunities for a new century, nothing can be more crucial than preparing our young people for the future. That is why I am pleased to announce that once again we will be fully funding our school foundation formula this year.

Over the past few years, I have visited schools all over our state. Because of these visits, I have had the opportunity to see what excellent preparation we are offering thanks to our reforms from the Outstanding Schools Act.

Reduced class sizes in lower grades, early childhood education for more children, better vocational education, and more computers in every school are making a difference.

One of the students I met whose life has been changed by our educational reforms is Trevor Mathenia from Springfield. Trevor was a student who made the decision to go to Central High School when he heard it would be joining our A-Plus program.

As you may know, the A-Plus program offers students a career-oriented curriculum as well as challenging academic courses that provide more opportunities for education and employment after graduation. A-Plus students must also meet certain standards of achievement, attendance, and citizenship.

Trevor is sold on the A-Plus program because he knows what a difference it has made in his life. Today, as a junior, he is one of two students who travels to junior high and middle schools in Springfield telling others about the advantages of our A-Plus program. He will be in the first class to graduate in Central's A-Plus program.

Trevor has also found what a difference our efforts have made at Central High School in other areas. For example, he tells us that when he started, Central had very few computers, and they were basically restricted to the office and the library. Now students have access to over 300 computers all over the school--many with Internet capabilities.

Trevor plans to take advantage of our A-Plus tuition scholarships. With it, he can study two years at a community college, before continuing at a four year institution to gain a degree in political science.

But to be eligible for the scholarship under A-Plus, Trevor must keep up a 2.5 grade average, maintain a 95 percent attendance record for three years, avoid drugs, and do 50 hours of unpaid tutoring or mentoring. He will be starting his tutoring of junior high and middle school students soon.

Please welcome one of the countless young people whose lives we have changed through our commitment to better education, Trevor Mathenia. Trevor, would you please stand?

HIGHER EDUCATION

Trevor certainly recognizes that people entering the workforce today need more than a high school diploma. At least 89 percent of all new jobs require some type of education beyond high school.

But cost is often a barrier to acquiring that education and training. I want to make two years of higher education more affordable and accessible for all Missourians. That is why I am proposing what I call Challenge Scholarships.

Under my proposal, we will phase in a tax credit of up to $1,500 a year to help pay tuition for every Missourian who wants two more years of education beyond high school. It is imperative that we make two years of education beyond high school commonplace. There is no better preparation we can make for our children's future.

So I ask you to help me make a 13th and 14th year of education a goal for all Missourians by approving my Challenge Scholarship program. This is just one more new opportunity we must take to build the high-skilled workforce of a new century.

LITERACY

One of the biggest impediments to achieving that goal is illiteracy. Reading unlocks so many doors. I cannot imagine anything more agonizing than living outside those doors--the wonders inside forever hidden from view.

Yet authorities tell us that one of the main reasons one million Missouri adults do not have a high school diploma is because they are functionally illiterate. Therefore, I am recommending we expand our efforts for adult literacy.

We will also be targeting the literacy of the next generation as well. Students who are poor readers in the early grades are much more likely to perform poorly in school and, eventually, drop out of school entirely. So I am recommending a greater effort to catch children at an early age who are at risk of reading failure.

We will train teachers from all across Missouri about intensive reading strategies. They can then return to their school districts to teach at-risk students and to train other teachers in the area.

As literacy efforts spread to all parts of our state, we can free Missourians who have been imprisoned by their inability to read--free them for better jobs and more opportunities.

Literacy brings access to knowledge that is essential in the electronic age. Students today can go anywhere and learn about anything with a few clicks of a computer mouse. So books are no longer the only key to success. It's the keyboard as well.

Our students must also be computer literate before they enter a world of work where windows and web sites are a way of life.

Since I first became governor, I have pushed to bring computers into all Missouri schools--kindergarten through college. I believe just as strongly about giving our students the advantage of the latest technology today as I did four years ago. That is why I am recommending that we nearly triple our on-going investment in computers for schools this year.

As I stated in my inaugural address, I would like to see us reach the goal of making every Missouri youngster computer literate by age 12. However, in doing that, we must make certain our students can have access to the Information Superhighway--that vast encyclopedia of knowledge.

The Information Superhighway is so popular today that many people can't even get on, let alone maneuver through all the traffic. My recommendations this year include widening the on-ramps and adding a new lane so Missouri students can get on the Information Superhighway and travel more rapidly to the places they need to go.

I believe bringing the world to our students electronically will prepare them to enter the real world as adults.

SCHOOL SAFETY

Making certain our students can travel on the Information Superhighway is not our only school transportation concern this session. We want to make certain our children are safely transported on school buses throughout Missouri.

Since last year, our Safe Schools Initiative has been working to make classrooms, hallways, and school yards safe. This legislative session, I want to take an additional step to safeguard the lives of children who ride school buses. In general, our school buses have an excellent record of safety. But even with safety mirrors, a bus with a high front grill creates a blind spot for the driver when small children pass directly in front of the vehicle.

I want to help reduce that danger by requiring that all conventional school buses be equipped with crossing control arms. These control arms are rods that stretch 10 feet from the front of the vehicle to keep students from crossing directly in front of the bus. At least 28 states have already approved the use of these devices. We will be offering one-time grants to school districts to help absorb the installation cost of the arms. Our timetable is to have all buses equipped in time for the start of school in the fall of 1998. I want to ensure that when Missouri schoolchildren are leaving a school bus, they are stepping into safety--not harm's way.

HEALTH

Protecting our children has always been a major priority of mine since I became governor. One area we have really concentrated on this past year is getting our youngest children immunized.

With your help, my plan to remove financial barriers to immunization, make it easier to receive them, and educate our citizens about the need for protection is working wonders.

Today we have with us one of our immunization success stories--LaTasha Winters of Kansas City and her 13-month-old twin daughters. I heard from LaTasha as a part of our immunization effort last year after Jean and I sent a congratulatory card to her on the birth of her twins.

These congratulatory cards, which we have been sending in partnership with Hallmark Cards, contain a detachable immunization record so parents can keep track of their children's immunizations. We have found them to be quite an effective tool in helping us raise parent awareness about the importance of immunizations.

LaTasha wrote to tell me what a good idea those cards were, and since then she has been keeping the twins current with all their immunizations. She is entered into a Kansas City-area computer listing so her health care provider can remind her when the twins need to be immunized.

She takes her children to a clinic affiliated with Children's Mercy Hospital, and her babies receive their immunizations free of charge. While she is here, we want to commend LaTasha on the steps she has been taking to make her own life better.

She has been studying to become a certified nursing assistant through Job Corps. While she's at school, her grandmother watches the twins.

And just yesterday, she took her high school equivalency test. Here is a woman that is completely devoted to protecting her children's health and continuing her own education so she can provide for those twins as they grow up. It is a pleasure for me to recognize LaTasha Winters and her twins.

LaTasha, would you please stand?

Thanks to stories such as the Winters twins, Missouri was able to reach its goal last September of having 75 percent of all Missouri two-year-olds immunized.

Another part of our responsibility as parents in keeping our children healthy is ensuring safe, quality daycare. This year we will be intensifying our efforts to provide quality inspections of daycare centers.

We will further increase our commitment to daycare by making certain this essential service is available for parents who need it. We will also be doing more to link daycare with educational opportunities.

With an approach called Educare, we are making day care a more meaningful educational experience for young children. By bringing home daycare providers and teachers together through Educare, children are receiving the early childhood skills they need to succeed in school when they get older.

We want all Missouri children to get a good start--in a secure home, free from harm, and in a healthy environment that encourages early childhood learning.

CRIME

However, without solid law enforcement in Missouri, all of these bright opportunities could be overshadowed by crime in our cities and neighborhoods.

Since I took office, Missouri has built a national reputation for fighting crime--longer sentences, tougher penalties for violent juveniles, and increased penalties for sexual predators. We have also given our law enforcement officers more tools and training so they can keep Missourians safe.

A shining example of this is Shelley Jones, a peace officer with the Columbia Police Department. Shelley was shot with a 12 gauge shotgun during the course of an arrest. Yet she not only survived, but was able to return fire and assist in the subsequent investigation leading to the arrest and conviction of the suspect.

She attributes her survival and her role in the ultimate arrest to the increased training she received, such as the training we approved for all police officers in 1993 and the continuing training requirements we put into law in 1994.

Let me introduce you to this courageous officer who put her life on the line--Officer Shelley Jones.

Shelley, would you please stand so we can acknowledge the great job you do for the people of Columbia?

We owe it to the men and women of law enforcement like Shelley to properly train and equip them. And thanks to our efforts, they are receiving that training and equipment. Tough new laws and better law enforcement are paying off for all of us.

However, if we are to make certain that dangerous and violent criminals are not released early...if these menaces to society are to be kept away from our children, off the streets, and far from our schools... we must have the prison space to house them.

It is necessary to build two more prisons and expand others to ensure violent criminals are kept behind bars where they belong.

TRANSPORTATION

I will also be looking forward to the completion of the work of our Total Transportation Commission. Clearly, effective transportation is critical to Missouri's economic vitality.

Our commission is reviewing all of our transportation needs as well as how we can best build and maintain a system of transportation for the next century. I want to commend the commission for their work to date. We will receive their recommendations later this year.

CONCLUSION

Once more, it is time for us to roll up our sleeves and begin the work which lies ahead. But as I begin this second term, I feel a larger responsibility than ever before because I will be the last governor of this century and the first governor of the next.

That distinction holds with it an obligation to lead our state in a manner that can bring one hundred years of accomplishments to a climactic close. But it also summons us to prepare for a new era. I have no doubt that together we can achieve both goals. The future begs for our best.

So I will be looking forward to working with you in the days ahead to do what's right for Missouri. But before we go to work, I'd like to ask you to do one thing for me. On your desk is a envelope. Would you please join me and pick yours up. In your hand, you now hold a life. Just like the lives you met today here in this chamber. Because in that envelope on a piece of paper is a story. The story of a single mom who has successfully left our welfare system to support herself and her kids. Or a child who now has new opportunities because of what we have done for education. Or a businessman or woman who is succeeding because we were there to help find and train the people needed to get the job done.

Every story is different. Every story is true. But one theme runs through them all. These are all Missourians who are successful because you helped write their stories...with your courage...your vision...and your passionate belief that we can make a difference. Don't lose those qualities. Read your story. You might even think about putting it away as a reminder.

So on those days when the meetings and the paperwork close in on you, you can read it again and keep your focus on why we're really here. Right now, these two hundred people are going about their business, and they are not thinking about you. But I hope you're thinking about them. For they are living better lives and have a brighter future because you are here for them.

In the words of the apostle Paul: "Let us not be weary in well-doing. For in due season we shall reap if we faint not."

Let those of us in this chamber be strong in that resolve. Let us close out this century in a blazing sunset of achievement the like of which our state has never seen before...confident that together, and with God's blessing, our best days are yet to come.

The Joint Session was dissolved by Lieutenant Governor Wilson.

Speaker Gaw resumed the Chair.

First Regular Session, 89th General Assembly

ELEVENTH DAY, Thursday, January 23, 1997

Speaker Gaw in the Chair.

Prayer by Representative Glenn Hall.

He has showed you O man, what is good. And what does the LORD require of you? To act justly and to love mercy and to walk humbly with your God. Micah 6:8 (NIV)

Father in heaven we pray that we would walk in your requirements. Lord, please show us what it means to act justly and love mercy and walk humbly with You. Lord, help us to remember your Word that teaches us what these things mean, to remember Scriptures like Isaiah 58, verses 6 to 9 which read:

"Is not this the kind of fasting I have chosen: to loose the chains of injustice and untie the cords of the yoke, to set the oppressed free and break every yoke?

Is it not to share your food with the hungry and to provide the poor wanderer with shelter--when you see the naked, to clothe him, and not to turn away from your own flesh and blood?

Then your light will break forth like the dawn, and your healing will quickly appear; then your righteousness will go before you, and the glory of the LORD will be your rear guard.

Then you will call, and the LORD will answer; you will cry for help, and he will say:

Here am I." (Isaiah 58:6-9)

Lord, please teach us to act justly, to love mercy and walk humbly with you.

In Jesus Christ's name we pray, Amen.

The Pledge of Allegiance to the flag was recited.

The Journal of the tenth day was approved as printed by the following vote:

First Regular Session, 89th General Assembly

TWELFTH DAY, Monday, January 27, 1997

Speaker Gaw in the Chair.

Prayer by Father Hugh Behan.

"Spare me from people who... do evil all the time and are always ready to take bribes." (Ps. 26:10)

There is lots of news these days about the amount of money donated at the national level to the major parties for the 1996 election and speculation about the influence. The people of Missouri continue to debate the proposed pay raise for the General Assembly and for other officials.

Gracious God, we often quote the familiar phrase, "there is no free lunch." Someone pays for it. The issue for us personally and for the party and for the health of the political process and of the well-being of the Republic and the State is "who pays for the lunch" since it is not free and what do they ask for in return. We ask for a spirit of integrity, of fairness, of the courage to debate an issue which is discussed freely and widely in talk programs and in editorial columns and letters to the editor. Help us Lord, to bring government by the monied elite while making every office accessible to ordinary citizens. Amen.

The Pledge of Allegiance to the flag was recited.

The Journal of the eleventh day was approved as corrected.

First Regular Session, 89th General Assembly

THIRTEENTH DAY, Tuesday, January 28, 1997

Speaker Pro Tem Kreider in the Chair.

Prayer by Father Hugh Behan.

"Ice and snow bless the Lord." (Canticle of Creation. Daniel 3:57 to 88)

Gracious God: We may fuss at the ice and snow, but it has its beauty too. We saw the morning's sun glistening on icy branches while the earth enjoys its warm blanket of snow with its life-giving nitrogen.

We give thanks to you, our caring God, for people who care for us - those who clean off sidewalks and streets, start cars, care for elderly neighbors, staff members who brave the ice and snow to get to work. We give thanks as we wait patiently for Spring. Amen.

The Pledge of Allegiance to the flag was recited.

The Speaker appointed the following to act as Honorary Page for the Day, to serve without compensation: Mark Donnell.

The Journal of the twelfth day was approved as printed by the following vote:

HOUSE RESOLUTION NO. 105

Be it resolved, that the Rules of Procedure of the Committee on Ethics are adopted, as follows:

JANUARY, 1997

COMMITTEE ON ETHICS

RULES OF PROCEDURE

RULE 1. Scope and Authority - These Rules of Procedure govern the conduct of the investigation of complaints of ethical misconduct by a member of the House and are adopted pursuant to House Rule 38.

RULE 2. Definitions

As used in these rules, unless the context requires otherwise, the following words and terms shall have the following meanings, and the use of masculine gender shall include the feminine.

(1) Censure - A sanction which recognizes the respondent's conduct constituted a legal or moral wrong, and which shall include punishment in the form of denying privileges of office, which recommendation is included as part of the committee's report and requires the presence of the respondent in the chamber during consideration and vote by the entire House on such resolution.

(2) Letter of Reproval - A sanction which expresses disapproval of conduct based on the appropriateness of such conduct by a legislator, regardless of whether the conduct constitutes a legal or moral wrong and is included as part of the committee's report.

(3) Reprimand - A sanction which recognizes the respondent's conduct constituted a legal or moral wrong and which may include punishment in the form of denying privileges of the office, which recommendation is included as part of the committee's report, is issued by the Speaker and the recommendation for reprimand is made a public record.

RULE 3. Quorums

A quorum exists when a majority of the members of the Committee are present.

RULE 4. Form of Complaints

A. All complaints filed with the Speaker against a member of the House shall be confidential and shall be referred to the Committee on Ethics within ten (10) days and shall be in writing and under oath, setting forth in simple, concise and direct statements:

(1) The name and legal address of the member or members acting as complainant;

(2) The name of the member of the House alleged to have engaged in the commission of a crime, misconduct, willful neglect of duty, corruption in office or other acts constituting ethical misconduct. "Misconduct", means:

(a) Any conduct constituting a legal or moral wrong which materially impairs the member's ability to perform the duties of his office or substantially impairs public confidence in the General Assembly;

(b) Any conduct constituting a conflict of interest under chapter 105, RSMo;

(c) The intentional filing of a false complaint or the filing of a complaint in reckless disregard of the truth.

(3) The nature of the alleged crime, misconduct, neglect, corruption or other unethical act, including when applicable, the specific law, rule, regulation or ethical standard violated;

(4) The facts alleged to have given rise to the violation; and

(5) Where the facts are alleged upon the information and belief of the complainant, the complaint shall so state and set forth the basis for such information and belief.

B. All documents in the possession of the complainant that are relevant to and in support of the allegations shall be appended to the complaint.

RULE 5. Initial Examination of the Complaint by the Committee

A. Within thirty (30) days of the assignment of the complaint by the Speaker, the Committee shall determine if it is in compliance with Rule 4 of these Rules, and whether on the face of the complaint, the allegations contained therein are within the jurisdiction of the Committee, and if so, whether the allegations merit proceeding to a preliminary hearing. The complainant shall not act as a member of the Committee at a hearing in which the complainant is likely to be called as a necessary witness. A respondent shall not act as a member of the Committee for purposes of his complaint.

B. Complaints determined not to be in compliance with Rule 4 of these Rules shall be returned to the complainant with a general statement that it is not in compliance with the Rules of Procedure. The complaint may be resubmitted in the proper form.

C. Once a determination has been made that the complaint complies with Rule 4 of these rules, a majority of the Committee appointed shall vote by roll call to either:

(1) Defer action pending completion of any other administrative, disciplinary, commission, or judicial proceeding;

(2) Proceed to a preliminary hearing;

(3) Dismiss the complaint.

D. In determining whether or not to proceed the Committee shall consider the following:

(1) The credible evidence contained in the complaint or appended thereto of the commission of a crime, misconduct, willful neglect of duty, corruption in office, or other acts violating applicable ethical standards;

(2) Other administrative or disciplinary action by other interested bodies;

(3) Criminal investigation, Missouri Ethics Commission proceeding, or judicial proceedings, either civil or criminal; and

(4) Other relevant circumstances that would justify expediting, declining or deferring action by the Committee.

E. Complaints determined to be in compliance with Rule 4 of these Rules and accepted for a preliminary hearing shall be transmitted to the respondent with a copy of the Rules of Procedure and notice in writing that the respondent has twenty-one (21) calendar days to respond to the complaint either by way of answer or motion pursuant to Rule 6 of these Rules. The complainant shall also be notified, in writing, of the action of the Committee. Examination of the complaint and the determination of Rule 4.C. shall be conducted in a closed meeting.

RULE 6. Answers and Motions

A. If the Committee determines that the complaint merits proceeding to a preliminary hearing, the respondent shall have twenty-one (21) calendar days in which to respond to the complaint by way of answer or motion, unless this time period is waived by the respondent. Any answer or motion shall be in writing, signed by the respondent and his counsel, if he has one, and shall be limited to the following:

(1) An admission or denial under oath, of the allegations set forth in the complaint, including negative and affirmative defenses, and any other relevant information, including supporting evidence which the respondent may desire to submit;

(2) An objection to the jurisdiction of the Committee to investigate the complaint; or

(3) An objection to the participation of any member of the Committee in an investigation of the complaint on the grounds that the member cannot render an impartial and unbiased decision in the case. The majority of the members present shall rule on the objection to the participation of any member of the Committee. A temporary replacement shall be made to serve on the Committee on Ethics for all actions concerning a particular complaint for any member of the Committee who is prevented from acting on a complaint under these rules.

B. Any motion submitted pursuant to this rule is not in lieu of an answer and shall be accompanied by a memorandum of points and authorities. Answers or motions not submitted within the twenty-one (21) calendar-day-period shall not be considered by the Committee.

C. The Chairman of the Committee shall pass upon such motions as soon as practicable and notice of the decision shall be furnished to the respondent and the complainant. A motion to quash a subpoena shall be decided by the Chairman of the Committee.

D. Time limitations imposed by this Rule may be extended when, in the discretion of the Chairman, such extension would facilitate a fair and complete inquiry and may be shortened when the Chairman determines that there are special circumstances compelling expedition, and upon twenty-four (24) hours notice of said action to the respondent and the claimant.

E. In the event that a special counsel is retained by the Committee, the attorney-client privilege is applicable to the Committee and not to the House.

RULE 7. Preliminary Hearings

A. A preliminary hearing may be held to hear arguments based on the pleadings submitted in the case. The preliminary hearing shall be an open meeting. The committee shall provide the complainant and the respondent or counsel for the complainant and respondent an opportunity to present, orally or in writing, a statement, which shall be under oath or affirmation, regarding the allegations and any other relevant questions arising out of the pleadings. A complainant or respondent who is represented by counsel shall not be questioned in the absence of counsel unless an explicit waiver is obtained.

B. The committee shall require that testimony be given under oath or affirmation. The form of the oath or affirmation shall be: "Do you solemnly swear (or affirm) that the testimony you will give before this committee in the matter now under consideration will be the truth, the whole truth, and nothing but the truth (so help you God)?" The oath or affirmation shall be administered by the Chairman or Committee member designated by him to administer oaths. Members of the committee shall be give an opportunity to question the complainant and respondent or counsel for the complainant or respondent following the opening statements.

C. At the conclusion of the preliminary hearing, a majority of the Committee shall vote by roll call to either:

(1) Dismiss the complaint; or

(2) Proceed by

(a) undertaking an investigative hearing; or

(b) deciding the case based upon the preliminary hearing.

A decision based upon a preliminary hearing shall require the consent of the respondent.

D. If the committee decides to make a summary decision of the case and the respondent accepts this disposition the committee may, by a majority vote, recommend one of the following sanctions:

(a) Letter of reproval;

(b) Reprimand; or

(c) Censure.

RULE 8. Investigative Hearings

A. An investigative hearing may be held on the record to receive evidence upon which to base findings, conclusions, and recommendations, if any, to the House. The Committee may require, by subpoena or otherwise, or by subpoena duces tecum, the attendance and testimony of such witnesses and the production of such books, records, correspondence, memorandums, papers and documents as it deems necessary. The Committee may obtain a court-issued subpoena in the event that any person refuses to obey the subpoena issued by the Committee.

B. Prior to setting a hearing date and issuing subpoenas for witnesses, the Committee shall resolve the scope and purpose of the hearings. A copy of this statement of scope and purpose shall be furnished to all witnesses. During the course of the hearings the Committee may expand or contract the scope in light of evidence received.

C. The order of the investigative hearing shall be as follows:

(1) The Chairman shall open the hearing by stating the Committee's authority to conduct the investigation, the purpose of the investigation and its scope.

(2) The complainant and the respondent or counsel for the complainant and respondent shall be permitted to make opening statements. Such opening statements shall not exceed fifteen minutes.

(3) Testimony from witnesses and other evidence pertinent to the matter under investigation shall be received in the following order:

(a) Witnesses and other evidence offered by the complainant;

(b) Witnesses and other evidence offered by the respondent;

(c) Witnesses and other evidence offered by the Committee staff; and

(4) The Chairman or his designee shall examine each witness. The Committee members may then question the witness. The respondent or his counsel may then cross-examine the witness. Redirect or recross examination may be permitted in the Chairman's discretion. With respect to witnesses offered by the respondent, a witness shall be examined first by the respondent or his counsel, if he has one, and then may be cross-examined by the complainant or his counsel, if he has one, and then may be cross-examined by the Chairman or his designee. Committee members may then question the witness. Redirect and recross examination may be permitted in the Chairman's discretion

D. Testimony of all witnesses shall be taken under oath. The form of the oath shall be: "Do you solemnly swear or affirm that the testimony you will give before this committee in the matter now under consideration will be the truth, the whole truth, and nothing but the truth, so help you God?" The oath shall be administered by the Chairman or Committee member designated by him to administer oaths.

RULE 9. Admissibility of Evidence

A. The object of the hearings shall be to ascertain the truth. Any evidence that is relevant and probative shall be admissible, unless privileged or unless the Constitution otherwise requires its exclusion. Objections going only to the weight that should be given to evidence will not justify its exclusion.

B. The Chairman or other member presiding shall rule upon any question of admissibility of testimony or evidence presented to the Committee. The Chairman or other member presiding may limit the presentation of repetitious evidence. Rulings shall be final unless reversed or modified by a majority vote of the Committee members present.

C. At an investigative hearing, the burden of proof is on the complainant with respect to each count to establish the facts alleged therein clearly and convincingly by the evidence that he introduces.

RULE 10. Witnesses

A. A subpoena to a witness shall be served sufficiently in advance of his scheduled appearance to allow him a reasonable period of time, as determined by the Committee, to prepare for the hearing and to employ counsel should he so desire.

B. Except as otherwise specifically authorized by the Chairman, no member of the Committee or staff shall make public the name of any witness subpoenaed by the Committee before his scheduled appearance.

C. Witnesses at investigative hearings may be accompanied by their counsel for the purpose of advising them concerning their constitutional rights and to raise objections to procedures or to the admissibility of testimony and evidence. Counsel for a witness other than the respondent shall not be permitted to engage in oral argument with the Committee. After a witness has testified, his counsel may submit to the Committee, in writing, any questions he wishes propounded to his client and any request for additional witnesses or other evidence. Such request may be granted in the discretion of the Committee.

D. The respondent may apply to the Committee for the issuance of subpoenas for the appearance of witnesses or the production of documents on his behalf. The application shall be granted upon good cause shown by the respondent that the proposed testimony or evidence is relevant and not otherwise available. The application shall be denied if not made at a reasonable time or if the testimony or evidence would be merely cumulative.

E. The respondent is entitled to present witnesses in his behalf. However, the chairman may limit such testimony when, in his discretion, he finds the testimony is repetitious or cumulative.

F. Each witness subpoenaed by the committee shall be reimbursed for those reasonable expenses approved by the Committee.

G. Each witness shall be furnished a printed copy of the Rules of Procedure and the pertinent provisions of the Rules of the House applicable to the rights of witnesses.

H. Within ten (10) calendar days before the scheduled investigative hearing, the Chairman shall notify the respondent, in writing, of the witnesses that are to appear before the Committee. Within five (5) calendar days before the scheduled investigative hearing, the respondent shall notify the Committee, in writing, of the witnesses that are to appear in his behalf. Additional witnesses may be brought before the Committee, in the discretion of the Chairman or other member presiding and upon good cause, if their whereabouts or existence were unknown to the respondent at the time for submission of the witness list to Committee.

RULE 11. Findings, Conclusions and Recommendations

A. At the completion of the preliminary hearing or investigative hearings, the Committee, by a majority vote of its members, shall, within forty-five (45) days, adopt a report stating its findings and conclusions on the complaint. The report shall be filed with the Chief Clerk of the House and shall be printed in the House Journal. In the event the Committee finds that the complaint is not well-founded, the report shall so state, and shall include a copy of a Letter of Reproval if the Committee authorized such sanction. In the event the Committee finds that the complaint is well-founded, the report shall state the Committee's recommendation in a resolution appended thereto.

B. The resolution shall state the Committee's findings and conclusions on each allegation in the complaint with the recommendation that the House:

(1) Expel the member as provided in Article III, Section 18 of the Missouri Constitution;

(2) Punish the member as provided in Article III, Section 18 of the Missouri Constitution, by reprimand on the adoption of the resolution, or by censure by the Speaker in open session; or

(3) Take no further action, stating the reasons therefor.

RULE 12. Matters not covered in these Rules of Procedure

The Rules of Procedure of the United States House of Representatives Committee on Standards of Official Conduct of the 103rd Congress shall be taken as guidelines in deciding questions, issues, and other matters not otherwise provided for in these Rules of Procedure, except that the Rules of the Missouri House of Representatives governing the party representation on committees shall apply to this Committee.

FOURTEENTH DAY, Wednesday, January 29, 1997

Speaker Gaw in the Chair.

Prayer by Bishop Ann Scherer, United Methodist Church.

Gracious God, friend of the widow, the orphan, the alien, the vulnerable, we gather to consider the needs of your beloved people. Open our hearts to their cries of pain and enable us to respond with compassion and justice. Show us how to work together to achieve your purposes. Continue to guide us by your spirit and enable us to do that which is pleasing in your sight.

Bless our legislators and give them the gift of your love, presence and wisdom. Amen.

First Regular Session, 89th General Assembly

FIFTEENTH DAY, Thursday, January 30, 1997

Speaker Gaw in the Chair.

Prayer by Representative Seigfreid.

Please give us the knowledge we need to perform the tasks that lie ahead. Give each of us strength and courage to make wise and meaningful decisions. For knowledge is our greatest asset. Let us not waste it. Guide us in the direction that will benefit the people we represent. Help us to provide for those in need. As Franklin Roosevelt once said, "the test of our programs is not whether we add more to the abundance of those who have much, it is whether we provide enough for those who have too little."

We pray our programs will be successful. Amen.

The Pledge of Allegiance to the flag was recited.

First Regular Session, 89th General Assembly

SIXTEENTH DAY, Monday, February 3, 1997

Speaker Gaw in the Chair.

Prayer by Father Hugh Behan.

"Make your ear attentive to wisdom". (Proverbs 2:2)

The annual media coverage of "Groundhog Phil", on February 2, in Pennsylvania, is a distraction from the perils of winter weather. I was thinking, irreverently, or irrelevantly, that Phil reminded me of so much of our social conduct: we stick our heads out cautiously, and check the outside to see which way the media are saying that the people out there are leaning.

Gracious God, may we learn from Phil to make the decisions in our lives based on what we see, what we sense, what we believe and not to be led by opinion polls, popular ideas which are taken for the truth just because they are repeated over and over or by editorials from people who themselves might not have all the facts or the fullness of wisdom. Amen.

The Pledge of Allegiance to the flag was recited.

The Journal of the fifteenth day was approved as corrected by the following vote:

First Regular Session, 89th General Assembly

SEVENTEENTH DAY, Tuesday, February 4, 1997

Speaker Gaw in the Chair.

Prayer by Father Hugh Behan.

"Forgive us, for we ourselves forgive everyone indebted to us". (Luke 11:4)

"Ice Melt and Sand Bags." I saw that advertising sign outside a store during the worst of our recent bad weather. Lord, we pray this morning for the gift of allowing you to help us get out of the way so that your Spirit can move the ice from our hearts which keep us cold toward those we do not like or understand. We pray that we would put our shoulder to the work of moving the sandbags which keep us from seeing the other people around us, shut off by our fears, our prejudices, and our unwillingness to examine what keeps us blind behind the barriers we put up to shut the other out. Amen.

The Pledge of Allegiance to the flag was recited.

The Speaker appointed the following to act as Honorary Pages for the Day, to serve without compensation: Sara Harper, Will Jackson, Emily Simpson and Christy Whiteside.

The Journal of the sixteenth day was approved as corrected by the following vote:

First Regular Session, 89th General Assembly

EIGHTEENTH DAY, Wednesday, February 5, 1997

Speaker Gaw in the Chair.

Prayer by Representative David Levin.

President Thomas Jefferson, March 4, 1805, offered A National Prayer for Peace:

Almighty God, Who has given us this good land for our heritage; We humbly beseech Thee that we may always prove ourselves a people mindful of Thy favor and glad to do Thy will. Bless our land with honorable ministry, sound learning, and pure manners.

Save us from violence, discord, and confusion, from pride and arrogance, and from every evil way. Defend our liberties, and fashion into one united people the multitude brought hither out of many kindreds and tongues.

Endow with Thy spirit of wisdom those to whom in Thy Name we entrust the authority of government, that there may be justice and peace at home, and that through obedience to Thy law, we may show forth Thy praise among the nations of the earth.

In time of prosperity fill our hearts with thankfulness, and in the day of trouble, suffer not our trust in Thee to fail; all of which we ask in your name, our Lord. Amen.

The Pledge of Allegiance to the flag was recited.

The Speaker appointed the following to act as Honorary Pages for the Day, to serve without compensation: Maria Manevich, Kathrine Pavlova, Ann Alekseyva, Lyuba Smirnova, Igor Sokolov and Olga Usatova.

The Journal of the seventeenth day was approved as printed by the following vote:

First Regular Session, 89th General Assembly

NINETEENTH DAY, Thursday, February 6, 1997

Speaker Gaw in the Chair.

Prayer by Representative Marsha Campbell.

President George Washington offered this prayer.

Almighty God; We make our earnest prayer that You will keep the United States in Your Holy protection; and You will incline the hearts of the citizens to cultivate a spirit of subordination and obedience to government; and entertain a brotherly affection and live for one another and for their fellow citizens of the United States at large, and particularly for their brethren who have served in the field.

And finally that You will most graciously be pleased to dispose us all to do justice, to love mercy, and to demean ourselves with that charity, humility, and pacific temper of mind which were the characteristics of the Divine Author of our blessed religion, and without a humble imitation of whose example in these things we can never hope to be a happy nation. Amen.

The Pledge of Allegiance to the flag was recited.

The Speaker appointed the following to act as Honorary Page for the Day, to serve without compensation: Clayton Colclasure.

The Journal of the eighteenth day was approved as printed by the following vote:

First Regular Session, 89th General Assembly

TWENTIETH DAY, Monday, February 10, 1997

Speaker Pro Tem Kreider the Chair.

Prayer by Father Hugh Behan.

"If we should forget Your name and rise a prayer to foreign gods, would You not find it out? You know the secrets of the heart". (Ps. 44:10, ICEL trans.)

February, the month of the heart comes just as the Western Christian world is set to begin its Lenten preparation for Easter, and the Jewish world will celebrate Purim about the same time, and Passover a month later, the same time as the Eastern Church's Easter, the Islamic world just completed Ramadan, the month of prayer and fasting, the Chinese are celebrating the beginning of the year of the Ox and February 2 was the New Year in the Celtic calendar.

We note today, gracious Lord, that in different ways, different ethnic groups and religious cultures have sacred times and sacred days to mark new beginnings, to ask for forgiveness, to seek reconciliation, and to make a new start. We pray for the new heart which only you, O Lord, can give to us who ask humbly, and that means acknowledging that we have sinned and we do need your mercy.

We add a special prayer for today's budget negotiations between the President and leaders of Congress as we turn over all of our personal lives and the work of this Chamber and of the national government to You, the source of our life and our authority in this Assembly. Amen.

The Pledge of Allegiance to the flag was recited.

The Journal of the nineteenth day was approved as corrected.

First Regular Session, 89th General Assembly

TWENTY-FIRST DAY, Tuesday, February 11, 1997

Speaker Gaw in the Chair.

Prayer by Father Hugh Behan.

"Death and life are in the power of the tongue." (Prov. 18:21)

The tongue is a powerful instrument, it can move others to do great things or crush us emotionally when someone uses speech for destructive purposes. We hear so many words in the course of a day with our instant and varied forms of communication. Teach us, gracious God, that there is a beauty in silence and a beauty in words; a power in being talked with and to that brings life to our whole being and a power that can also bring death to our spirit and to our heart's emotions. May we be wise in our use of this precious gift of speech. Amen.

The Pledge of Allegiance to the flag was recited.

The Speaker appointed the following to act as Honorary Pages for the Day, to serve without compensation: Patrick Fluegel, Doug Collins, Jamie Dorsey, Kim Maxey, Jeremiah Bricker, Sarah Hausmann, Samantha Hill, Frank Nowazyk and Amber Forest.

First Regular Session, 89th General Assembly

TWENTY-SECOND DAY, Wednesday, February 12, 1997

Speaker Gaw in the Chair.

Prayer by Representative Jewell Patek.

Before I pray, let me begin by saying I was encouraged from the first day I was in the Legislature with the earnest and sincere Christian Fellowship I found among colleagues, staff, and interns. A fellowship that knew no partisan boundaries. I, like perhaps some of you, straddle a fence between wrong and right on a regular basis. I have a real struggle daily to walk the righteous path, to separate wrong from right, to see black and white when there appears only to be an ocean of grey. In this abyss of grey, many Christians take refuge. They find shelter in compromise and tolerance. They take positions that Christians otherwise would not in the name of political correctness, and Christians avoid conflict and avoid speaking the truth in fear that they will be labeled radicals or extremists or worse hypocrites. In so doing, we become submissive to the world and turn away from God.

In the book of Daniel, we learn that Daniel was challenged with similar decisions between right and wrong. As you will remember, as the King's servant, Daniel was ordered to receive a daily provision of the King's delicacies and wine. However, Daniel believed that the delicacies and wine would defile him, therefore, he refused to eat and drink of the King's wine and food. Instead he asked the chief master to bring him undefiled food and drink. Although he was risking his life, the master agreed to bring the food to Daniel for ten days. The master believed that without the nourishment of the King's food, Daniel would become unhealthy and weak. To the surprise of the master, in ten days time, Daniel's features appeared better than all the other servants. Not only was Daniel rewarded by good health, God granted Daniel "knowledge and skill in all literature and wisdom; and Daniel had understanding in all visions and dreams". (Daniel 2:17)

Let us pray, O' Merciful Father, grant us the courage to walk in Your Light. Make us strong in Your presence so that we may refuse defilement and compromise. Let us remember Daniel, a man of ordinary background raised up by the world to a place of worldly prestige. In like manner, we remember that we were sent to the General Assembly and placed in a position of power. Let us not stray,but rather humble us to Your divine will and give us discernment that we may recognize wrong from right and black from white. In so doing, we are mindful of the bountiful blessings of wisdom and understanding that You so graciously laid upon Daniel. We come to You now O' Lord, with an obedient heart lifting up our lives in selfless service to Your designs, that we also would receive wisdom, understanding, and everlasting life. In Jesus' name we pray. Amen.

The Pledge of Allegiance to the flag was recited.

The Speaker appointed the following to act as Honorary Page for the Day, to serve without compensation: Jonathon Capps.

The Journal of the twenty-first day was approved as corrected by the following vote:

First Regular Session, 89th General Assembly

TWENTY-THIRD DAY, Thursday, February 13, 1997

Speaker Gaw in the Chair.

Prayer by Reverend Jackie D. Harris, Cornerstone Southern Baptist Church.

A question that is asked by many is this, "Does the Bible have any specific guidelines for Christians to follow as they relate themselves to those in authority in the state in which they hold citizenship?" The answer is yes. Just listen to.....

(I Timothy 2:1-2) "I exhort therefore, that, first of all, supplications, prayers, intercessions, and giving of thanks be made for all men; for kings, and for all that are in authority; that we may lead a quiet and peaceable life in all Godliness and honesty."

I want to open this session of the House of Representatives with the following.....

"Heavenly Father, we come to thank You for Your great blessings upon our great state of Missouri. Help us this day to appreciate the bounty of Your provisions for us.

We thank You for these men and women who have been sent here by the people of Missouri, and who have been ordained by You to govern this great state.

Guide and bless them, grant them wisdom to rule, and may their decisions direct us to the center of thy precious will. I ask it in the name of Your son, the Living Saviour, Jesus Christ." Amen.

May the words of this prayer be of encouragement to each of you who sit in this chamber today. God bless all of you.

The Pledge of Allegiance to the flag was recited.

The Journal of the twenty-second day was approved as printed by the following vote:

First Regular Session, 89th General Assembly

TWENTY-FOURTH DAY, Monday, February 17, 1997

Speaker Gaw in the Chair.

Prayer by Father Hugh Behan.

"You may make your plans, but God directs your actions." (Prov. 16:9)

Today the nation celebrates the birthday of President George Washington and adds the memory of President Abraham Lincoln. It is a time for renewal in the world of nature as we await the end of Winter, and in the religious world, with the upcoming major religious celebrations which occur as nature welcomes Spring.

Gracious God, you constantly call us back to our origins, to new beginnings, to reform and repentance. You call some people to be giants in their own time, rising above the everyday to provide a deeper look and wider vision. As we stumble along with our own failings and plodding ways, may we respond - even if ever so feebly - to the stirrings within ourselves that call us to greatness and may we listen carefully to the voice of the great ones among us today who tell us that the mediocre is unworthy of our human dignity. Amen.

The Pledge of Allegiance to the flag was recited.

The Journal of the twenty-third day was approved as corrected by the following vote:

First Regular Session, 89th General Assembly

TWENTY-FIFTH DAY, Tuesday, February 18, 1997

Speaker Gaw in the Chair.

Prayer by Father Hugh Behan.

"How beautiful are the feet of the messenger who announces peace." (Is. 52:7).

I traveled to the northeastern corner of the state this past weekend. I do that once or twice a year for ministry and I take the opportunity to visit friends. I never cease to marvel at the size of the state, and to admire the diversity of the climate, the economy and the people. I always come away with a new appreciation of what holds us together as a state, and incidentally, as a nation. This time, the memory of Jim Sears was very present to me, as I shared the video of his memorial services with friends who knew Jim, and as I drove from Knox across Sullivan and Putnam counties and on back through Macon, Adair, and Randolph through Boone on home to this City on Sunday afternoon.

Lord God, today we appreciate the sacrifices involved on the part of the members who make this trip each week. As we travel may we be like Isaiah's peace-makers, bringing peace home to family and district, and being instruments of peace as we seek to reconcile the four corners of this widely scattered state and the many viewpoints and competing interests in between. Amen.

The Pledge of Allegiance to the flag was recited.

The Speaker appointed the following to act as Honorary Pages for the Day, to serve without compensation: Jennifer Thiele, Jerry Vallely, Laura Mayberry, Terrence Nelson, Candace Buckner, Craig Brodbeck, Stefani Grodie, Patrick Andert and Shalonda James.

First Regular Session, 89th General Assembly

TWENTY-SIXTH DAY, Wednesday, February 19, 1997

Speaker Gaw in the Chair.

Prayer by Reverend Cheryl L. Tatham.

In the mystery of this Lenten season, O God, we stand in awe of your power and your grace. In these troubled times, when hostages are held for days on end, when small children are tortured and murdered, when world leaders struggle with the issues of war and peace, we rely on your guidance just to get us from one day to the next.

As these representatives struggle with the issues affecting this state, guide them with wisdom, strengthen them with courage and challenge them with truth, for they do not work as individuals but as members of a community. "Politics can work at the deepest level only when all the people are engaged in its spirit and live fully aware that they are community people." And may the citizens of this community called Missouri be blessed by the leadership gathered in this place. Amen.

(Thomas Moore, The Re-Enchantment of Everyday Life)

First Regular Session, 89th General Assembly

TWENTY-SEVENTH DAY, Thursday, February 20, 1997

Speaker Gaw in the Chair.

Prayer by Reverend Cheryl L. Tatham.

Today, Lord of creation, as the rain refreshes the dry earth, may your spirit refresh the dryness in our lives. Bless us as we work in this place so that our actions might be charitable and beneficial to those we represent.

Each person here faces this day with personal concerns. The parent who worries about the safety of his or her own children considers the safety of Missouri's children; those who deal daily with the pressure of financial burdens are concerned and care about families who struggle under the welfare system. Help these representatives who work for the people of this state entrust their own concerns into your keeping.

And now, as the business of this day continues, out of the great abundance of your mercy and love strengthen those here for the tasks of the day. Amen.

The Pledge of Allegiance to the flag was recited.

The Journal of the twenty-sixth day was approved as corrected.

Within ten days of receiving a timely application for a hearing, the administrative hearing commission shall enter an order fixing a date, time and place for a hearing on the record. Such hearing shall be within forty-five days of the date of the order but the administrative hearing commission may continue the hearing date up to forty-five additional days by agreement of the parties or upon a finding of good cause. The administrative hearing commission shall send by certified mail, return receipt requested, a copy of the order to the party seeking relief and to the party or parties against whom relief is sought. The order shall also state that the party against whom relief is sought shall not proceed with the initiation of its activity or activities until the administrative hearing commission issues its final decision or order.

The administrative hearing commission shall issue a final decision or order, in proceedings arising pursuant to the provisions of sections 1 to 9 of this act, within sixty days from the conclusion of the hearing. Any final decisions shall be subject to review pursuant to a petition for review to be filed in the court of appeals in the district in which the hearing, or any part of the hearing, is held and by delivery of copies of the petition to each party of record, within thirty days after the mailing or delivery of the final decision and notice of the final decision in such a case. Review pursuant to this section shall be exclusive and decisions of the administrative hearing commission reviewable pursuant to this section shall not be reviewable in any other proceeding, and no other official or court shall have power to review any such decision by an action in the nature of mandamus or otherwise, except pursuant to the provisions of this section. (2) Upon initiation of an act pursuant to subdivision (7) of subsection 1 of section 4 of this act, such notice shall be given within sixty days of the franchisor's receipt of a written proposal to consummate such sale or transfer and the receipt of all necessary information and documents generally used by the franchisor to conduct its review. The franchisor's notice of disapproval shall also specify the reasonable standard which the franchisor contends is not satisfied and the reason the franchisor contends such standard is not satisfied. Failure on the part of the franchisor to provide such notice shall be conclusively deemed an approval by the franchisor of the proposed sale or transfer to the proposed transferee. A franchisee's application for a hearing shall be filed with the administrative hearing commission within twenty days from receipt of such franchisor's notice;

(3) Pursuant to paragraphs (a) and (b) of subdivision (14) of subsection 1 of section 4 of this act, such notice shall be given within sixty days of the franchisor's receipt of a deceased or incapacitated franchisee's designated family member's intention to succeed to the franchise or franchises or of the franchisor's receipt of the personal and financial data of the designated family member, whichever is later.

5. A franchisor's notice to a franchisee or franchisees pursuant to subdivisions (5), (6), (7) and (14) of subsection 1 of section 4 of this act shall contain a statement of the particular grounds supporting the intended action or activity which shall include any reasonable standards which were not satisfied. The notice shall also contain at a minimum, on the first page thereof, a conspicuous statement which reads as follows: "NOTICE TO FRANCHISEE: YOU MAY BE ENTITLED TO FILE A PROTEST WITH THE MISSOURI ADMINISTRATIVE HEARING COMMISSION IN JEFFERSON CITY, MISSOURI, AND HAVE A HEARING IN WHICH YOU MAY PROTEST THE CONTENTS OF THIS NOTICE. ANY ACTION MUST BE FILED WITHIN TWENTY DAYS FROM RECEIPT OF THIS NOTICE."

6. When more than one application for a hearing is filed with the administrative hearing commission, the administrative hearing commission may consolidate the applications into one proceeding to expedite the disposition of all relevant issues.

7. In all proceedings before the administrative hearing commission pursuant to this section and section 4 of this act, where the franchisor is required to give notice pursuant to subsection 4 of this section, the franchisor shall have the burden of proving by a preponderance of the evidence that good cause exists for its actions. In all other actions, the franchisee shall have the burden of proof.

Section 4. Notwithstanding the terms of any franchise agreement, the performance, whether by act or omission, by a motorcycle franchisor of any or all of the following acts enumerated in this subsection are hereby defined as unlawful practices, the remedies for which are set forth in section 7 of this act:

(1) To engage in any conduct which is capricious, in bad faith, or unconscionable and which causes damage to a motorcycle franchisee or to the public; provided, that good faith conduct engaged in by motorcycle franchisors as sellers of new motorcycles or parts or as holders of security interests therein, in pursuit of rights or remedies accorded to sellers of goods or to holders of security interests pursuant to the provisions of chapter 400, RSMo, uniform commercial code, shall not constitute unfair practices pursuant to sections 1 to 9 of this act;

(2) To coerce any motorcycle franchisee to accept delivery of any new motorcycle or motorcycles, equipment, parts or accessories therefor, or any other commodity or commodities which such motorcycle franchisee has not ordered after such motorcycle franchisee has rejected such commodity or commodities. It shall not be deemed a violation of this section for a motorcycle franchisor to require a motorcycle franchisee to have an inventory of parts, tools and equipment reasonably necessary to service the motorcycles sold by a motorcycle franchisor; or new motorcycles reasonably necessary to meet the demands of dealers or the public or to display to the public the full line of a motorcycle franchisor's product line;

(3) To unreasonably refuse to deliver in reasonable quantities and within a reasonable time after receipt of orders for new motorcycles, such motorcycles as are so ordered and as are covered by such franchise and as are specifically publicly advertised by such motorcycle franchisor to be available for immediate delivery; provided, however, the failure to deliver any motorcycle shall not be considered a violation of sections 1 to 9 of this act if such failure is due to an act of God, work stoppage, or delay due to a strike or labor difficulty, shortage of products or materials, freight delays, embargo or other cause of which such motorcycle franchisor has no control;

(4) To coerce any motorcycle franchisee to enter into any agreement with such motorcycle franchisor or to do any other act prejudicial to such motorcycle franchisee, by threatening to cancel any franchise or any contractual agreement existing between such motorcycle franchisor and motorcycle franchisee; provided, however, that notice in good faith to any motorcycle franchisee of such motorcycle franchisee's violation of any provisions of such franchise or contractual agreement shall not constitute a violation of sections 1 to 9 of this act;

(5) To terminate, cancel or refuse to continue any franchise, directly or indirectly through the actions of the franchisor, unless such new motorcycle franchisee substantially defaults in the performance of such franchisee's reasonable and lawful obligations under such franchisee's franchise, or such new motorcycle franchisor discontinues the sale in the state of Missouri of such franchisor's products which are the subject of the franchise:

(a) Notwithstanding the terms of any franchise agreement to the contrary, good cause to terminate, cancel or refuse to continue any franchise agreement shall not be established based upon the fact that the motorcycle franchisee owns, has an investment in, participates in the management of or holds a franchise agreement for the sale or service of another make or line of new motorcycles or the motorcycle dealer has established another make or line of new motorcycles or service in the same dealership facilities as those of the motorcycle franchisor prior to February 1, 1997, or such establishment is approved in writing by the franchisee and the franchisor. If the franchise agreement requires the approval of the franchisor, such approval shall be requested in writing by the franchisee and the franchisor shall approve or disapprove such a request in writing within sixty days of receipt of such request. A request from a franchisee shall be deemed to have been approved if the franchisor fails to notify the franchisee, in writing, of its disapproval within sixty days after its receipt of the written request;

(b) In determining whether good cause exists, the administrative hearing commission shall take into consideration the existing circumstances, including, but not limited to, the following factors:

a. The franchisee's sales in relation to sales in the market;

b. The franchisee's investment and obligations;

c. Injury to the public welfare;

d. The adequacy of the franchisee's service facilities, equipment, parts and personnel in relation to those of other franchisees of the same line-make;

e. Whether warranties are being honored by the franchisee;

f. The parties' compliance with their franchise agreement;

g. The desire of a franchisor for market penetration or a market study, if any, prepared by the franchisor or franchisee are two factors which may be considered;

h. The harm to the franchisor;

(6) To prevent by contract or otherwise, any motorcycle franchisee from changing the capital structure of the franchisee's franchise of such motorcycle franchisee or the means by or through which the franchisee finances the operation of the franchisee's franchise, provided the motorcycle franchisee at all times meets any reasonable capital standards agreed to between the motorcycle franchisee and the motorcycle franchisor and grants to the motorcycle franchisor a purchase money security interest in the new motorcycles, new parts and accessories purchased from the motorcycle franchisor;

(7) (a) Prevent, by contract or otherwise, any sale or transfer of a franchisee's franchise or franchises or interest or management thereof; provided, if the franchise specifically permits the franchisor to approve or disapprove any such proposed sale or transfer, a franchisor shall only be allowed to disapprove a proposed sale or transfer if the interest being sold or transferred when added to any other interest owned by the transferee constitutes fifty percent or more of the ownership interest in the franchise and if the proposed transferee fails to satisfy any standards of the franchisor which are in fact normally relied upon by the franchisor prior to its entering into a franchise, and which relate to the proposed management or ownership of the franchise operations or to the qualification, capitalization, integrity or character of the proposed transferee and which are reasonable. A franchisee may request, at any time, that the franchisor provide a copy of the standards which are normally relied upon by the franchisor to evaluate a proposed sale or transfer and a proposed transferee;

(b) The franchisee and the prospective franchisee shall cooperate fully with the franchisor in providing information relating to the prospective transferee's qualifications, capitalization, integrity and character;

(c) In the event of a proposed sale or transfer of a franchise, the franchisor shall be permitted to exercise a right of first refusal to acquire the franchisee's assets or ownership if:

a. The franchise agreement permits the franchisor to exercise a right of first refusal to acquire the franchisee's assets or ownership in the event of a proposed sale or transfer;

b. Such sale or transfer is conditioned upon the franchisor or franchisee entering a franchise agreement with the proposed transferee;

c. The exercise of the right of first refusal shall result in the franchisee and the franchisee's owners receiving the same or greater consideration and the same terms and conditions as contracted to receive in connection with the proposed sale or transfer;

d. The sale or transfer does not involve the sale or transfer to an immediate member or members of the family of one or more franchisee owners, defined as a spouse, child, grandchild, spouse of a child or grandchild, brother, sister or parent of the franchisee owner, or to the qualified manager, defined as an individual who has been employed by the franchisee for at least two years and who otherwise qualifies as a franchisee operator, or a partnership or corporation controlled by such persons; and

e. The franchisor agrees to pay the reasonable expenses, including attorney's fees which do not exceed the usual, customary and reasonable fees charged for similar work done for other clients, incurred by the proposed transferee prior to the franchisor's exercise of its right of first refusal in negotiating and implementing the contract for the proposed sale or transfer of the franchise or the franchisee's assets. Notwithstanding the foregoing, no payment of such expenses and attorney's fees shall be required if the franchisee has not submitted or caused to be submitted an accounting of those expenses within fourteen days of the franchisee's receipt of the franchisor's written request for such an accounting. Such accounting may be requested by a franchisor before exercising its right of first refusal;

(d) For determining whether good cause exists for the purposes of this subdivision, the administrative hearing commission shall take into consideration the existing circumstances, including, but not limited to, the following factors:

a. Whether the franchise agreement specifically permits the franchisor to approve or disapprove any proposed sale or transfer;

b. Whether the interest to be sold or transferred when added to any other interest owned by the proposed transferee constitutes fifty percent or more of the ownership interest in the franchise;

c. Whether the proposed transferee fails to satisfy any standards of the franchisor which are in fact normally relied upon by the franchisor prior to its entering into a franchise, and which are related to the proposed management or ownership of the franchise operations or to the qualification, capitalization, integrity or character of the proposed transferee which are reasonable;

d. Injury to the public welfare;

e. The harm to the franchisor;

(8) To prevent by contract or otherwise any motorcycle franchisee from changing the executive management of motorcycle franchisee's business, except that any attempt by a motorcycle franchisor to demonstrate by giving reasons that such change in executive management will be detrimental to the distribution of the motorcycle franchisor's motorcycles shall not constitute a violation of this subdivision;

(9) To impose unreasonable standards of performance upon a motorcycle franchisee;

(10) To require a motorcycle franchisee at the time of entering into a franchise arrangement to assent to a release, assignment, novation, waiver or estoppel which would relieve any person from liability imposed by sections 1 to 9 of this act;

(11) To prohibit directly or indirectly the right of free association among motorcycle franchisees for any lawful purpose;

(12) To provide any term or condition in any lease or other agreement ancillary or collateral to a franchise, which term or condition directly or indirectly violates the provisions of sections 1 to 9 of this act;

(13) Upon any termination, cancellation or refusal to continue any franchise or any discontinuation of any line-make or parts or products related to such line-make by a franchisor, fail to pay reasonable compensation to a franchisee as follows:

(a) Any new, undamaged and unsold motorcycles in the franchisee's inventory of either the current model year or purchased from the franchisor within one hundred twenty days prior to receipt of a notice of termination or nonrenewal, provided the motorcycle has less than twenty miles registered on the odometer, including mileage incurred in delivery from the franchisor or in transporting the motorcycle between dealers for sale, at the dealer's net acquisition cost, plus any cost to the dealer for returning the motorcycle inventory to the franchisor;

(b) The current parts catalog cost to the dealer of each new, unused, undamaged and unsold part or accessory if the part or accessory is in the current parts catalog, less applicable allowances, plus five percent of the catalog price of the part for the cost of packing and returning the parts to the franchisor. In the case of sheet metal, a comparable substitute for the original package may be used. Reconditioned or core parts shall be valued at their core value, the price listed in the current parts catalog or the amount paid for expedited return of core parts, whichever is higher. If the part or accessory was purchased by the franchisee from an outgoing authorized franchisee, the franchisor shall purchase the part for either the price in the current parts catalog or the franchisee's actual purchase price of the part, whichever is less;

(c) The depreciated value determined pursuant to generally accepted accounting principles of each undamaged sign owned by the franchisee which bears a trademark or trade name used or claimed by the franchisor if the sign was purchased from, or purchased at the request of, the franchisor;

(d) The fair market value of all special tools, data processing equipment and motorcycle service equipment owned by the franchisee which were recommended in writing and designated as special tools and equipment and purchased from, or purchased at the request of, the franchisor within three years of the termination of the franchise, if the tools and equipment are in usable and good condition, except for reasonable wear and tear;

(e) Except as provided in paragraph (a) of this subdivision, the cost of transporting, handling, packing, storing and loading of any property subject to repurchase pursuant to this section shall not exceed reasonable and customary charges; and

(f) The franchisor shall pay the franchisee the amounts specified in this subdivision within ninety days after the tender of the property subject to the franchisee providing evidence of good and clear title upon return of the property to the franchisor. Unless previous arrangements have been made and agreed upon, the franchisee is under no obligation to provide insurance for the property left after one hundred eighty days;

(14) To prevent or refuse to honor the succession to a franchise or franchises by any legal heir or devisee under the will of a franchisee, under any written instrument filed with the franchisor designating any person as the person's successor franchisee, or pursuant to the laws of descent and distribution of this state; provided:

(a) Any designated family member of a deceased or incapacitated franchisee shall become the succeeding franchisee of such deceased or incapacitated franchisee if such designated family member gives the franchisor written notice of such family member's intention to succeed to the franchise or franchises within forty-five days after the death or incapacity of the franchisee, and agrees to be bound by all of the terms and conditions of the current franchise agreement, and the designated family member meets the current reasonable criteria generally applied by the franchisor in qualifying franchisees. A franchisee may request, at any time, that the franchisor provide a copy of such criteria generally applied by the franchisor in qualifying franchisees;

(b) The franchisor may request from a designated family member such personal and financial data as is reasonably necessary to determine whether the existing franchise agreement should be honored. The designated family member shall supply the personal and financial data promptly upon the request;

(c) If the designated family member does not meet the reasonable criteria generally applied by the franchisor in qualifying franchisees, the discontinuance of the current franchise agreement shall take effect not less than ninety days after the date the franchisor serves the required notice on the designated family member pursuant to subsection 4 of section 3 of this act;

(d) The provisions of this subdivision shall not preclude a franchisee from designating any person as the person's successor by written instrument filed with the franchisor, and if such an instrument is filed, it alone shall determine the succession rights to the management and operation of the franchise; and

(e) For determining whether good cause exists, the administrative hearing commission shall take into consideration the existing circumstances, including, but not limited to, the following factors:

a. Whether the franchise agreement specifically permits the franchisor to approve or disapprove any successor;

b. Whether the proposed successor fails to satisfy any standards of the franchisor which are in fact normally relied upon by the franchisor prior to the successor entering into a franchise, and which relate to the proposed management or ownership of the franchise operation or to the qualification, capitalization, integrity or character of the proposed successor and which are reasonable;

c. Injury to the public welfare;

d. The harm to the franchisor;

(15) To coerce, threaten, intimidate or require a franchisee under any condition affecting or related to a franchise agreement, or to waive, limit or disclaim a right that the franchisee may have pursuant to the provisions of sections 1 to 9 of this act. Any contracts or agreements which contain such provisions shall be deemed against the public policy of the state of Missouri and are void and unenforceable. Nothing in this section shall be construed to prohibit voluntary settlement agreements;

(16) To initiate any act enumerated in this subsection on grounds that it has advised a franchisee of its intention to discontinue representation at the time of a franchisee change.

Section 5. When a franchised dealer or manufacturer proposes to establish or relocate a motorcycle dealership within any city not within a county, the dealer or manufacturer shall make reasonable efforts to establish or relocate such dealership in an area within such city that improves the equitable distribution of dealerships within such city and is conveniently located to serve minorities who reside in such city.

Section 6. The Missouri motor vehicle commission, in approving licenses for dealer franchises in any metropolitan statistical area with a population of more than one million inhabitants as defined by the federal Office of Management and Budget or its successor agency shall ensure that the community of dealer franchises shall reflect an adequate percentage of minority-owned businesses.

Section 7. It shall be a defense for a motorcycle franchisor, to any action brought pursuant to sections 1 to 9 of this act by a motorcycle franchisee, if it is shown that such motorcycle franchisee has failed to substantially comply with reasonable and lawful requirements imposed by the franchise and other agreements ancillary or collateral thereto, or if the motorcycle franchisee, or any of its officers, have been convicted of a felony relevant to business honesty or business practices, or if the motorcycle franchisee has ceased conducting its business or has abandoned the franchise, or is insolvent as that term is defined in subdivision (23) of section 400.1-201, RSMo, or has filed a voluntary petition in bankruptcy, or has made an assignment for benefit of creditors, or has been the subject of an involuntary proceeding under the federal bankruptcy act or under any state insolvency law which is not vacated within twenty days from the institution thereof, or there has been an appointment of a receiver or other officer having similar powers for the motorcycle franchisee or the motorcycle franchisee's business who is not removed within twenty days from the person's appointment, or there has been a levy under attachment, execution or similar process which is not within ten days vacated or removed by payment or bonding, and it shall be a defense to any action brought pursuant to sections 1 to 9 of this act that the complained of conduct by a motorcycle franchisor was undertaken in good faith in pursuit of rights or remedies accorded to a motorcycle franchisor as a seller of goods or a holder of a security interest pursuant to the provisions of chapter 400, RSMo.

Section 8. No franchisee or franchisor shall use any false, deceptive or misleading advertising.

Section 9. In addition to the administrative relief provided in sections 1 to 9 of this act, any motorcycle franchisee may bring an action against a motorcycle franchisor with whom the franchisee has a franchise, for an act or omission which constitutes an unlawful practice as defined in section 4 of this act to recover damages sustained by reason thereof, and, where appropriate, such motorcycle franchisee shall be entitled to injunctive relief, but the remedies set forth in this section shall not be deemed exclusive and shall be in addition to any other remedies permitted by law.".

House Committee Amendment No. 1

AMEND HB 435, Section A, Page 1, by inserting immediately after said line the following:

99.835. 1. Obligations secured by the special allocation fund set forth in sections 99.845 and 99.850 for the redevelopment area or redevelopment project may be issued by the municipality pursuant to section 99.820 or by the tax increment financing commission to provide for redevelopment costs. Such obligations, when so issued, shall be retired in the manner provided in the ordinance or resolution authorizing the issuance of such obligations by the receipts of payments in lieu of taxes as specified in section 99.855 and, subject to annual appropriation, other tax revenue as specified in section 99.845. A municipality may, in the ordinance or resolution, pledge all or any part of the funds in and to be deposited in the special allocation fund created pursuant to sections 99.845 and 99.850 to the payment of the redevelopment costs and obligations. Any pledge of funds in the special allocation fund may provide for distribution to the taxing districts of moneys not required for payment of redevelopment costs or obligations and such excess funds shall be deemed to be surplus funds, except that any moneys allocated to the special allocation fund as provided in subsection 4 of section 98.845, and which are not required for payment of redevelopment costs and obligations, shall not be distributed to the taxing districts but shall be returned to the department of revenue. In the event a municipality only pledges a portion of the funds in the special allocation fund for the payment of redevelopment costs or obligations, any such funds remaining in the special allocation fund after complying with the requirements of the pledge, including the retention of funds for the payment of future redevelopment costs, if so required, shall also be deemed surplus funds. All surplus funds shall be distributed annually to the taxing districts in the redevelopment area by being paid by the municipal treasurer to the county collector who shall immediately thereafter make distribution as provided in subdivision (11) of section 99.820.

2. Without limiting the provisions of subsection 1 of this section, the municipality may, in addition to obligations secured by the special allocation fund, pledge any part or any combination of net new revenues of any redevelopment project, or a mortgage on part or all of the redevelopment project to secure its obligations or other redevelopment costs.

3. Obligations issued under sections 99.800 to 99.865 may be issued in one or more series bearing interest at such rate or rates as the issuing body of the municipality shall determine by ordinance or resolution. Such obligations shall bear such date or dates, mature at such time or times not exceeding twenty-three years from their respective dates, when secured by the special allocation fund, be in such denomination, carry such registration privileges, be executed in such manner, be payable in such medium of payment at such place or places, contain such covenants, terms and conditions, and be subject to redemption as such ordinance or resolution shall provide. Obligations issued pursuant to sections 99.800 to 99.865 may be sold at public or private sale at such price as shall be determined by the issuing body and shall state that obligations issued pursuant to sections 99.800 to 99.865 are special obligations payable solely from the special allocation fund or other funds specifically pledged. No referendum approval of the electors shall be required as a condition to the issuance of obligations pursuant to sections 99.800 to 99.865.

4. The ordinance authorizing the issuance of obligations may provide that the obligations shall contain a recital that they are issued pursuant to sections 99.800 to 99.865, which recital shall be conclusive evidence of their validity and of the regularity of their issuance.

5. Neither the municipality, its duly authorized commission, the commissioners or the officers of a municipality nor any person executing any obligation shall be personally liable for such obligation by reason of the issuance thereof. The obligations issued pursuant to sections 99.800 to 99.865 shall not be a general obligation of the municipality, county, state of Missouri, or any political subdivision thereof, nor in any event shall such obligation be payable out of any funds or properties other than those specifically pledged as security therefor. The obligations shall not constitute indebtedness within the meaning of any constitutional, statutory or charter debt limitation or restriction.

99.845. 1. A municipality, either at the time a redevelopment project is approved or, in the event a municipality has undertaken acts establishing a redevelopment plan and redevelopment project and has designated a redevelopment area after the passage and approval of sections 99.800 to 99.865 but prior to August 13, 1982, which acts are in conformance with the procedures of sections 99.800 to 99.865, may adopt tax increment allocation financing by passing an ordinance providing that after the total equalized assessed valuation of the taxable real property in a redevelopment project exceeds the certified total initial equalized assessed valuation of the taxable real property in the redevelopment project, the ad valorem taxes, and payments in lieu of taxes, if any, arising from the levies upon taxable real property in such redevelopment project by taxing districts and tax rates determined in the manner provided in subsection 2 of section 99.855 each year after the effective date of the ordinance until redevelopment costs have been paid shall be divided as follows:

(1) That portion of taxes levied upon each taxable lot, block, tract, or parcel of real property which is attributable to the initial equalized assessed value of each such taxable lot, block, tract, or parcel of real property in the area selected for the redevelopment project shall be allocated to and, when collected, shall be paid by the county collector to the respective affected taxing districts in the manner required by law in the absence of the adoption of tax increment allocation financing;

(2) Payments in lieu of taxes attributable to the increase in the current equalized assessed valuation of each taxable lot, block, tract, or parcel of real property in the area selected for the redevelopment project over and above the initial equalized assessed value of each such unit of property in the area selected for the redevelopment project shall be allocated to and, when collected, shall be paid to the municipal treasurer who shall deposit such payment in lieu of taxes into a special fund called the "Special Allocation Fund" of the municipality for the purpose of paying redevelopment costs and obligations incurred in the payment thereof. Payments in lieu of taxes which are due and owing shall constitute a lien against the real estate of the redevelopment project from which they are derived. The municipality may, in the ordinance, pledge the funds in the special allocation fund for the payment of such costs and obligations and provide for the collection of payments in lieu of taxes, the lien of which may be foreclosed in the same manner as a special assessment lien as provided in section 88.861, RSMo. No part of the current equalized assessed valuation of each lot, block, tract, or parcel of property in the area selected for the redevelopment project attributable to any increase above the total initial equalized assessed value of such properties shall be used in calculating the general state school aid formula provided for in section 163.031, RSMo, until such time as all redevelopment costs have been paid as provided for in this section and section 99.850.

2. In addition to the payments in lieu of taxes described in subdivision (2) of subsection 1 of this section, for redevelopment plans and projects adopted or redevelopment projects approved by ordinance after July 12, 1990, and prior to August 31, 1991, fifty percent of the total additional revenue from taxes imposed by the municipality, or other taxing districts, which are generated by economic activities within the area of the redevelopment project over the amount of such taxes generated by economic activities within the area of the redevelopment project in the calendar year prior to the adoption of the redevelopment project by ordinance, while tax increment financing remains in effect, but excluding taxes imposed on sales or charges for sleeping rooms paid by transient guests of hotels and motels, licenses, fees or special assessments other than payments in lieu of taxes, shall be allocated to, and paid by the collecting officer to the treasurer or other designated financial officer of the municipality, who shall deposit such funds in a separate segregated account within the special allocation fund. Any provision of an agreement, contract or covenant entered into prior to July 12, 1990, between a municipality and any other political subdivision which provides for an appropriation of other municipal revenues to the special allocation fund shall be and remain enforceable.

3. In addition to the payments in lieu of taxes described in subdivision (2) of subsection 1 of this section, for redevelopment plans and projects adopted or redevelopment projects approved by ordinance after August 31, 1991, fifty percent of the total additional revenue from taxes which are imposed by the municipality or other taxing districts, and which are generated by economic activities within the area of the redevelopment project over the amount of such taxes generated by economic activities within the area of the redevelopment project in the calendar year prior to the adoption of the redevelopment project by ordinance, while tax increment financing remains in effect, but excluding taxes imposed on sales or charges for sleeping rooms paid by transient guests of hotels and motels, licenses, fees or special assessments and personal property taxes, other than payments in lieu of taxes, shall be allocated to, and paid by the collecting officer to the treasurer or other designated financial officer of the municipality, who shall deposit such funds in a separate segregated account within the special allocation fund.

"4. Beginning January 1, 1998, for redevelopment plans and projects adopted or redevelopment projects approved by ordinance after August 31, 1991, in addition to the payments in lieu of taxes and economic activity taxes described in Subsections 1, 2, and 3 of this section, fifty percent of all net new revenues from states sales taxes pursuant to section 144.020, RSMo, excluding sales taxes that are constitutionally dedicated, generated by activities within the project area over and above the amount of such taxes generated by activities within the project area in the calendar year prior to the approval of the redevelopment project by ordinance, while tax increment financing remains in effect, shall be rebated to, and paid by the director of the department of revenue according to rules promulgated by the department, pursuant to section 536.024, RSMo, to the treasurer or other designated financial officer of the municipality who shall deposit such funds in a separate segregated account within the special allocation fund established pursuant to section 99.805. This account shall be separate from the account into which payments in lieu of taxes are deposited, and separate from the account into which economic activity taxes are deposited.

5. Subsection 4 of this section shall apply only to blighted areas located in enterprise zones, pursuant to section 135.200 to 135.256, RSMo, blighted areas located in federal empowerment zones, or to blighted areas located in central business districts or urban core areas of cities which districts or urban core areas, at the time of approval of the project by ordinance:

(1) Contained one or more buildings at least 50 years old; and

(2) suffered from generally declining population or property taxes over the twenty year period immediately preceding their designation as a project area by ordinance.

6. The fifty percent state sales tax authorized pursuant to subsection 4 of this section shall not be rebated by the department of revenue to a municipality until all of the following conditions have been satisfied:

(1) The department of economic development has approved an application made to it by the municipality for the rebate of state sales taxes;

(2) The affidavit required by section 99.810 (1) shall specify that the redevelopment area would not be reasonably anticipated to be developed without the rebate of the state sales taxes; and

(3) The cost-benefit analysis required by section 99.810 (5) includes a fiscal impact study upon the state of Missouri.

7. There is hereby established within the state treasury a special fund to be known as the "Missouri sales tax increment financing fund", to be administered by the department of revenue. The department shall credit to the Missouri sales tax increment financing fund the sales tax authorized under the provisions of subsection 4 of this section. The fund shall also consist of any gifts, contributions, grants, or bequests received from federal, private, or other sources. Moneys in the Missouri sales tax increment financing fund shall be disbursed to the department of revenue pursuant to appropriations by the general assembly. The department shall disperse such appropriated funds in a timely manner into the separate, segregated account as authorized by subsection 4 of this section. All moneys remaining in the Missouri sales tax increment financing fund at the end of the fiscal year shall not lapse to the general revenue fund, as provided in section 33.080, RSMo, but shall remain in the Missouri sales tax increment financing fund."

Amend title and enacting clause accordingly.

House Committee Amendment No. 2

AMEND House Bill 435, Section 135.460, Subsection 5, Paragraph 5, Line 40, Page 9, by adding immediately after the word "year" on said line the following:

", except that such credit shall not exceed ten thousand dollars per person."

And further amend said Bill, Section 178.896, Page 10, Line 1, by inserting immediately before said section the following:

178.895. 1. To provide funds for the present payment of the costs of new jobs training programs, a community college district may borrow money and issue and sell certificates payable from a sufficient portion of the future receipts of payments authorized by the agreement including disbursements from the Missouri community college job training program to the special fund established by the district for each project. The total amount of outstanding certificates sold by all junior college districts shall not exceed twenty million dollars, unless an increased amount is authorized in writing by a majority of members of the Missouri job training joint legislative oversight committee. The certificates shall be marketed through financial institutions authorized to do business in Missouri. The receipts shall be pledged to the payment of principal of and interest on the certificates.

Certificates may be sold at public sale or at private sale at par, premium, or discount of not less than ninety-five percent of the par value thereof, at the discretion of the board of trustees, and may bear interest at such rate or rates as the board of trustees shall determine, notwithstanding the provisions of section 108.170, RSMo, to the contrary. However, chapter 176, RSMo, does not apply to the issuance of these certificates. Certificates may be issued with respect to a single project or multiple projects and may contain terms or conditions as the board of trustees may provide by resolution authorizing the issuance of the certificates.

2. Certificates issued to refund other certificates may be sold at public sale or at private sale as provided in this section with the proceeds from the sale to be used for the payment of the certificates being refunded. The refunding certificates may be exchanged in payment and discharge of the certificates being refunded, in installments at different times or an entire issue or series at one time. Refunding certificates may be sold or exchanged at any time on, before, or after the maturity of the outstanding certificates to be refunded. They may be issued for the purpose of refunding a like, greater, or lesser principal amount of certificates and may bear a higher, lower, or equivalent rate of interest than the certificates being renewed or refunded.

3. Before certificates are issued, the board of trustees shall publish once a notice of its intention to issue the certificates, stating the amount, the purpose, and the project or projects for which the certificates are to be issued. A person may, within fifteen days after the publication of the notice, by action in the circuit court of a county in the district, appeal the decision of the board of trustees to issue the certificates. The action of the board of trustees in determining to issue the certificates is final and conclusive unless the circuit court finds that the board of trustees has exceeded its legal authority. An action shall not be brought which questions the legality of the certificates, the power of the board of trustees to issue the certificates, the effectiveness of any proceedings relating to the authorization of the project, or the authorization and issuance of the certificates from and after fifteen days from the publication of the notice of intention to issue.

4. The board of trustees shall determine if revenues provided in the agreement are sufficient to secure the faithful performance of obligations in the agreement.

5. Certificates issued under this section shall not be deemed to be an indebtedness of the state or the community college district or of any other political subdivision of the state and the principal and interest on such certificates shall be payable only from the sources provided in subdivision (1) of section 178.893 which are pledged in the agreement.

6. The department of economic development shall coordinate the new jobs training program, and may promulgate rules that districts will use in developing projects with new and expanding industrial new jobs training proposals which shall include rules providing for the coordination of such proposals with the service delivery areas established in the state to administer federal funds pursuant to the federal Job Training Partnership Act. No rule or portion of a rule promulgated under the authority of sections 178.892 to 178.896 shall become effective unless it has been promulgated pursuant to the provisions of section 536.024, RSMo.

7. No community college district may sell certificates as described in this section after July 1, [1998] 2008.

Amend title and enacting clause accordingly.

House Committee Amendment No. 4

AMEND House Bill 435, Section 135.500, Page 13, Line 68, by inserting immediately after said line the following:

135.503. 1. Any investor that makes an investment of certified capital shall, in the year of investment, earn a vested credit against state premium tax liability equal to the applicable percentage of the investor's investment of certified capital. An investor shall be entitled to take up to ten percent of the vested credit in any taxable year of the investor. Any time after three years after August 28, 1996, the director, with the approval of the commissioner of administration, may reduce the applicable percentage on a prospective basis. Any such reduction in the applicable percentage by the director shall not have any effect on credits against state premium tax liability which have been claimed or will be claimed by any investor with respect to credits which have been earned and vested pursuant to an investment of certified capital prior to the effective date of any such change.

2. An insurance company claiming a state premium tax credit earned through an investment in a certified capital company shall not be required to pay any additional retaliatory tax levied pursuant to 375.916, RSMo, as a result of claiming that credit.

[2]3. The credit against state premium tax liability which is described in subsection 1 of this section may not exceed the state premium tax liability of the investor for any taxable year. All such credits against state premium tax liability may be carried forward indefinitely until the credits are utilized. The maximum amount of certified capital in one or more certified capital companies for which earned and vested tax credits will be allowed in any year to any one investor or its affiliates will be limited to ten million dollars.

[3]4. The aggregate amount of certified capital for which earned and vested credits against state premium tax liability are allowed for all persons pursuant to sections 135.500 to 135.529 shall not exceed the following amounts: for calendar year 1996, $0.00; for calendar year 1997, an amount which would entitle all Missouri certified capital company investors to take aggregate credits of five million dollars; and for any year thereafter, an additional amount to be determined by the director but not to exceed aggregate credits of ten million dollars for any year with the approval of the commissioner of administration and reported to the general assembly as provided in subsection 2 of section 33.282, RSMo, provided that the amount so determined shall not impair the ability of an investor with earned and vested credits which have been allowed in previous years to take them, pursuant to subsection 1 of this section. During any calendar year in which the limitation described in this subsection will limit the amount of certified capital for which earned and vested credits against state premium tax liability are allowed, certified capital for which credits are allowed will be allocated in order of priority based upon the date of filing of information described in subdivision (1) of subsection 5 of section 135.516. Certified capital limited in any calendar year by the application of the provisions of this subsection shall be allowed and allocated in the immediately succeeding calendar year in the order of priority set forth in this subsection.

[4]5. The department shall advise any Missouri certified capital company, in writing, within fifteen days after receiving the filing described in subdivision (1) of subsection 5 of section 135.516 whether the limitations of subsection 3 of this section then in effect will be applicable with respect to the investments and credits described in such filing with the department.

6. Any investor not subject to state premium tax liability may use the credit referred to in this section against the investor's franchise and other taxes as permitted in section 148.064, RSMo, payable by the investor commencing in the year following the year of investment and subject to all other restrictions and limitations contained in sections 135.500 to 135.529.

135.508. The department may certify profit or not for profit entities which submit an application to be designated as a Missouri certified capital company. The department shall review the organizational documents for each applicant for certification and the business history of the applicant, determine that the Missouri certified capital company's cash, marketable securities and other liquid assets are at least five hundred thousand dollars, determine that the liquid asset base for certified companies is at least five hundred thousand dollars at all times during the company's participation in the program authorized by sections 135.500 to 135.529, and determine that the officers and the board of directors, partners, trustees or managers are thoroughly acquainted with the requirements of sections 135.500 to 135.529. No insurance company [licensed by or transacting business in Missouri shall] or bank investor which receives premium tax or bank franchise tax credits for an investment in a Missouri certified capital company may, individually or with or through one or more affiliates, be a managing general partner of or control the direction of investments of [a] that Missouri certified capital company. Within seventy-five days of application, the department shall either issue the certification and notify the department of revenue and the director of the department of insurance of such certification or shall refuse the certification and communicate in detail to the applicant the grounds for the refusal, including the suggestions for the removal of those grounds. The department shall be responsible for the administration of the tax credits authorized by sections 135.500 to 135.529.

148.064. 1. Notwithstanding any law to the contrary, this section shall determine the ordering and limit reductions for certain taxes and tax credits which may be used as credits against various taxes paid or payable by banking institutions. Except as adjusted in subsections 2 and 3, such credits shall be applied in the following order until used against:

(1) The tax on banks determined under subdivision (2) of subsection 2 of section 148.030;

(2) The tax on banks determined under subdivision (1) of subsection 2 of section 148.030;

(3) The state income tax in section 143.071, RSMo.

2. The tax credits permitted against taxes payable pursuant to subdivision (2) of subsection 2 of section 148.030 shall be utilized first and include taxes referenced in subdivisions (2) and (3) of subsection 1 of this section, which shall be determined without reduction for any tax credits identified in subsection 5 of this section which are used to reduce such taxes. Where a banking institution subject to this section joins in the filing of a consolidated state income tax return under chapter 143, RSMo, the credit allowed under this section for state income taxes payable under chapter 143, RSMo, shall be determined based upon the consolidated state income tax liability of the group and allocated to a banking institution, without reduction for any tax credits identified in subsection 5 of this section which are used to reduce such consolidated taxes as provided in chapter 143, RSMo.

3. The taxes referenced in subdivisions (2) and (3) of subsection 1 of this section may be reduced by the tax credits in subsection 5 of this section without regard to any adjustments in subsection 2 of this section.

4. To the extent that certain tax credits which the taxpayer is entitled to claim are transferable, such transferability may include transfers among such taxpayers who are members of a single consolidated income tax return, and this subsection shall not impact other tax credit transferability.

5. For the purpose of this section, the tax credits referred to in subsections 2 and 3 shall include tax credits available for economic development, low-income housing and neighborhood assistance which the taxpayer is entitled to claim for the year, including by way of example and not of limitation, tax credits pursuant to the following sections: section 32.115, RSMo, section 100.286, RSMo, and sections 135.110, 135.225, 135.352, [and 135.403] and 135.500 to 135.529, RSMo.

First Regular Session, 89th General Assembly

TWENTY-EIGHTH DAY, Monday, February 24, 1997

Speaker Pro Tem Kreider in the Chair.

Prayer by Father Hugh Behan.

"Great are the works of the Lord, studied by all who have pleasure in them." (Ps. 111:2).

This afternoon, gracious God, we pause to honor those artists who lift us above the ordinary with their creations. Life is too often full of drudgery for us and artists allow us to revel in beauty, in wonder, in imagination. We thank you, our God, first of all whose marvelous sunsets and full moon nights, and morning sky and winter snow and spring flowers and the richness of the colors and design of our fur and feathered friends take the humdrum out of life with their striking beauty and diversity.

The Pledge of Allegiance to the flag was recited.

The Journal of the twenty-seventh day was approved as printed.

First Regular Session, 89th General Assembly

TWENTY-NINTH DAY, Tuesday, February 25, 1997

Speaker Gaw in the Chair.

Prayer by Father Hugh Behan.

"Wisdom is better than might." Eccl. (9:16)

These past few days we have received the news about the cloning of a sheep in Scotland. The news has ethical implications. Gracious God, we are faced every year in this Assembly with ethical issues, which are intertwined with our political system and our principle of non-establishment of religion, so-called Church State separation. So often that principle is abused by those who would rule out ethical considerations from most of our laws, and by those who seek to impose a narrow reading of parts of the Bible on the whole society. Help us Lord, as we seek to legislate issues with core moral implications, many of them facing us as they have never faced us before with new technology and with our society's pluralism. As we and Congress deal with welfare reform, assisted suicide, health care insurance, life in the womb, the life of those condemned for crimes, guide us with your wisdom. Meantime, cloning sheep might be okay, but for us humans it is a bah-aa-ad idea. Amen.

The Pledge of Allegiance to the flag was recited.

The Speaker appointed the following to act as Honorary Pages for the Day, to serve without compensation: Amanda Lucious, Matt Craig, Joe Milisitch, Angela Kelley, Christi Smith, Christopher Johnson, Christine Miller, Scott Meyer, Marla Brueggen, Kevin Caravelli, Gloria Dirnbeck, Erin Edgar, Monica Falk, Sarah Hanses, Sam Hotop, Doug Kappauff, Erin Melchior, Jane Nguyen, Kathleen Prosser, Jeff Rupp, Joel Jones, Caroline Miller, Danyelle Potter, Richard Greenough, Casey Price, Tracey Fitzgerald, Amanda Hayes and Cindy Griffin.

The Journal of the twenty-eighth day was approved as corrected.

House Amendment No. 1

AMEND House Bill No. 516, Page 1, In the Title, Line 3, by deleting the word "eight" and inserting in lieu thereof the word "thirteen"; and Further amend said bill, Page 13, Section 621.053, Line 4, by inserting after all of said line the following:

"Section B. Five new sections are enacted, to be known as sections 1, 2, 3, 4 and 5, to read as follows:

Section 1. As used in sections 1 to 5 of this act, unless the context otherwise requires, the following terms mean:

(1) "Coerce", to force a person to act in a given manner or to compel by pressure or threat but shall not be construed to include the following:

(a) Good faith recommendations, exposition, argument, persuasion or attempts at persuasion;

(b) Notice given in good faith to any franchisee of such franchisee's violation of terms or provisions of such franchise or contractual agreement;

(c) Any other conduct set forth in section 5 of this act as a defense to an action brought pursuant to sections 1 to 5 of this act; or

(d) Any other conduct set forth in sections 1 to 5 of this act that is permitted of the franchisor or is expressly excluded from coercion or a violation of sections 1 to 5 of this act;

(2) "Franchise", a written arrangement or contract for a definite or indefinite period, in which a person grants to another person a license to use, or the right to grant to others a license to use, a trade name, trademark, service mark, or related characteristics, in which there is a community of interest in the marketing of goods or services, or both, at wholesale or retail, by agreement, lease or otherwise, and in which the operation of the franchisee's business with respect to such franchise is substantially reliant on the franchisor for the continued supply of franchised new motorcycles, parts and accessories for sale at wholesale or retail;

(3) "Franchisee", a person to whom a franchise is granted;

(4) "Franchisor", a person who grants a franchise to another person;

(5) "Motorcycle", a motor vehicle operated on two wheels;

(6) "New", when referring to motorcycles or parts, means those motorcycles or parts which have not been held except as inventory, as that term is defined in subdivision (4) of section 400.9-109, RSMo;

(7) "Person", a sole proprietor, partnership, corporation, or any other form of business organization.

Section 2. The performance, whether by act or omission, by a motorcycle franchisor of any or all of the following activities enumerated in this section are hereby defined as unlawful practices, the remedies for which are set forth in section 3 of this act:

(1) To engage in any conduct which is capricious, in bad faith, or unconscionable and which causes damage to a motorcycle franchisee or to the public; provided, that good faith conduct engaged in by motorcycle franchisors as sellers of new motorcycles or parts or as holders of security interest therein, in pursuit of rights or remedies accorded to sellers of goods or to holders of security interests pursuant to the provisions of chapter 400, RSMo, uniform commercial code, shall not constitute unfair practices pursuant to sections 1 to 5 of this act;

(2) To coerce any motorcycle franchisee to accept delivery of any new motorcycle or motorcycles, equipment, parts or accessories therefor, or any other commodity or commodities which such motorcycle franchisee has not ordered after such motorcycle franchisee has rejected such commodity or commodities. It shall not be deemed a violation of this section for a motorcycle franchisor to require a motorcycle franchisee to have an inventory of parts, tools, and equipment reasonably necessary to service the motorcycles sold by a motorcycle franchisor; or new motorcycles reasonably necessary to meet the demands of dealers or the public or to display to the public the full line of a motorcycle franchisor's product line;

(3) To unreasonably refuse to deliver in reasonable quantities and within a reasonable time after receipt of orders for new motorcycles, such motorcycles as are so ordered and as are covered by such franchise and as are specifically publicly advertised by such motorcycle franchisor to be available for immediate delivery; provided, however, the failure to deliver any motorcycle shall not be considered a violation of sections 1 to 5 of this act if such failure be due to an act of God, work stoppage, or delay due to a strike or labor difficulty, shortage of products or materials, freight delays, embargo or other cause of which such motorcycle franchisor shall have no control;

(4) To coerce any motorcycle franchisee to enter into any agreement with such motorcycle franchisor or to do any other act prejudicial to such motorcycle franchisee, by threatening to cancel any franchise or any contractual agreement existing between such motorcycle franchisor and motorcycle franchisee; provided, however, that notice in good faith to any motorcycle franchisee of such motorcycle franchisee's violation of any provisions of such franchise or contractual agreement shall not constitute a violation of sections 1 to 5 of this act;

(5) To terminate or cancel the franchise or selling agreement of any motorcycle franchisee except a termination or cancellation made by reason of a substantial default by such franchisee in the performance of such motorcycle franchisee's reasonable and lawful obligations to such motorcycle franchisor under the franchise. The nonrenewal of a motorcycle franchise or selling agreement shall constitute an unfair termination or cancellation, regardless of the terms or provisions of such franchise or selling agreement unless it is not renewed by reason of:

(a) A substantial default by such motorcycle franchisee in the performance of such motorcycle franchisee's reasonable and lawful obligations to such motorcycle franchisor under the nonrenewed franchise or selling agreement; or

(b) The discontinuance of the sale in the state of Missouri of such motorcycle franchisor's products which are the subject of the franchise;

(6) To prevent by contract or otherwise, any motorcycle franchisee from changing the capital structure of the franchisee's franchise of such motorcycle franchisee or the means by or through which the franchisee finances the operation of the franchisee's franchise, provided the motorcycle franchisee at all times meets any reasonable capital standards agreed to between the motorcycle franchisee and the motorcycle franchisor and grants to the motorcycle franchisor a purchase money security interest in the new motorcycles, new parts and accessories purchased from the motorcycle franchisor;

(7) To prevent by contract or otherwise any motorcycle franchisee or any officer, partner or stockholder of any motorcycle franchisee from selling or transferring any part of the interest of any of them to any other person or persons or party or parties; provided, if the franchise specifically permits the franchisor to approve or disapprove of any such proposed sale or transfer, a franchisor shall only be allowed to disapprove of a proposed sale or transfer if the interest being sold or transferred when added to any other interest owned by the transferee constitutes fifty percent or more of the ownership interest in the franchise and if the proposed transferee fails to satisfy any standards of the franchisor which are in fact normally relied upon by the franchisor prior to its entering into a franchise, and which relate to the proposed management or ownership of the franchise operations or to the qualification, capitalization, integrity, or character of the proposed transferee and which are reasonable. In order to exercise a franchisor's right of disapproval as set forth herein the franchisor shall:

(a) Notify, in writing, the franchisee of the franchisor's disapproval within thirty working days of the franchisor's receipt of a written proposal to consummate such sale or transfer; provided, however, that the franchisee and the prospective franchisee shall cooperate fully with the franchisor in providing information relating to the prospective transferee's capitalization, integrity and character;

(b) Specify in such written notice the reasonable standards which the franchisor contends are not satisfied and the reasons the franchisor contends such standards are not satisfied. Failure on the part of the franchisor to fully comply with either paragraph (a) of this subdivision or this paragraph shall be conclusively deemed an approval by the franchisor of the proposed sale or transfer to the proposed transferee;

(8) To prevent by contract or otherwise any motorcycle franchisee from changing the executive management of the motorcycle franchisee's business, except that any attempt by a motorcycle franchisor to demonstrate by giving reasons that such change in executive management will be detrimental to the distribution of the motorcycle franchisor's motorcycles shall not constitute a violation of this subdivision;

(9) To impose unreasonable standards of performance upon a motorcycle franchisee;

(10) To require a motorcycle franchisee at the time of entering into a franchise arrangement to assent to a release, assignment, novation, waiver or estoppel which would relieve any person from liability imposed by sections 1 to 5 of this act;

(11) To prohibit directly or indirectly the right of free association among motorcycle franchisees for any lawful purpose;

(12) To provide any term or condition in any lease or other agreement ancillary or collateral to a franchise, which term or condition directly or indirectly violates the provisions of sections 1 to 5 of this act.

Section 3. Any motorcycle franchisee may bring an action against a motorcycle franchisor with whom the franchisee has a franchise, for an act or omission which constitutes an unlawful practice as defined in section 2 of this act to recover damages sustained by reason thereof, and, where appropriate, such motorcycle franchisee shall be entitled to injunctive relief, but the remedies set forth in this section shall not be deemed exclusive and shall be in addition to any other remedies permitted by law.

Section 4. Any person who is engaged or engages directly or indirectly in purposeful contacts within the state of Missouri in connection with the offering, advertising, purchasing, selling, or contracting to purchase or to sell new motorcycles, or who, being a motorcycle franchisor, is transacting or transacts any business with a motorcycle franchisee who maintains a place of business within the state and with whom the franchisee has a franchise, shall be subject to the jurisdiction of the courts of the state of Missouri, upon service of process in accordance with the provisions of section 506.510, RSMo, irrespective of whether such person is a manufacturer, importer, distributor or dealer in new motorcycles.

Section 5. It shall be a defense for a motorcycle franchisor, to any action brought pursuant to sections 1 to 5 of this act by a motorcycle franchisee, if it is shown that such motorcycle franchisee has failed to substantially comply with reasonable and lawful requirements imposed by the franchise and other agreements ancillary or collateral thereto, or if the motorcycle franchisee, or any of its officers, have been convicted of a felony relevant to business honesty or business practices, or if the motorcycle franchisee has ceased conducting its business or has abandoned the franchise, or is insolvent as that term is defined in subdivision (23) of section 400.1-201, RSMo, or has filed a voluntary petition in bankruptcy, or has made an assignment for benefit of creditors, or has been the subject of an involuntary proceeding under the federal bankruptcy act or under any state insolvency law which is not vacated within twenty days from the institution thereof, or there has been an appointment of a receiver or other officer having similar powers for the motorcycle franchisee or the motorcycle franchisee's business who is not removed within twenty days from the person's appointment, or there has been a levy under attachment, execution or similar process which is not within ten days vacated or removed by payment or bonding, and it shall be a defense to any action brought pursuant to sections 1 to 5 of this act that the complained of conduct by a motorcycle franchisor was undertaken in good faith in pursuit of rights or remedies accorded to a motorcycle franchisor as a seller of goods or a holder of a security interest pursuant to the provisions of chapter 400, RSMo.".

First Regular Session, 89th General Assembly

THIRTIETH DAY, Wednesday, February 26, 1997

Speaker Gaw in the Chair.

Prayer by Father Hugh Behan.

"I am content and at peace." (Psalm 131:2).

We hear so much disturbing news about people who do violence against persons or property, oftentimes because they have some emotional or mental illness. Sometimes mental illness is the reason for such acts, but the person or persons use the excuse of a political or moral agenda in their distorted thinking which causes confusion and gives a bad name to many non-violent and peaceful people. There is so much we have yet to understand about the human brain and the connection between physical and moral evil.

God of Life, source of our health and well-being, we pray for all victims of acts of violence, for the law enforcement and criminal justice personnel who must deal with them, for the perpetrators themselves. We lift up the research being done on all such illnesses and diseases and give thanks for the medications and the counseling services which are allowing many people to live in safety with mental illnesses. Amen.

The Pledge of Allegiance to the flag was recited.

The Journal of the twenty-ninth day was approved as corrected by the following vote:

MESSAGES FROM THE SENATE

Mr. Speaker: I am instructed by the Senate to inform the House of Representatives that the Senate has taken up and adopted SCR 12.

SENATE CONCURRENT RESOLUTION NO. 12

WHEREAS, the United States Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) has a responsibility under the federal Clean Air Act to review periodically the National Ambient Air Quality Standards (NAAQS) for ozone and particulate matter (PM); and

WHEREAS, EPA is considering changes to both NAAQS, which includes tightening the ozone standard and adding a separate standard for particulate matter smaller than two and one-half microns in size (PM2.5) in addition to the existing standard for particulate matter smaller than ten microns in size (PM10); and

WHEREAS, states, through their citizens, legislative bodies and regulatory agencies, have worked hard to reduce air pollution and meet clean air requirements; and

WHEREAS, tightened standards could significantly expand the number of nonattainment areas for both standards and result in emissions controls in additional areas, thus imposing significant economic, administrative and regulatory burdens on more citizens, businesses and local governments; and

WHEREAS, there is very little monitoring data for PM2.5; and

WHEREAS, current research indicates that there are many unanswered questions and uncertainties on the PM issue and the need for a more stringent standard, including: divergent opinions among scientists who have investigated this issue, lack of supporting toxicological data, lack of a plausible toxicological mechanism connecting PM2.5 to adverse health effects, lack of an established correlation between recorded levels and public health effects; and

WHEREAS, no clear scientific proof exists that tightening controls on PM2.5 or ozone would avoid alleged adverse health effects, while costs of implementing such a standard would assuredly be high;

WHEREAS, the Agency's action has been taken with virtually no evidence that the change in standards will result in significant health benefits and with no analysis of the enormous costs that will be charged to Missouri business and consumers and to those communities that must implement new complicated compliance programs;

WHEREAS, the Missouri Department of Natural Resources, in testimony before the EPA last fall, indicated that it was premature to tighten air standards severely without adequate health data on the need for such standards or sufficient information on the atmospheric transport of ozone and noted that the EPA has yet to even determine a "reference method" for collecting and reporting data on particulate matter;

WHEREAS, the EPA's own scientific adviser, the Clean Air Science Advisory Committee (CASAC) has recommended that the EPA proceed cautiously and improve the existing state of scientific knowledge before taking costly steps to further control ozone and fine particulate emissions;

WHEREAS, the Senate committee responsible for approving EPA's budget when it allocated $19 million to study particulate matter, noting that it is premature for the EPA to order such drastic changes in air regulations without conducting the necessary scientific review;

NOW, THEREFORE, BE IT RESOLVED, that the Senate of the Eighty-Ninth Missouri General Assembly, the House of Representatives concurring therein, advise and strongly urge EPA to retain the existing NAAQS for ozone; and

BE IT FURTHER RESOLVED, that the EPA is advised and strongly urged to reaffirm the existing PM10 standard and conduct the additional PM2.5 monitoring and scientific research needed to address the issue of causality and other important unanswered questions before a proposal for a new PM2.5 standard or a revised PM10 standard is made; and

BE IT FURTHER RESOLVED, that the EPA should abandon its current consideration of a PM2.5 standard until more information, including, sound science and cost-effectiveness data are available; and

BE IT FURTHER RESOLVED, that the EPA is urged to identify any unfunded mandates or other administrative and economic burdens for state or local governments or agencies that would derive from changes to the NAAQS for ozone or particulate matter; and

BE IT FURTHER RESOLVED, that the Secretary of the Senate prepare and transmit properly inscribed copies of this resolution to the President of the United States, the President of the United States Senate, the Speaker of the United States House of Representatives, the Missouri Congressional delegation, the Administrator of the United State Environmental Protection Agency and the Director of the Missouri Department of Natural Resources.

First Regular Session, 89th General Assembly

THIRTY-FIRST DAY, Thursday, February 27, 1997

Speaker Gaw in the Chair.

Prayer by Reverend Cheryl L. Tatham.

The world is a complex place, O Holy One, and we find ourselves confronted on all sides, needing to make decisions, needing to take stands, whether on the status of health care, welfare, executions, abortions, or budgets. And in the midst of these life-changing issues we still struggle with the trivialities of life. Help us to sort through these things with rational and compassionate minds and hearts, that our decisions might be wise ones.

Keep us from harshly criticizing the work of others, and help us remember that we have no right to criticize unless we are prepared to do the job better, or at least give a hand with it.

Keep us from contemptuously or arrogantly criticizing the beliefs of others. Help us remember that there are as many ways to the stars as there are hands to reach for them.

And now, O God of Wisdom, enable us today to walk in your light; to act in your strength; to think in your wisdom; to speak in your truth; and to live in your love. Amen.

The Pledge of Allegiance to the flag was recited.

The Speaker appointed the following to act as Honorary Pages for the Day, to serve without compensation: Tierra Grady, Devon Catching, Brandon Adams, Jonathon Stark, Crystal Moore, Sharon Jeffries, Brian Thomas, Jennifer Camp, David Jordan, Joe Jordan, Michael Jordan, Douglas Ross Whitehead, Sara Jeffries, Dione Tomporowski, Kristy Rainey and Rachel Thompson.

HOUSE CONCURRENT RESOLUTION NO. 12

WHEREAS, the Federal Clean Air Act, as amended, 42 U.S.C. 7401 et seq., contains a comprehensive regulatory scheme for the control of emissions from mobile and stationary sources; and

WHEREAS, ozone and other air pollutants have declined substantially over the past 25 years throughout the United States due to implementation of the Clean Air Act, with additional progress expected as the 1990 Clean Air Act Amendments are implemented; and

WHEREAS, the Northeast Ozone Transport Commission ("OTC"), in an effort to remedy the serious ozone nonattainment conditions prevailing in urbanized areas of the Northeast, has proposed emission control requirements for stationary and mobile sources more stringent than those applicable to states outside of the Northeast Ozone Transport Region ("OTR"), including a petition to the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency ("EPA") concerning Low-Emitting Vehicle emission control requirements, and a Memorandum of Understanding concerning stationary source emission control requirements; and

WHEREAS, the OTC's initiatives together with other local emission control actions will help northeastern states to attain the national ambient air quality standard for ozone; and

WHEREAS, in response to concerns raised by certain northeastern states about the interstate transport of ozone, the U.S. EPA has convened the Ozone Transport Assessment Group ("OTAG"), involving representatives from 37 states to the west and south of the Northeast OTR, including Missouri, to consider means to reduce the atmospheric transport of ozone; and

WHEREAS, OTAG will develop recommendations in 1997 for emission control actions in states outside of the Northeast that may form the basis for U.S. EPA enforcement actions under the Clean Air Act, including the preparation and submission of State Implementation Plans calling for control actions in Missouri not specifically mandated by the Clean Air Act Amendments of 1990; and

WHEREAS, both the Midwestern Governors' Association and the Southern Governors' Conference have adopted resolutions calling on U.S. EPA and OTAG, inter alia, to include state legislative participation within OTAG, but such participation has neither been invited nor taken place; and

WHEREAS, computer modeling studies prepared by OTAG indicate that: a) ozone nonattainment is caused predominantly by local emission sources in densely-populated urbanized areas; b) emissions originating in Missouri do not contribute significantly to ozone nonattainment in other states or regions; and c) even the most extreme emission controls imposed in local or in upwind areas would not permit some urban areas to demonstrate attainment of the national ozone standard; and

WHEREAS, emission controls for stationary and mobile sources under consideration by OTAG for states outside the Northeast are substantially more stringent and more costly than those mandated by the Clean Air Act Amendments of 1990, and could impair the competitiveness of businesses and industries in Missouri, with negligible environmental benefits, and with adverse effects on employment and income in Missouri; and

WHEREAS, imposition of emission control requirements under consideration by OTAG could impede economic development and job creation to the detriment of the well-being of the citizens of Missouri and its economy; and

WHEREAS, legislative oversight of proposed actions of the Ozone Transport Assessment Group, and related actions of U.S. EPA directly or indirectly affecting the citizens and economy of Missouri, is in the public interest:

NOW, THEREFORE, BE IT RESOLVED by the Missouri House of Representatives of the Eighty-ninth General Assembly, the Senate concurring therein, that the Director of the Department of Natural Resources be requested to provide periodic reports to the legislature on progress in the OTAG decision-making process, and submit any proposed OTAG recommendations, together with the explanation thereof, as expeditiously as practicable to the Governor, President Pro Tem of the Senate, Speaker of the House, and the Chairmen of the House Committee on Environment and Energy and the Senate Committee on Commerce and Environment for review and consideration; and

BE IT FURTHER RESOLVED that within a reasonable time following receipt of the aforesaid proposed OTAG recommendations, and prior to those recommendations being made final by OTAG, the committees shall convene public hearings to receive comments from agencies of government and other interested parties on the prospective economic and environmental impacts of said decisions or recommendations, including impacts on energy use, the environment, economic development, utility costs and rates, transportation fuel costs, and industrial competitiveness; and

BE IT FURTHER RESOLVED that the Chief Clerk of the Missouri House of Representatives be instructed to prepare a properly inscribed copy of this resolution for the Director of the Department of Natural Resources.

Mr. Speaker: Your Committee on Environment and Energy, to which was referred HB 135, begs leave to report it has examined the same and recommends that it Do Pass with House Committee Amendment Nos. 1 and 2.

First Regular Session, 89th General Assembly

THIRTY-SECOND DAY, Monday, March 3, 1997

Speaker Gaw in the Chair.

Prayer by Reverend Cheryl L. Tatham.

O Lord, after a weekend of rest, we return to this House with business to tend to. Strengthen and guide all those who are sincerely trying to do what is right, and make it plain what is to be done. Make each one here more mindful of the needs of the individuals of this state, and less absorbed in selfish concerns.

On this beautiful spring day, we offer thanks for rest and time with family and friends. May our days away refresh us to lend our fullest attention to the work that is here to do. And may we trust that you will keep those we love safe until we are with them again.

Thank you for granting us your mercy, your love, and your wisdom in this new week. Amen.

The Pledge of Allegiance to the flag was recited.

First Regular Session, 89th General Assembly

THIRTY-THIRD DAY, Tuesday, March 4, 1997

Speaker Gaw in the Chair.

Prayer by Reverend Cheryl L. Tatham.

We take these few moments of quiet, Gracious God, to say thank you for another day of life. Throughout this city, state, nation and world, there are those who live in the uncertainties of life - because of illness, war, hunger, domestic violence, abuse. Let us never forget, in the midst of our blessings, those who struggle for life.

We live in a country, Lord, where we have many freedoms that are taken for granted. Remind us of the responsibilities that accompany those freedoms - responsibilities of fairness and justice, of truth and knowledge, and help these gathered here be the kind of leaders who seek their guidance from you and who are continually held accountable by their conscience. And now, may you grant this state's representatives the blessings of an honest day's work. Amen.

The Pledge of Allegiance to the flag was recited.

First Regular Session, 89th General Assembly

THIRTY-FOURTH DAY, Wednesday, March 5, 1997

Speaker Pro Tem Kreider in the Chair.

Prayer by Reverend Cheryl L. Tatham.

From the Committee on Natural and Economic Resources to Transportation to Ways and Means, these representatives' lives are filled with meetings and agendas, numbers and bills and amendments, and on and on. Somewhere in the big middle of all of that is the person -- the representative who has been elected to speak for the people of his or her district. Whether Democrat or Republican, those individuals need your guidance, O God of all goodness...guidance on what they do in their offices, the hallways and in this room...guidance as they do the business of the state of Missouri.

Grant that today, Loving God, the issues will seem a little clearer, the decisions stand a little firmer, and the cooperation work a little better, as these folks serve the people of Missouri. And grant the leaders of this body your wisdom as they guide the proceedings of this day. Amen.

The Pledge of Allegiance to the flag was recited.

The Speaker appointed the following to act as Honorary Pages for the Day, to serve without compensation: Sara McReynolds, Rose Rowden, Monica Nance, Charity Hunter, Jeff Edwards, Doug Harmes, Amy White, Jenny Nixon, Jessica Otto, Zeth Otto, Trent Otto, David Lavender, Carrie Furay, Katherine Rodi, Jessica Brown and Dev Bala.

MESSAGES FROM THE SENATE

Mr. Speaker: I am instructed by the Senate to inform the House of Representatives that the Senate has taken up and adopted SCR 19.

SENATE CONCURRENT RESOLUTION NO. 19

WHEREAS, families are an important institution in this nation and in the state of Missouri; and

WHEREAS, the role that parents play in a child's life is important and the time that parents spend with children is crucial to the future of our society; and

WHEREAS, since 1965, the amount of time that parents spend with their children has dropped forty percent; and

WHEREAS, a 1993 study found that sixty-six percent of adults surveyed nationwide wanted to spend more time with their children; and

WHEREAS, in 1960, less than nineteen percent of married women were in the workforce who had a spouse present and children less than six years of age, yet today, more than sixty percent of such women are in the workplace; and

WHEREAS, currently, seventy-six percent of mothers with school-age children are in the workforce; and

WHEREAS, inflexible work schedules conflict with school hours, day care arrangements and family emergencies; and

WHEREAS, working parents, especially working mothers, require flexible working schedules so that they can take the time to tend to their children's needs; and

WHEREAS, federal law allows public employees to have flexible working schedules, so that such employees can balance the needs of work and family; and

WHEREAS, federal law prohibits employees in the private sector from having flexibility in work schedules which public employees currently enjoy; and

WHEREAS, in the interest of creating equity between private and public sector employment, and in the interest of promoting the importance of family obligations in our society, private sector employees should be allowed to have flexibility in their work schedules in order to meet their family and personal obligations; and

WHEREAS, such flexibility can be established by allowing employees to opt for paid flexible leave; and

WHEREAS, paid flexible leave would allow a private sector employee to choose to work hours in addition to a forty-hour work week, and use those extra hours as compensatory time for a shorter, future work week. Such flexibility could be met by allowing an employee to work eighty hours over a two-week period in any combination that the employee wishes, or by allowing the employee to take time-and-a-half off instead of time-and-a-half pay for any overtime hours worked. The decision to work a flexible schedule would be solely at the option of the employee, not the employer; and

WHEREAS, federal law prohibits such flexibility at the option of the private sector employee;

NOW, THEREFORE, BE IT RESOLVED by the members of the Missouri Senate of the First Regular Session of the Eighty-ninth General Assembly, the House of Representatives concurring therein, that we respectfully urge the Congress of the United States to address this important issue by enacting legislation which would allow private sector employees to be able to choose paid flexible leave as set forth in this resolution; and

BE IT FURTHER RESOLVED that the Secretary of the Senate be instructed to prepare properly inscribed copies of this resolution to be transmitted forthwith to the President of the United States, the Speaker of the United States House of Representatives, the President of the United States Senate, and to each member of the Missouri Delegation of Congress.

First Regular Session, 89th General Assembly

THIRTY-FIFTH DAY, Thursday, March 6, 1997

Speaker Pro Tem Kreider in the Chair.

Prayer by Reverend Cheryl L. Tatham.

Gracious God, this week has seen the evidence of nature's chaos in floods and tornadoes, lives lost in the fury of storms. Sometimes, within these walls, we forget what's going on around us. We get submerged in the paperwork and the phone calls and the meetings. Remind us of the world out there - the world that affects the people we represent. When we talk about health care, remind us that we're talking about people lying in hospital beds with worried family standing beside them; when we talk about welfare reform, remind us that there is a mother who's been left with hungry children to feed and doesn't know where the next meal is coming from; when we talk about issues, remind us of the faces and lives behind those issues. Let us be guided by the ultimate Law - your Law of Love.

And now as we prepare for a break in the activities - give these gathered here a time for rest and refreshment; a time of renewal and recommitment. Keep them safe and return them to this place ready to complete the business of this House. Amen.

The Pledge of Allegiance to the flag was recited.

The Speaker appointed the following to act as Honorary Pages for the Day, to serve without compensation: Katharine Steinmetz, Zachery Fortner, Justin Yoder, Capen Briggs, Eric Steverson, Alison Stroop, Rita Hunt, Alex Merchant, Kristina Hawley, Kurtis Ozohse, Jamie Brown and Alyssa Callaghan.

The Journal of the thirty-fourth day was approved as corrected by the following vote:

HOUSE CONCURRENT RESOLUTION NO. 23

WHEREAS, the United States Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) has a responsibility under the federal Clean Air Act to review periodically the National Ambient Air Quality Standards (NAAQS) for ozone and particulate matter (PM); and

WHEREAS, the EPA is considering changes to both NAAQS, which include tightening of the ozone standard and adding a separate standard for particulate matter smaller than two and one-half microns in size (PM 2.5) in addition to the existing standard for particulate matter smaller than ten microns in size (PM 10); and

WHEREAS, states, through their citizens, legislative bodies and regulatory agencies, have worked hard to reduce air pollution and meet clean air requirements; and

WHEREAS, tightened standards could significantly expand the number of nonattainment areas for both standards and result in emissions controls in additional areas, thus imposing significant economic, administrative and regulatory burdens on more citizens, businesses and local governments; and

WHEREAS, there is very little monitoring data for PM 2.5; and

WHEREAS, current research indicates that there are many unanswered questions and uncertainties on the PM issue and the need for a more stringent standard, including divergent opinions among scientists who have investigated this issue; and

WHEREAS, there is considerable uncertainty about the scientific validity of the theories, data, and conclusions upon which the proposed NAAQS are based and the cost and feasibility of complying with them; and

WHEREAS, the EPA's own scientific advisor, the Clean Air Science Advisory Committee (CASAC) has recommended that the EPA proceed cautiously and improve the existing state of scientific knowledge before taking costly steps to further control ozone and fine particle emissions:

NOW, THEREFORE, BE IT RESOLVED that the members of the Missouri House of Representatives of the Eighty-ninth General Assembly, the Senate concurring therein, hereby advise and strongly urge the EPA to retain the existing NAAQS for ozone; and

BE IT FURTHER RESOLVED that the Missouri General Assembly further advises and strongly urges the EPA to reaffirm the existing PM 10 standard and conduct the additional PM 2.5 monitoring and scientific research needed to address the issue of causality and other important unanswered questions before a proposal for a new PM 2.5 standard or a revised PM 10 standard is made; and

BE IT FURTHER RESOLVED that the General Assembly calls upon the EPA to delay its current consideration of the PM 2.5 standard until more information, including sound science and cost-effective data, is available; and

BE IT FURTHER RESOLVED that the General Assembly urges the EPA to identify any unfunded mandates or other administrative and economic burdens for state or local governments or agencies that would derive from changes to the NAAQS for ozone and particulate matter; and

BE IT FURTHER RESOLVED that the Chief Clerk of the Missouri House of Representatives be instructed to prepare properly inscribed copies of this resolution for the President of the United States, the President of the United States Senate, the Speaker of the United States House of Representatives, the Missouri Congressional delegation, the Administrator of the United States Environmental Protection Agency, and the Director of the Missouri Department of Natural Resources.

First Regular Session, 89th General Assembly

THIRTY-SEVENTH DAY, Monday, March 17, 1997

Speaker Gaw in the Chair.

Prayer by Father Hugh Behan.

"Let us not sleep, but keep awake, let us be sober and put on the breastplate of faith and love." (I Thess. 5:8).

This afternoon we return from spring break, refreshed by time at home with family and friends, strengthened by lots of advise from constituents and home-town editorials about how to fix what's wrong. We welcome our new member who will be sworn in today, Rep. Karl DeMarce. It is St. Patrick's Day, a day that is ethnically important for some citizens, a religious observance for some, a spring festival for others, an occasion for a party for others.

We ask for peace for the people of Ireland. Today we also ask for the guidance we need at this traditional half-way mark in the session, gracious God, and we do so in the Irish language: "in anam De an obair seo," in the name of God may this work be done. Amen.

The Pledge of Allegiance to the flag was recited.

The Journal of the thirty-fifth day was approved as corrected.

The Journal of the thirty-sixth day was approved as printed.

First Regular Session, 89th General Assembly

THIRTY-EIGHTH DAY, Tuesday, March 18, 1997

Speaker Gaw in the Chair.

Prayer by Father Hugh Behan.

"How great are his signs, how mighty his wonders." (Dan. 4:3).

As the saying goes, "mother always said there would be days like this." Soggy rain, overcast, somewhere in between winter blahs and spring brightness. Gracious God, we probably should welcome and embrace days like this, but it is not easy to do, especially if we are also feeling the blues as we settle in after spring break. The ancient wise and holy ones advise us to face those days of lesser energy and enthusiasm positively, letting the dark clouds hang for a while over our souls, not wishing them away but letting them be for now. They will pass. For now, we let them be and wait.

We add a prayer today for those who are afraid of a mouse - those with the new computers. Significantly they were installed on St. Patrick's Day - so there are no snakes to swallow them when they rebel and refuse to respond even to our loving, gentle commands! Amen.

The Pledge of Allegiance to the flag was recited.

The Speaker appointed the following to act as Honorary Pages for the Day, to serve without compensation: Tiffany Robertson, Haley Morrissey, Anna Marie Sasfai, Jeffrey Murray, Dawn Lynch, Cookie Joy, Jacquette Caskey, Max Anderson, Katie Ford, William Fambrough III, Phillip Lewis, Erika Streator, Jenny Watson, Meagan Holdman, Bruce Franks, Sara Luebbers, Jonathan Schanuel, Matthew Schanuel, Lindsey Morales, Michelle D. Anderson, and Elizabeth Hornbeck. .

The Journal of the thirty-seventh day was approved as corrected.

First Regular Session, 89th General Assembly

THIRTY-NINTH DAY, Wednesday, March 19, 1997

Speaker Gaw in the Chair.

Prayer by Reverend Cheryl L. Tatham.

In the grand scheme of things, O Holy One, what transpires in this room may not have the significance we would like to think it will. But in the here and now, what happens is of vital importance. Each transaction, each idea, each deed has repercussions on the lives of real, live human beings. Let us never forget that.

Let us also remember that each person brings to this world the uniqueness of who they are - the physical characteristics that the world sees and evaluates; the moral fiber that dictates how life is lived; the gifts of inheritance such as language, culture, tradition. Give us the insight to value and appreciate this about one another so that we never assume superiority, but always protect and safeguard individuality, for it is you, Creator God, who has so gifted us in our diversity.

And now, guide and direct those in this place as they go about the business of the day. Amen.

The Pledge of Allegiance to the flag was recited.

The Speaker appointed the following to act as Honorary Pages for the Day, to serve without compensation: Jonathan Zepp, Ashleigh Day, Andrew Davis, Nicole Stecz,Yvette Becker, Preston Williams, Cedric Whitfield, Meghan Vault, Demetrious Riggins, Natia Trimble, Adam Phillips, Caitlin Rambo, Mickie Walker, Zenobia Davis, Peter Schultz, Michael Hill, Brynn Leslie Clark, Miles Dake, Case Howard, Chris Tennenbaum, Jennie Prewett, Mandy Barnes, Anthony Tennenbaum, Donald Hockman, Shenna Hobbs, Serina Mullinix, Tarrance Perkins, Brian Benson, Brooke Eisenhart, Justin Baker and Eliot Masek.

House Committee Substitute

for

House Resolution No. 340

Whereas, the deer hunters of Missouri have enjoyed many years of successful hunting and have seen both the population and the quality of the deer herds improve over the past forty years; and

Whereas, the Department of Conservation, constitutionally charged with the control, management, restoration, conservation and regulation of bird, fish, game, forestry and all wildlife resources of the state has provided good management of the deer herd and is responsible for the allocation of deer hunting permits; and

Whereas, the Department of Conservation for many years previous has operated a successful mail-in lottery program for the selection of any-deer permits and bonus deer permits; and

Whereas, the Department of Conservation, in 1997, changed the mail-in lottery program to a merchant-based electronic first-come, first-serve program which began at 12:00 midnight on February 1, 1997, even though any-deer permits were increasing by 58%; and

Whereas, the Department of Conservation's new program resulted in completely unnecessary and extremely long lines and caused undue hardships on the loyal hunters, store clerks and merchants of this state; and

Whereas, the Department of Conservation, through poor planning, contributed to the unnecessary amount of time spent by hunters waiting for permits; and

Whereas, the Department of Conservation's start time of 12:00 midnight was a disadvantage for the sick, elderly, and young hunters or for those hunters who work on the weekends and who were unable to stand in line for hours on end; and

Whereas, the Department of Conservation, already enjoying a healthy, dedicated funding source, provided by all the taxpayers and hunters of the State of Missouri, which has allowed the department to carry out its mission; and

Now, therefore, be it resolved by the Missouri House of Representatives that the House herewith reprimand the Department of Conservation for its implementation of the new deer permitting program; and

Be it therefore resolved that the Department of Conservation be reminded of the old saying, "If it ain't broke, don't fix it" is requested by the Missouri House of Representatives to implement a more equitable and cost-effective program of issuing any-deer and bonus deer permits; and

Be it further resolved that the Chief Clerk of the Missouri House of Representatives be instructed to send a copy of this resolution to every Department of Conservation Commissioner and to the Director of the Department of Conservation and that the Department be apprised of the House's displeasure and that the Department modify its actions accordingly.

First Regular Session, 89th General Assembly

FORTIETH DAY, Thursday, March 20, 1997

Speaker Pro Tem Kreider in the Chair.

Prayer by Reverend Cheryl L. Tatham.

Loving God, the complications of everyday life often make it difficult for us to focus on things that take us beyond our own concerns. But here in this place, what concerns one, in reality, concerns all of us. As these representatives face, day after day, the struggles and decisions that affect all of our lives, guide them with wisdom that they might see beyond the present benefit to the greater good; guide them with courage that they might stand up against injustice and foul play; guide them with compassion that they might see faces behind issues.

In each of us there is a desire to do the best we can. Help us all today to realize that desire, to do what we do to the best of our ability, so that at the end of this day, we will hear you, Forgiving God, say to us, "Well done, good and faithful servant."

The Pledge of Allegiance to the flag was recited.

The Speaker appointed the following to act as Honorary Pages for the Day, to serve without compensation: Brian Simpson, Kevin Kondracki, Abby Tucker, Brent Reeder, Lauren Bone, David Casey, Sarah Hageman, Erin Jenner, Craig Wills, Andrew Wills, Matthew Wills, Trevor McCotter, Sean McCotter, Bryan McCotter, Evan McCotter, Rhys McCotter and Amanda Sorenson.

The Journal of the thirty-ninth day was approved as corrected by the following vote:

First Regular Session, 89th General Assembly

FORTY-FIRST DAY, Monday, March 24, 1997

Speaker Gaw in the Chair.

Prayer by Father Hugh Behan.

"What does the Lord require of you but to do justice, and to love kindness, and to walk humbly with your God." (Micah 6:8).

This is Holy Week in the Western Christian calendar. It is a time for acknowledging our sin, the need for a change of heart and a way of looking at our world with God's own viewpoint, with his mind.

Eternal God, Creator and Redeemer, we ask for forgiveness for what we have done to one another knowing that somehow since we are made in Your image, You have identified Yourself with the human person. May this thought inspire more of what we do as we exercise authority in Your name, Lord God, from whom all power comes, for and among the citizens of the State and those with whom we share the responsibility of governing in this chamber and in the Senate and with the Governor and Supreme Court. Amen.

The Pledge of Allegiance to the flag was recited.

The Speaker appointed the following to act as Honorary Pages for the Day, to serve without compensation: Andrea Essner and Angela AuBuchon.

The Journal of the fortieth day was approved as corrected.

First Regular Session, 89th General Assembly

FORTY-SECOND DAY, Tuesday, March 25, 1997

Speaker Pro Tem Kreider in the Chair.

Prayer by Father Hugh Behan.

"Honor everyone." (I Pet. 2;17)

One of my reactions to the Academy Awards nominees and honorees was to marvel at the diversity of our world which is reflected in the films.

Gracious God, we are inclined to live and move in narrowly defined circles, we attend school, we marry, we go to worship with generally like-minded people. We may take some trips to different places, we may have some friends or work with people who are from a different background, but generally we tend to be reinforced in our own value system, and yes, in our own prejudices. It is so difficult for us, therefore, to appreciate the diversity, to get inside the skin of the other. Gracious God, we welcome and celebrate diversity and be open to what is different and to reject stereotypes. Amen.

The Pledge of Allegiance to the flag was recited.

The Speaker appointed the following to act as Honorary Pages for the Day, to serve without compensation: Andrew Rhodes, David Lieber, Joel Meyer, Ryan Ball, Erik McDonald, Adam Covault, Adam Monaco, Brian Fuller, Michael Astrack, Brad Wisbrock, Jamie Exner, Joseph Walsh, Jamie Brewer, William Maue, Andrew Marx, Steven Astrack, Dillion Russel-Kenniston, Rickey Abeln, Benny Vitale, Jonathan Studdard, Mark Verity, James Hammond, Michael Miller, Keith McCord, Christopher Tulk, Jeremy Johnson, Ryan Laudenslager, Stephen Nester, Trent Whitley, Paul Bick, Renee Rardin, Joshua Burr, Alexander Geiselmann, Eric Sweet, Daniel Miller, Greg Abell, Angela Korte, Kylee Dillion, Matt Spalding, Jeremy Kerns, Bryan Metzinger, Sarah Russell, Natalie Malaney, Holly Brand, Anke Scheibler, Alison Casper, Natalie Norlund, Mason Miller, Carolyn Moncrief, Lauren Hutcheson, Trisha Shope, Jacob Walker, Tasha Rinck and Brian Hayes.

First Regular Session, 89th General Assembly

FORTY-THIRD DAY, Wednesday, March 26, 1997

Representative Scheve in the Chair.

Prayer by Reverend Cheryl L. Tatham.

At the mid-point of this week called "Holy" by Christianity, at the mid-point of this second week of spring, at the mid-point of a week of hard work on health care reform and budget considerations, we are in need, O God, of your refreshing spirit in our lives. As the weather becomes warmer, we are reminded of the warmth of your grace. As the trees and flowers burst forth with color, we are reminded that you want for us abundance and goodness. Help those here in this place to seek your counsel when in doubt; to seek your comfort when discouraged; and to seek your peace when fatigue and weariness take their toll.

In all of life help us to remember you, Creator God, who has given us the breath of life for our life, for our very being. Amen.

The Pledge of Allegiance to the flag was recited.

The Speaker appointed the following to act as Honorary Pages for the Day, to serve without compensation: Benjamin Hart, Caroline Hart, Colin Hart, Hannah Hart, Joshua Hart, Ashley Neely, Brent McCauley, Chris Gilmore, Betsy Burgess, Kensey Neely, Kelly Uhlig, Danny Uhlig, Geri Bradshaw, Brent Essner, Neal Essner, Adam Schlosser, Shurene McDowell, Michelle Tucker, Miki Hathaway, Sam Suter, Brittany Kempker, Sam Bexten, Abby Brunnert, Nicholas Luebbert, A. ## First Regular Session, 89th General Assembly

FORTY-FOURTH DAY, Thursday, March 27, 1997

Speaker Pro Tem Kreider in the Chair.

Prayer by Reverend Cheryl L. Tatham.

O Lord, in the aftermath of senseless death in California, young men whose future lay ahead have chosen to take their lives. Comfort their families and help them make some sense out of this tragedy.

O Lord of the voiceless and the nameless, here in these chambers we talk so freely about funding this and allocating that and requiring this and regulating that. Remind us that we often speak for those who can not speak; that we represent those whose names will never be known or recognized beyond their own front doors. Help us remember that there are things in this world which simply cost too much and can't be afforded by any but the very rich; help us remember that some people live each day wondering if they'll live to the next. Help us, Gracious God, in the midst of decision making, to keep in perspective the actions we take and the people they affect.

Grant now your counsel and guidance for these representatives and help them seek your law of love in all that they do. Amen.

The Pledge of Allegiance to the flag was recited.

The Speaker appointed the following to act as Honorary Pages for the Day, to serve without compensation: Jay Warren, Lindsay Warren, Beth Pendino, Michael Pendino, Melissa Lindwedel, Lauren Lindwedel, Brittany Lindwedel, Taylor Lindwedel, Derek Jenkins, Tiffany Wade, Jenni Geigel, Maria Hulmes, Stephanie Herbers, Remember Vergara, Jessica Palmer, Ryan Richard, Kristina Combs, Danny Colle, Nicole Jackson, Jim Fox, Krissy Deschler, Steven Brummond, Jamie Hoberg, Brandon Williams, Hannah Feltes, Tasha Smith, Nick Macheca, Hannah Miller, Jessica Miller, Andrea Rutledge, Tonya Koger, Stefanie Eslinger, LaVell Williams, Jodie Walker, Julie Walker, Brittany N. ## First Regular Session, 89th General Assembly

FORTY-FIFTH DAY, Tuesday, April 1, 1997

Speaker Gaw in the Chair.

Prayer by Reverend Cheryl L. Tatham.

As we come into these halls again, Gracious God, we've read the news stories of the charismatic leader who preached and taught seemingly absurd concepts of life and death. As the April anniversary approaches, we're reminded of actions in Oklahoma City that shocked our nation and changed forever the lives of hundreds of people. And yet we know there is good: there are people working hard to see that our children receive the educations they deserve; there are people working hard to see that men, women and children receive adequate health care; there are people working hard to insure better roads, fairer laws, and equal opportunities. There IS good news but it doesn't often make the front pages.

As these representatives come to this week with their own agendas and needs, help them remember these words of a wise person: "Lord, help us accept the things we can't change; give us courage to change the things we can, and grant us the wisdom to know the difference." Amen.

The Pledge of Allegiance to the flag was recited.

The Speaker appointed the following to act as Honorary Pages for the Day, to serve without compensation: Andrew Foley, Fhonda Loveless, Emily Neill, Ricky Renfroe, Michael Ha, Liesl Schoenberger, Layne Strattman, Danny Robert, Marcus LeGrand, Brad Wicker, Virginia Green, Hasan El-Fahmawi, Lacy Wood, Thomas Kissell, Brandon Ketsenburg, Diana Watson and Laura Watson.

The Journal of the forty-fourth day was approved as corrected.

First Regular Session, 89th General Assembly

FORTY-SIXTH DAY, Wednesday, April 2, 1997

Speaker Gaw in the Chair.

Prayer by Father Hugh Behan.

"This is the day the Lord has made, let us rejoice and be glad in it." Psalm 118 and the Easter Liturgy.

Gracious God: We rejoice in the springtime of the year here in Missouri, even as we turn our thoughts to those in the northeast who are still experiencing winter weather. Our Jewish and Christian religious traditions also experience and celebrate that springtime on a deeper spiritual level with the rituals of Easter now and Passover later this month. We pray for all who are burdened by guilt, pain, illnesses, family troubles, or memories of past hurts or days long ago that appear to have been better than things are today.

Renew the spirit of hope and healing love in our hearts, give courage to those who see things as they are and ask why not do it differently or better. Amen.

The Pledge of Allegiance to the flag was recited.

The Speaker appointed the following to act as Honorary Pages for the Day, to serve without compensation: Kathy Morton, Jamie Audsley, Adam Hubbard, Rebecca Tillery, Amanda Sandwith, Tiffany Crews, Kendra Butcher, B. J. 375.786. 1. It shall be unlawful for any insurance company to transact insurance business in this state, as set forth in subsection 2, without a certificate of authority from the director; provided, however, that this section shall not apply to:

(1) The lawful transaction of insurance as provided in chapter 384, RSMo;

(2) The lawful transaction of reinsurance by insurance companies;

(3) Transactions in this state involving a policy lawfully solicited, written and delivered outside of this state covering only subjects of insurance not resident, located or expressly to be performed in this state at the time of issuance, and which transactions are subsequent to the issuance of such policy;

(4) Attorneys acting in the ordinary relation of attorney and client in the adjustment of claims or losses;

(5) Transactions in this state involving group life and group sickness and accident or blanket sickness and accident insurance or group annuities where the master policy of such groups was lawfully issued and delivered in and pursuant to the laws of a state in which the insurance company was authorized to do an insurance business, to a group organized for purposes other than the procurement of insurance, and where the policyholder is domiciled or otherwise has a bona fide situs;

(6) Transactions in this state involving any policy of insurance or annuity contract issued prior to August 13, 1972;

(7) Transactions in this state relative to a policy issued or to be issued outside this state involving insurance on vessels, craft or hulls, cargoes, marine builder's risk, marine protection and indemnity or other risk, including strikes and war risks commonly insured under ocean or wet marine forms of policy;

(8) Except as provided in chapter 384, RSMo, transactions in this state involving contracts of insurance issued to one or more industrial insureds; provided that nothing herein shall relieve an industrial insured from taxation imposed upon independently procured insurance. An "industrial insured" is hereby defined as an insured:

(a) Which procures the insurance of any risk or risks other than life, health and annuity contracts by use of the services of a full-time employee acting as an insurance manager or buyer or the services of a regularly and continuously retained qualified insurance consultant;

(b) Whose aggregate annual premiums for insurance excluding workers' compensation insurance premiums total at least twenty-five thousand dollars; and

(c) Which has at least twenty-five full-time employees;

(9) Transactions in this state involving life insurance, health insurance or annuities provided to educational or religious or charitable institutions organized and operated without profit to any private shareholder or individual for the benefit of such institutions and individuals engaged in the service of such institutions, provided that any company issuing such contracts [under] pursuant to this paragraph shall not be subject to any guarantee fund assessments by its state of domicile, and shall:

(a) File a copy of any policy or contract issued to Missouri residents with the director;

(b) File a copy of its annual statement prepared pursuant to the laws of its state of domicile, as well as such other financial material as may be requested, with the director; and

(c) Provide, in such form as may be acceptable to the director, for the appointment of the director as its true and lawful attorney upon whom may be served all lawful process in any action or proceeding against such company arising out of any policy or contract it has issued to, or which is currently held by, a Missouri citizen, and process so served against such company shall have the same form and validity as if served upon the company.

2. Any of the following acts in this state effected by mail or otherwise by or on behalf of an unauthorized insurance company is deemed to constitute the transaction of an insurance business in this state: (The venue of an act committed by mail is at the point where the matter transmitted by mail is delivered and takes effect. Unless otherwise indicated, the term "insurance company" as used in sections 375.786 to 375.790 includes all corporations, associations, partnerships and individuals engaged as principals in the business of insurance and also includes interinsurance exchanges and mutual benefit societies.)

(1) The making of or proposing to make an insurance contract;

(2) The making of or proposing to make, as guarantor or surety, any contract of guaranty or suretyship as a vocation and not merely incidental to any other legitimate business or activity of the guarantor or surety;

(3) The taking or receiving of any application for insurance;

(4) The receiving or collection of any premium, commission, membership fees, assessments, dues or other consideration for any insurance or any part thereof;

(5) The issuance or delivery of contracts of insurance to residents of this state or to persons authorized to do business in this state;

(6) Directly or indirectly acting as an agent for or otherwise representing or aiding on behalf of another any person or insurance company in the solicitation, negotiation, procurement or effectuation of insurance or renewals thereof or in the dissemination of information as to coverage or rates, or forwarding of applications, or delivery of policies or contracts, or inspection of risks, a fixing of rates or investigation or adjustment of claims or losses or in the transaction of matters subsequent to effectuation of the contract and arising out of it, or in any other manner representing or assisting a person or insurance company in the transaction of insurance with respect to subjects of insurance resident, located or to be performed in this state. The provisions of this subsection shall not operate to prohibit full-time salaried employees of a corporate insured from acting in the capacity of an insurance manager or buyer in placing insurance in behalf of such employer;

(7) The transaction of any kind of insurance business specifically recognized as transacting an insurance business within the meaning of the statutes relating to insurance;

(8) The transacting or proposing to transact any insurance business in substance equivalent to any of the foregoing in a manner designed to evade the provisions of the statutes.

3. (1) The failure of an insurance company transacting insurance business in this state to obtain a certificate of authority shall not impair the validity of any act or contract of such insurance company and shall not prevent such insurance company from defending any action at law or suit in equity in any court of this state, but no insurance company transacting insurance business in this state without a certificate of authority shall be permitted to maintain an action in any court of this state to enforce any right, claim or demand arising out of the transaction of such business until such insurance company shall have obtained a certificate of authority.

(2) In the event of failure of any such unauthorized insurance company to pay any claim or loss within the provisions of such insurance contract, any person who assisted or in any manner aided directly or indirectly in the procurement of such insurance contract shall be liable to the insured for the full amount of the claim or loss in the manner provided by the provisions of such insurance contract.

First Regular Session, 89th General Assembly

FORTY-SEVENTH DAY, Thursday, April 3, 1997

Speaker Gaw in the Chair.

Prayer by Reverend Cheryl L. Tatham.

Creator God, we come today with thanksgiving for the warmth of spring and the freshness of rain.

We come to the end of this week with mixed feelings - feelings of satisfaction for things accomplished; feelings of frustration for things left undone or projects defeated; feelings of weariness from long, hard days; and feelings of anticipation in looking forward to a few days home with family and friends.

As these representatives travel this weekend, keep them safe. Give them good nights' sleep. Refresh their spirits and their bodies so that when they return they can once again tackle the responsibilities placed in their hands by the people of Missouri.

Grant them peace of mind, O God, in knowing that they have performed their job to the best of their ability. Amen.

The Pledge of Allegiance to the flag was recited.

The Speaker appointed the following to act as Honorary Pages for the Day, to serve without compensation: Thomas Kiphart, Kyle Gaffney, Stephanie Grieve, Joe Braasch, Sarah Tedrow, Steven Yanda, Corey Henry, Elizabeth Beardslee, Joshua Beardslee, Sarah Riley-Land, Katie Dillingham, Kelly O'Brien, Eric Neibhors, Ayten Kerimova, Anna Belova, Anna Klokova, Anna Larkina, Natasha Makarova, Luda Milashenko, Arkadiy Vershebunyuk, Tatyana Zadorozhnaya, Ben Pernet, Sebastien Boudet, Emilio Zucca, Johanna Juvonen, Valerina Daniel, Elvymel Suarez, Frank Vanney, Megan Marie Gross, Madelynn Ann Gross, Drew Whitehall, Kevin Bamber, Jennifer Jett, Taylor Bragg, Lauren Keil, Reba Anderson and Katie Dillingham.

WHEREAS, the members of the Missouri General Assembly always deem it proper and necessary to remember those service men and women who have faithfully answered our nation's call to arms in times of crisis; and

WHEREAS, the unexpected and overwhelming attack of enemy ships on the minimally prepared and unescorted group of LST's in the T-4 Convoy, in the early morning hours of April 28, 1944, ended in the death of 749 U.S. troops of those, 198 sailors, 551 soldiers of which 196 were from Missouri's 3206th Quarter Master Service Company, as well as injuries to hundreds more, but provided valuable lessons that contributed to the success of the historic D-Day Invasion and thus to the outcome of World War II; and

WHEREAS, on April 28, 1997, the Veterans of Foreign Wars Post 280 and the Missouri Exercise Tiger Association will host a special ceremony to commemorate the 53rd Anniversary of Exercise Tiger, the first such ceremony to be held in the state of Missouri by a VFW post to officially honor this forgotten World War II battle; and

First Regular Session, 89th General Assembly

FORTY-EIGHTH DAY, Monday, April 7, 1997

Speaker Gaw in the Chair.

Prayer by Father Hugh Behan.

"Leave your country, your family, and your parental home, for the land I will show you." (Yahweh to Abram in Gen. 12:1)

The presence of the Flex liner train, designed in the Capital City, today reminds us of the metaphor of the journey which is used throughout the Hebrew and Christian Bible and in the stories of other major faiths to describe the spiritual life.

Gracious God, we ask the guidance we need to leave where we are, to go where you wish us to be, in our personal journal and in the journey of the faith-group and various communities to which we belong. There is always some fear mixed with excitement, some willingness to change mixed with a desire to cling to where we are in all of our journeys. Give us the willingness, O God on whose direction we rely, to listen to each other, so we may know from whence we have come and to have some sense of where we are going. We also ask today for some practical help with the very human journeys and the practical decisions we need to make about transportation in our rapidly changing world, on our roads, rail lines, waterways, and in the air. Amen.

The Pledge of Allegiance to the flag was recited.

The Journal of the forty-seventh day was approved as corrected.

First Regular Session, 89th General Assembly

FORTY-NINTH DAY, Tuesday, April 8, 1997

Speaker Pro Tem Kreider in the Chair.

Prayer by Father Hugh Behan.

"Aim at righteousness, faith, love and peace." (2 Tim. 2:22)

Today's news includes word of the capture of a triple murder and burglary and robbery suspect in the Ozarks. It gives us an opportunity to reflect on the reliance we have and the debt we owe to all law enforcement and public safety personnel.

Gracious God, we thank you today for those women and men who serve us in those professions. We often fuss when we get caught for a traffic ticket but it takes large man-hunts like this one from time to time to help us realize the complexity of the job of keeping public order and of the extraordinary work needed to coordinate all the agencies and the commitment of those who give up their own comfort and risk their own lives routinely for us.

We ask for a deeper appreciation of the rule of law, for respect for those who enforce it and support for the system of justice. May a true spirit of fairness and justice for all, based on your compassion, God of Mercy, permeate all of our legal proceedings. Amen.

The Pledge of Allegiance to the flag was recited.

The Speaker appointed the following to act as Honorary Pages for the Day, to serve without compensation: Melody Morgan, Shane Clinton, Kristen Caldwell, Erin Culbertson, Maggy Clark, Billy Clark, Annelise Carr, Lee Kraus, Florencia Becco, Stephen Hughes, Katie Underhill, Raymond Zhang, Darryl Williams, Amanda Deutsch, Amy Mashburn, Matthew Hardy, Caroline Mashburn, Candace Carter, Ashley Edwards, Sean Panilawon, Trenton Walker, Chris Byrd, Tanea Graves, Chris Rehagen, Nathan Wilhoit, Katie Hutchinson, Megan McCoy, Joey Bysor and Jessica L.
